THE UNITED STATES will have a little "Devil's Island" of its own, much more secure than the French "Devil's Island" whence criminals escape often.

The department of justice will supply "devils" for the island in the shape of bad men, prison-breakers, kidnapers, and other bad characters that make life unbearable.

The new "Devil's Island" is now a military prison on Alcatraz island in San Francisco bay. The twelve acres of island space are located on a high rock, with currents running swiftly all around. Nobody has ever escaped. Attorney-General Cummings says kidnapers, and others sentenced for life, will really stay in prison when they enter one of the 600 very safe cells on Alcatraz.

A SCIENTIST says "feed cod liver oil to your chickens." And tells of hens that laid $125 worth more eggs.

WHITMAN SEEKS ELECTION DATE

Candidate for Congress
Move Against Allen

AMITE, La., Oct. 14.—(AP)—E. M. Whitman, candidate for the congress seat left vacant by the death of Representative Bolivar Kemp last spring, today hinted an impeachment movement against Gov. O. K. Allen and said he planned to apply to the United States supreme court for relief unless the governor immediately called a special election to fill the congressional vacancy.

In a letter to the governor, Whitman said he would wait five days for the election call and if it were not forthcoming would go direct to the supreme court for writs of mandamus to force the holding of an election. The congress seat has been vacant for four months.

Whitman previously applied to the federal district court for such a mandamus but the action was dismissed "for lack of jurisdiction."

Two other candidates, Congressman Kemp's widow, and State Senator J. V. Sanders, Jr., are also seeking to succeed Kemp.

Whitman's open letter to the governor said in part:

"The people of the sixth congressional district will have been without representation for four long months on the 19th of October, and I am writing to insist upon an immediate reply from you as to whether you intend to call this election in accordance with your sworn duty in exercising your authority as governor of the state of Louisiana. The people throughout the sixth congressional district are demanding your compliance with the laws of Louisiana and of the United States of America."

"Of course you realize that your sworn oath of office in calling this election is nothing short of misfeasance. I hope by your immediate calling of this election you will not make it necessary for me to exercise my prerogative and duty as a citizen to carry mandamus proceedings to the supreme court of the United States. Should you fail to call the election you undoubtedly further realize that you are subject to impeachment at a special session of the next regular session of the legislature, according to article 9, section 1, of the constitution of the state of Louisiana, which reads: 'All state and district officers, whether elected or appointed, shall be liable to impeachment for high crimes and misdemeanors in office, incompetency, corruption, favoritism, extortion or oppression in office, or for gross misconduct, or habitual drunkenness.'"

"Your definite calling of the election within five days, or your refusal to do so in that time, will be expected."

Walton is the oldest policeman in the city of service on the police force. He had been serving as acting chief during the illness of Mr. Higginbotham.

The council considered two other candidates for the post, Smith Stevenson, deputy sheriff, and Gus Calhoun, known local citizens. The vote of the council was unanimous, Mayor Ludlum announced.

TEXAS DEPUTIES SEIZE ESCAPED ANGOLA CONVICT

Dallas Hunter Is Captured While Sleeping on Bed of Leaves

MAKES NO RESISTANCE

Prisoner and Charley Frazier Both Are Held at Clarksville

CLARKSVILLE, Texas, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Dallas Hunter, escaped convict from the Angola, La., penitentiary, was captured late today near Clarksville, in the same locality where Charley Frazier, another escaped Angola convict, was captured several days ago. Both men were held in jail here and officers refused to say what disposition would be made of the prisoners.

"He was asleep on a bed of leaves right out in a clearing in the timber," Sheriff Ross Smiley said tonight, "and didn't even know the deputies were there until they covered him and waked him up." He said Hunter had a 45 caliber pistol beside him but did not attempt to use it.

Deputies A. C. Lemon, J. N. Geer and Jim Francis made the capture, after trailing Hunter all day yesterday, last night and today. They said he had dodged back and forth through the timber and hid last night in a hay barn.

Sheriff Smiley said he didn't know whether the men would be returned to Louisiana immediately or not.

"We'll have to consider first several kidnappings and robberies around here in the last few days," he added, mentioning the abduction of five men near Box Elder yesterday and the theft of their automobile, shortly before Frazier and a woman companion, identified as Dorothy Davis of Alexandria, La., were captured.

Pursuit of the group began after several stores were robbed of merchandise valued at $1,000 at Deport, near Paris.

The capture of Hunter accounts for all but two of the twelve convicts who broke out of the Angola, Louisiana, prison during a baseball game on Sunday, September 13. Seven guards or convicts were slain in the break and subsequent gun battles.

BEER BOUT ENDS IN FATAL FIGHT

Playful Scuffle Over Man's Straw Hat Is Ended With Tragedy

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 14.—(AP)—A playful scuffle between a group of 200-pound customers in a beer parlor today ended fatally for one of them. It started with a bit of kidding over one of them wearing a straw hat in mid-October. It ended when a newcomer mistook the sparring for the real thing and started swinging heavy fists.

William A. Duncan, 45, six feet tall, weighing 210, went down, striking his head on the marble floor. He was dead when an ambulance arrived.

Orey Tanner, 29, six feet three, weight 200, the newcomer, surrendered to police.

It happened in the beer parlor run by Winfield Tanner brother of Orey. There were a half dozen men, big men and hearty, at the bar, when the kidding started over a customer's straw hat. The hat was passed around from hand to hand, and then from foot to foot. It ended up an unrecognizable mass. But everybody took it good naturedly. Someone thought up a playful sparring match over the hat and that was when Orey Tanner came in. Friends said he mixed in on a serious basis when he fought his brother, proprietor of the place, would be hurt.

The district attorney said a manslaughter charge was under consideration.

Machado Is Understood To Be in United States

BOARD MOVES TO MEDIATE STRIKES

Secretary Perkins Sees Nothing Alarming in Labor Situations

(By Associated Press)

A declaration that there was "nothing alarming" about labor troubles in a dozen industries came yesterday from Secretary of Labor Perkins as the national labor board at Washington took action toward settlement of two strikes.

Miss Perkins said most of the industrial walkouts had occurred because of misunderstandings between employers and employees over collective bargaining for labor.

The labor board took action to bring strikes in Pennsylvania steel mills and in mid-western automobile factories to public hearings. It was disclosed, also, that a powerful weapon was being forged to bring "unreasonable" strikers to terms.

The weapon was that of relief rations Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, announced it had been agreed between his administration and the federal labor department that relief "could be withdrawn" from strikers whose cause the labor department found to be "unreasonable and unjustified."

The strikes for which hearings were called were those of the Weirton, W. Va., steel workers and the tool makers of Detroit, Flint and Pontiac.

The Weirton picket line was quiet, and in Sullivan, Ind., national guards enforced peace in the coal strike area. Southern Illinois' trouble zone—at Harrisburg—was also peaceful.

The national labor board continued its efforts to settle the east coast's milk strike, affecting 65,000 workers.

Celebration at Ruston Concluded Last Night

RUSTON, La., Oct. 14.—(AP)—With Friday's rain clouds displaced today by beautiful autumn weather, Ruston's semi-centennial exposition reached a successful climax.

A magnificent parade wound through the town headed by Miss Charlotte Davis, queen of the semi-centennial, and Miss Jewel Smith, queen of the Louisiana Tech homecoming and joined by pioneers of Lincoln parish, home-coming alumni of the college, Boy Scouts of the fifth Louisiana district, a company of Louisiana national guards, 200 C. C. camp boys and thousands of visitors.

The parade ended at Tech field where the Louisiana Tech and Southwestern grid teams clashed at 2:30.

Preceding the game a barbecue lunch was served to several thousand Tech alumni and visitors on the college campus.

Tonight the four-day celebration closed with an old-fashioned street dance.

FRANCE MAY GIVE OUT SECRET DATA ON GERMAN ARMS

French Claim to Have Evidence That Old Foe Has War Machine

SITUATION IS GRAVE

Chief Nations of World Receive Withdrawal News With Shock

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press)

PARIS, Oct. 14.—(AP)—France, determined at any cost not to relinquish military advantage over Germany, may publish at the Geneva disarmament conference her closely guarded dossier of evidence that Germany for years has been secretly building a war machine, it was indicated today.

Secret agents, French and German, in addition to the ordinary intelligence officers who conduct espionage activities, have gathered material for the dossier for years.

The facts are under close guard in the foreign office. They allege to show Germany during the boom years expanded her metallurgical and chemical industry to a point where manufacture of tanks, planes, firearms and artillery, and poison gas could be started on mass production basis with only overnight notice.

Premier Edouard Daladier may make public the secret file if events at Geneva warrant it, it was said.

But knowing both the power of the weapon and the bitterness its publication would cause, the government

TAMMANY, M'KEE DEFEND LEHMAN

New York Governor Given Aid After Attacks by Seabury

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Tammany Hall joined Joseph V. McKee, independent mayoral candidate, today in scurrying to the defense of quiet, retiring Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, repeatedly attacked by Samuel Seabury, fusion strategist.

Hailing Seabury's criticisms of the record of Lehman, friend of President Roosevelt, as a political blunder, forces behind Mayor John P. O'Brien, Tammany nominee, and McKee raced each other in attempts to capitalize on them.

Gov. Lehman found himself the central figure in the city's bitterest mayoral campaign in years—with Tammany hall, which fought unsuccessfully last year against the president and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith to block his nomination, joining in his defense.

His voice shaking, Seabury had repeated his charge that Gov. Lehman

Canker of Politics Eats Deeply Into Every Department of L.S.U.

This is another of a series of articles on assessments, taxation and the costs of government in Louisiana. The author, from long experience in public affairs, is thoroughly familiar with the subject and his purpose is to tell in simple language that all may understand how the state and its agencies handle the huge volume of funds derived from a greater variety of taxes, licenses, etc., than any other state has.

The canker of politics, eating deeply into practically every department of the Louisiana state university, is responsible for some queer contradictions. It has produced some penny-pinchers and some free spenders; there is simplicity and ostentation, niggardliness and generosity in treatment of professors and students, progress and retrogression.

As has been abundantly established by the record, Senator Long is the directing force at the university, although officially he has absolutely no connection with it. The governor of Louisiana is ex-officio chairman of the board of supervisors of the institution, but United States senators are not a part of its organization. Of course in Louisiana public affairs Governor Allen is reckoned a cipher as large as a horse collar—the cipher before the 1 and not after it. But at least he has an official connection with the university, and Senator Long has not.

However, this little technicality of law (hitherto, Mr. Long would style it) is not permitted to interfere with any plans the senior senator may have in mind for the conduct of the university. And he has lots of them. There is a board, of course, and a faculty, and a student body, and an alumni. But, none of these forces count. In university affairs, Senator Long is the alpha and omega of officialdom.

ROGERS HAS HIS SAY

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 14.—It must be terribly discouraging to Mr. Roosevelt, after eight months of hard work to try to get people a job, to have 'em strike the minute they get it.

It looks like all these dissatisfied groups instead of striking would keep on working and lay their complaints before the government, with the proviso that if it's settled in their favor, they get the extra back pay. Labor has seen enough of Roosevelt to know he is in sympathy with 'em, and that in a government arbitration they will get a square deal. Help your company to start making some money, and when they do, Roosevelt will see that you get a fair part of it.

If American labor would work while their case is being arbitrated, instead of striking, they would have the gratitude of our president, and the sympathy of everybody.

Yours,

Phil Rogers.

2 OTHERS HELD IN CHURCH WAR

Men Who Were With Crowley During Killing Are Arrested

JONESBORO, Ark., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Two men who were with the Rev. Dale S. Crowley, Baptist minister, shot J. W. Macmurdoo, aged janitor, at the Jonesboro Baptist Tabernacle last Tuesday as an outgrowth of a church feud, were charged as accessories to murder in warrants issued late today by A. U. Talbot, deputy prosecutor.

They are Tom Carter, former deputy sheriff and watchman at the tabernacle, and L. H. Kayre, a building contractor.

JONESBORO, Ark., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Rev. Dale S. Crowley, Baptist minister, was ordered held for grand jury action without bond at a preliminary hearing today on a first degree murder charge for the slaying of J. W. Macmurdoo, aged janitor of the Jonesboro Baptist Tabernacle.

Crowley, who had just been recognized by a court order as pastor of the tabernacle when the shooting occurred last Tuesday as a climax to intermittent disturbances over a pasture dispute, was brought from a jail at Newport for the hearing. The city hall was guarded and spectators were barred from the court room.

The prosecution called three witnesses. No testimony was given for the defense. Crowley's attorneys announced they would file habeas corpus proceedings next week in an effort to gain his release under bond.

Nitroglycerine Given As Cause of Air Crash

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Nitroglycerine tonight was assigned by investigators as the probable explosive that sent a United Air Line transport plane crashing to earth with the loss of seven lives.

Federal officials said the explosive probably was attached to a timing device that caused it to explode as the plane approached Chicago Thursday night. The huge ship crashed near Chesterton, Ind.

The investigation centered at New York and Cleveland, where the three-mile-a-minute passenger ship had made its last stops, after an official of the air line said had himself been convinced an explosion caused the crash.

The former rail fare for both Pullman and coaches was three and six-tenths cents. The new order lays off the six-tenths of a cent on Pullman rail fares and one and six-tenths from the coach fare.

Fire Causes Three to Be Hurt at Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Fires caused three men to be injured here today.

Thomas J. Wells, 55, was cut and bruised when his car was struck at an intersection by a fire engine answering an alarm at a nitrate warehouse near the river. Charles Koch, fireman, was thrown to the ground, suffering numerous brush burns.

Trapped by flames which broke out in a South Peters street importing office, Lawrence Gautreaux, negro, was forced to leap from a window and was seriously injured.

Paris Receives Decision as Gravest News in 20 Years; Nazi Chief Gives Nation's Stand in World Speech

GENEVA SADDENED BY DICTUM

Chancellor Asserts Land Refuses to Be Country of Second Class Rights; Hindenburg Dissolves Reichstag

(By the Associated Press)

Germany dramatically withdrew from the league of nations Saturday and abandoned participation in the disarmament conference.

Announcement of her action was received in Geneva with consternation and sadness and the dictum was received in Paris as "the gravest news in twenty years."

Simultaneously with Chancellor Hitler's action a decree was issued by President Von Hindenburg dissolving the German reichstag and all state parliaments and setting new reichstag elections for November 12.

This was done so that a vote of all Germans, by endorsing the Nazi members of the reichstag, would demonstrate to the world the country's solidarity behind Chancellor Hitler in the crisis.

Avowing Germany's passionate devotion to peace, Hitler declared the reich is ready and willing to go the limit in disarmament—but warned that if other nations are to arm, the German demand for equality must not be sidetracked.

The government's proclamation read: "Germany is ready to destroy the last German machine gun and dismiss the last German soldier if other nations will do likewise."

Into the breach between Geneva and Berlin, the United States ambassador at large, Norman Davis, injected this stand: "... A disarmament conference could not properly be made an instrument for rearmament... qualitative equality in armaments should be sought through the reduction in the armaments of the heavily armed powers and not through acts on the part of others to attempt to build up."

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Germany boldly announced her withdrawal today from the league of nations and the world disarmament conference.

This she did because she refused to be a nation of second class rights, Chancellor Hitler declared, "and wants equality and honor."

Hitler told the world the German government and people are "animated by no other wish than to help end the human epoch of tragic error, regrettable quarrel, and fight."

In a dramatic speech, the chancellor condemned the post-war Versailles treaty, long a thorn in Germany's side, and maintained there "is no possibility of territorial conflicts between France and Germany."

He poured forth his nation's hopes and grievances, he spoke the country's need for defensive weapons, declared that "the men who today lead Germany have nothing in common with the paid traitors of November, 1918," and maintained the German people regard themselves as guiltless for the World War.

Then, to give the people the chance

Rates Are Cut Down By Missouri Pacific

Reduction of railroad passenger rates and elimination of the Pullman surcharge, to be effective December 1, was announced Saturday night by Missouri Pacific officials here. The reductions, authorized by the interstate commerce commission, will apply to all railroads in the southwestern association, which includes all lines west of the Mississippi river.

Beginning December 1, according to the announcement, the regular railroad fare for travel in coaches will be two cents a mile; for travel in Pullman cars the railroad fare will be three cents a mile. The surcharge for Pullman berths, which has been a bone of contention for several years, will be eliminated. The surcharge represented an addition of 50 per cent of the regular price for sleeping accommodations on Pullman trains.

The former rail fare for both Pullman and coaches was three and six-tenths cents. The new order lays off the six-tenths of a cent on Pullman rail fares and one and six-tenths from the coach fare.

'Pretty Boy' Floyd Seen in California

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Search for Charles ('Pretty Boy') Floyd, notorious southwestern outlaw, spread along the California coast today with reports he was seen at Ventura, 70 miles north of here, headed toward San Francisco.

The reports were carried in a police teletype message.

Police Chief William Neel of Ventura notified local police Floyd was seen yesterday by a boyhood acquaintance. The informant said he chatted with him and two male companions, while they filled the gasoline tank of their car at a service station. A small girl was said to have been in the back seat.

Mrs. Kelly Won't Be Moved Till Wednesday

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Kathryn Kelly, wife of "Machine Gun George," and her mother, Mrs. R. G. Shannon, both under sentence of life imprisonment for the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping, probably will remain in the county jail here until next Wednesday, authorities indicated today.

Reports which could not be confirmed said the blue-eyed Kathryn would be taken to the federal women's workhouse at Cincinnati and her mother to a similar prison at Memphis.

2 HOLDUPS ARE REPORTED HERE

White Man Robbed Near Golf Links While in Parked Auto

Two holdups were reported to police headquarters Saturday night, one occurring near the Missouri Pacific railroad yard and the other on a cut-off street back of the municipal golf course. One of the victims was a white man whose name was withheld and the other was Will Evans, negro, living in house No. 58 on Dixie street.

The holdup of the white man occurred back of the golf course. He said two negroes approached his parked car from high grass at the side of the street and that one of the negroes put a pistol on him, while the other robbed him of his wrist watch and keys, including his automobile key. The man said the negroes did not take any money from him, as he began yelling and they became frightened and ran away. Police officers who answered the call pushed the man's car to a filling station, as he was unable to drive it without the key.

Evans reported that he was robbed by three negroes, two of whom he believed to have pistols. He was unable to give an accurate description of the negroes, for the reason that they kept a flashlight in his face, making it difficult for him to see them. Evans said the robbers obtained $4.40 in money and a small amount of groceries from him.

Several robberies of the kind which occurred near the golf course were said by police to have occurred recently, but in a number of instances no official reports have been made. A series of robberies of this kind occurred several months ago, but was halted temporarily when officers began watching secluded spots in an effort to apprehend the robbers.

University Menaced By Long's Dictation

Canker of Politics Eats Deeply Into Every Department of L.S.U.

This is another of a series of articles on assessments, taxation and the costs of government in Louisiana. The author, from long experience in public affairs, is thoroughly familiar with the subject and his purpose is to tell in simple language that all may understand how the state and its agencies handle the huge volume of funds derived from a greater variety of taxes, licenses, etc., than any other state has.

The canker of politics, eating deeply into practically every department of the Louisiana state university, is responsible for some queer contradictions. It has produced some penny-pinchers and some free spenders; there is simplicity and ostentation, niggardiness and generosity in treatment of professors and students, progress and retrogression.

As has been abundantly established by the record, Senator Long is the directing force at the university, although officially he has absolutely no connection with it. The governor of Louisiana is ex-officio chairman of the board of supervisors of the institution, but United States senators are not a part of its organization. Of course in Louisiana public affairs Governor Allen is reckoned

SITUATION IS GRAVE

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press)

PARIS, Oct. 14.—(U.P.)—France, determined at any cost not to relinquish military advantage over Germany, may publish at the Geneva disarmament conference her closely guarded dossier of evidence that Germany for years has been secretly building a war machine, it was indicated today. Secret agents, French and German, in addition to the ordinary intelligence officers who conduct espionage activities, have gathered material for the dossier for years.

The facts are under close guard in the foreign office. They allege to show Germany during the boom years expanded her metallurgical and chemical industry to a point where manufacture of tanks, planes, firearms and artillery, and poison gas could be started on mass production basis with only overnight notice.

Premier Edouard Daladier may make public the secret file if events at Geneva warrant it, it was said. But knowing both the power of the weapon and the bitterness its publication would cause, the government

TAMMANY, M'KEE DEFEND LEHMAN

New York Governor Given Aid After Attacks by Seabury

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(P)—Tammany Hall joined Joseph V. McKee, independent mayoral candidate, today in scurrying to the defense of quiet, retiring Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, repeatedly attacked by Samuel Seabury, fusion strategist.

Hailing Seabury's criticisms of the record of Lehman, friend of President Roosevelt, as a political blunder, forces behind Mayor John P. O'Brien, Tammany nominee, and McKee raced each other in attempts to capitalize on them.

Gov. Lehman found himself the central figure in the city's bitterest mayoral campaign in years—with Tammany hall, which fought unsuccessfully last year against the president and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith to block his nomination, joining in his defense.

ROGERS HAS HIS SAY

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 14.

—It must be terribly discouraging to Mr. Roosevelt, after eight months of hard work to try to get people a job, to have 'em strike the minute they get it.

It looks like all these dissatisfied groups instead of striking would keep on working and lay their complaints before the government, with the proviso that if it's settled in their favor, they get the extra back pay. Labor has seen enough of Roosevelt to know he is in sympathy with 'em, and that in a government arbitration they will get a square deal. Help your company to start making some money, and when they do, Roosevelt will see that you get a fair part of it.

If American labor would work while their case is being arbitrated, instead of striking, they would have the gratitude of our president, and the sympathy of everybody.

Yours,

Wile Rogers.

2 OTHERS HELD IN CHURCH WAR

Men Who Were With Crowley During Killing Are Arrested

JONESBORO, Ark., Oct. 14.—(P)—Two men who were with the Rev. Dale S. Crowley when the minister shot J. W. Macmurdoo, aged janitor, at the Jonesboro Baptist Tabernacle last Tuesday as an outgrowth of a church feud, were charged as accessories to murder in warrants issued late today by A. U. Tadlock, deputy prosecutor.

They are Tom Carter, former deputy sheriff and watchman at the tabernacle, and L. H. Kayre, a building contractor.

JONESBORO, Ark., Oct. 14.—(P)—The Rev. Dale S. Crowley, Baptist minister, was ordered held for grand jury action without bond at a preliminary hearing today on a first-degree murder charge for the slaying of J. W. Macmurdoo, aged janitor of the Jonesboro Baptist Tabernacle.

Crowley, who had just been recognized by a court order as pastor of the tabernacle when the shooting occurred last Tuesday as a climax to intermittent disturbances over a pastoral dispute, was brought from a jail at Newport for the hearing. The city hall was guarded and spectators were barred from the court room.

The prosecution called three witnesses. No testimony was given for the defense. Crowley's attorneys announced they would file habeas corpus proceedings next week in an effort to gain his release under bond.

Nitroglycerine Given As Cause of Air Crash

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—(P)—Nitroglycerin tonight was assigned by investigators as the probable explosive that sent a United Air Line transport plane crashing to earth with the loss of seven lives.

Federal officials said the explosive probably was attached to a timing device that caused it to explode as the plane approached Chicago Thursday night. The huge ship crashed near Chesterton, Ind.

The investigation centered at New York and Cleveland, where the three-mile-a-minute passenger ship had made its last stops, after an official of the air line said had himself been convinced an explosion caused the crash.

Fire Causes Three to Be Hurt at Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 14.—(P)—Fires caused three men to be injured here today.

Thomas J. Wells, 55, was cut and bruised when his car was struck at an intersection by a fire engine answering an alarm at a nitrate warehouse near the river. Charles Koch, fireman, was thrown to the ground, suffering numerous brush burns.

Trapped by flames which broke out in a South Peters street importing office, Lawrence Gautreaux, negro, was forced to leap from a window and was seriously injured.

Paris Receives Decision as Gravest News in 20 Years; Nazi Chief Gives Nation's Stand in World Speech

(By the Associated Press)

Germany dramatically withdrew from the league of nations Saturday and abandoned participation in the disarmament conference.

Announcement of her action was received in Geneva with consternation and sadness and the dictum was received in Paris as "the gravest news in twenty years."

Simultaneously with Chancellor Hitler's action a decree was issued by President Von Hindenburg dissolving the German reichstag and all state parliaments and setting new reichstag elections for November 12.

This was done so that a vote of all Germans, by endorsing the Nazi members of the reichstag, would demonstrate to the world the country's solidarity behind Chancellor Hitler in the crisis.

Avowing Germany's passionate devotion to peace, Hitler declared the reich is ready and willing to go the limit in disarmament—but warned that if other nations are to arm, the German demand for equality must not be sidetracked.

The government's proclamation read: "Germany is ready to destroy the last German machine gun and dismiss the last German soldier if other nations will do likewise."

Into the breach between Geneva and Berlin, the United States ambassador at large, Norman Davis, injected this stand: "... A disarmament conference could not properly be made an instrument for rearmament... qualitative equality in armaments... should be sought through the reduction in the armaments of the heavily armed powers and not through acts on the part of others to attempt to build up."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(P)—The American government, with grave forebodings, sought tonight to learn whether the abrupt withdrawal of Germany from the disarmament conference and the league of nations meant that the Hitler government proposed to take up the arms forbidden in the Versailles treaty.

With deep concern in his voice, Secretary Hull told correspondents the German action had dealt a staggering blow to the whole movement for disarmament and that the United States was seriously disappointed and deeply regretful.

As to the dangers inherent in the determination of Germany to go it alone, neither the secretary nor his foremost advisers would undertake to predict in the absence thus far of complete official advice from Ambassador Dodd at Berlin concerning the import of the move.

Privately they agreed, however, that the logic of events pointed in a dangerous direction.

Germany apparently had left the arms conference and the league because it was denied the right to equip its army with types of airplanes, light

Rates Are Cut Down By Missouri Pacific

Reduction of railroad passenger rates and elimination of the Pullman surcharge, to be effective December 1, was announced Saturday night by Missouri Pacific officials here. The reductions, authorized by the interstate commerce commission, will apply to all railroads in the Southwestern association, which includes all lines west of the Mississippi river.

Beginning December 1, according to the announcement, the regular rail fare for travel in coaches will be two cents a mile; for travel in Pullman cars the railroad fare will be three cents a mile. The surcharge for Pullman berths, which has been a bone of contention for several years, will be eliminated. The surcharge represented an addition of 50 per cent of the regular price for sleeping accommodations on Pullman trains.

The former rail fare for both Pullman and coaches was three and six-tenths cents. The new order lops off the six-tenths of a cent on Pullman rail fares and one and six-tenths from the coach fare.

The reports were carried in a police teletype message.

Police Chief William Neel of Ventura notified local police Floyd was seen yesterday by a boyhood acquaintance. The informant said he chatted with him and two male companions, while they filled the gasoline tank of their car at a service station. A small girl was said to have been in the back seat.

'Pretty Boy' Floyd Seen in California

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—(U.P.)—Search for Charles ('Pretty Boy') Floyd, notorious southwestern outlaw, spread along the California coast today with reports he was seen at Ventura, 70 miles north of here, headed toward San Francisco.

The reports were carried in a police teletype message.

Police Chief William Neel of Ventura notified local police Floyd was seen yesterday by a boyhood acquaintance. The informant said he chatted with him and two male companions, while they filled the gasoline tank of their car at a service station. A small girl was said to have been in the back seat.

Mrs. Kelly Won't Be Moved Till Wednesday

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 14.—(P)—Kathryn Kelly, wife of "Machine Gun George," and her mother, Mrs. E. G. Shannon, both under sentence of life imprisonment for the Charles F. Urschel kidnapping, probably will remain in the county jail here until next Wednesday, authorities indicated today.

Reports which could not be confirmed said the blue-eyed Kathryn would be taken to the federal women's workhouse at Cincinnati and her mother to a similar prison at Memphis.

ANOTHER HOUSE BURGLAR HELD

Negro Accused of Breaking Into Home of W. E. Lawrence

A second alleged residence burglary within the last two days was taken into custody Saturday when police arrested Nelson Young, negro, accused of breaking into the residence of W. E. Lawrence, 219 South Fifth street, salesman for L. B. Price company, on the night of September 23. Most of a quantity of L. B. Price merchandise taken in the burglary was recovered with the arrest of the negro.

Articles taken in the burglary included two double blankets, two single blankets, eight sheets, 10 pillow cases, one table cloth, two bedspreads, and one draper. The articles were said to have a total value of $59.30.

Louis Calvin, negro, who was taken into custody Friday night, Saturday was connected with two additional house burglaries. L. V. Tarver, superintendent of police, said, "Police had in their possession articles taken from the home of Paul Collins before a report of the burglary was received. Calvin had already been connected with a burglary in the home of G. I. Hemphill, 206 Jasmine avenue, and later was connected with a burglary in the home of Phil Dunning."

Saturday Mrs. Collins identified as her property a silk nightgown, five pairs of silk hose, a class ring, a coin purse and three handkerchiefs, which were included in the list in Calvin's possession when he was arrested. Previously Mr. Hemphill had identified a watch and several other articles taken from his home. In identifying the watch he said a peculiar knife which had been attached to the chain was missing. Saturday the knife was found in the yard at the Collins home. Mr. Tarver said shoes worn by Calvin fitted into tracks found at the Collins home.

Mrs. Dunning identified a beaded ring and several pennies as having been taken from her home. A 33 caliber pistol was also taken from the Dunning home.

TO SHOW PHOTOS OF OLD SCHOOLS

Forty photographs of old time school houses in Ouachita parish which have been in service during the past 25 years, will be displayed in the Ouachita parish school board's exhibit in the fair in West Monroe Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. There will be no marks of identification and the public will be asked to supply the names, placing them in a box at the fair. The person who can name correctly the greatest number of the buildings will be awarded a prize of $5. The contest closes at 7 p. m. Friday.

Included in the collection are pictures of the old Haynes school in West Monroe, the old Cypress school, the Pleasant Hill, Logtown, and Chénier schools and many others that have in some cases been torn down for years, and in other instances have been destroyed by fire.

Each picture bears a number from one to 40, and visitors will be asked to supply names to the schools in the contest mentioned and for which there will be the five dollar prize award.

Ouachita parish school transportation is to be shown in pictures. From six "wagons" in 1913, there are today 47 motor buses in service.

The modern structures of Ouachita schools, replacing the small one and two-room schools and other small buildings, will be shown in pictures. There are today in Ouachita parish 22 standard elementary schools, three high schools and one junior college.

Old-timers are expected to have much amusement in trying to identify the pictures of pioneer schools of the parish.

Negro Is Severely Slashed by His Wife

After being severely slashed on the arm late Saturday by his wife, Rosie Lee McQuinn, Charlie McQuinn, negro, was taken to St. Francis sanitarium for treatment. He was said to be weak from loss of blood.

When officers received a call that a fight was taking place, they responded and arrested McQuinn, taking him to headquarters and booking him for fighting. He was bleeding so badly, however, that he was taken to the sanitarium, instead of being placed in jail. The woman had fled when officers reached the scene of the fight.

LONG'S CONTROL MENACE TO L.S.U.

ficial action. President James Monroe Smith says no to that, but he acts yes.

From the smallest dormitory attendant to the chief administrator, Senator Long's selections are alone final. And, if he don't like 'em, he fires 'em. Sometimes, it isn't necessary for an employee or faculty member slated for the ax to be himself culpable in order to incur displeasure. He may have relatives who won't line up politically, or his father may have some time or other said something which displeased the kingfish. His university record, his ability as an instructor, his conscientious performance of duty, his fidelity to the university interest count as little as air-bubbles against the weight of Mr. Long's disfavor.

To illustrate. The senator is said to have appeared recently at Baton Rouge in a state of high exhilaration and there commanded the presence of a former member of the board of supervisors of the university. When the ex-supervisor responded, it is said that he found Senator Long gracefully draped on the counterpane, with light artillery conveniently at hand. Quite forgetting that he had had the ex-supervisor supplanted with a stronger political favorite, the senator ordered him to at once have removed an administrative officer of the institution.

When he learned, to his intense astonishment, that he had actually had his visitor politically decapitated, Mr. Long is reported to have reached for the telephone and transmitted his instructions directly to President Smith. Those who heard the conversation talked about it, and it is said that the language employed by Senator Long on that occasion was not precisely parlor rhetoric. But, the administrative officer referred to has some political strength; Senator John H. Overton is a personal friend of his—and he wasn't cast out, merely demoted. Nevertheless, the thread holding him to the university is exceedingly light and his friends expect to hear it snap any day.

Just how long the Louisiana State university, once the pride and boast of patriotic Louisianians, will be able to stand the strain of machine control, cannot be conjectured. It is housed in ornate buildings, lavishly furnished and equipped, and its financial resources are practically exhausted. It is a pauper in a palace. While homes and small farms were being sold taxes in every quarter of the state, millions were thrown away on costly political monuments—such as the medical center, in New Orleans and the Long swimming pool (the largest and most magnificent on the American continent), at Baton Rouge.

Here are some of the evil effects which Longism has produced recently at the state university:

Not a single teacher of summer courses received any salary, whatever for his or her work. One hundred per cent of the amount is still due.

Members of the L. S. U. faculty were called together last week and advised that the limit of what they could hope for up to February 1, 1934, would be half pay for their services.

Complaints of cafeteria fare under the new Long management took the form of a signed protest from members of the student body.

The university established a store from which members of the faculty were required to purchase supplies and pay for them, not out of the amount due them for salary, but out of the money they actually receive—one-half up to February 1, as stated.

The university operates a filling station, in charge of J. E. Adams, nephew of Mrs. James Monroe Smith, and faculty members owning cars must buy from it. The station was built with state money, $3,500 having actually been borrowed for that purpose through the state board of liquidation.

Mrs. Mary C. Herget, dean of women for 13 years, has been transferred to a minor position. Mrs. Herget is said to have relatives both in East Baton Rouge and Caddo who are reported to have been guilty of the fatal indiscretion of opposing Senator Long.

Miss Harriet Spiller Daggett has replaced former Dean R. L. Tullis as a teacher of civil law. Behind this change many profess to see the prospective graduation in law of Kemble K. Kennedy, of "Whangdoodle" fame and protégé of Senator Long.

Scholarships and fellowships have increased so extravagantly that it is said some fortunate individuals are favored with two or more of these appointments.

Although matriculation and other fees were doubled this year, the amount of cash received from the parents or guardians of students is said to be considerably below that taken in last year. During matriculation week, promissory notes are declared to have been the rule rather than the exception.

Up to quite recently, the Louisiana State university was a glutted for publicity. No improvement could be made, no faculty change recorded without the public being made aware of it. But times have changed. President Smith is said to have recently instructed his faculty members to "soft pedal" talk about fine university buildings and equipment. Important faculty changes and departmental reorganizations without the public being taken into the institution's confidence. The university had a regularly established publicity department, but it suddenly ceased to function.

So, quite a number interested in university development do not know that Mrs. Marcus Wilkerson, whose husband is a teacher in the school of journalism, is acting dean of women, and that Mildred Cobb, of Monroe, has been added to the staff as assistant. There is also an academic dean of women, Mrs. Ophelia Stone Stepper, who is assisted by Miss Culpepper.

Prof. H. W. Stopper, register of music and directly in charge of the department of music and art, is getting ready for several elaborate operatic productions this summer. Mrs. Francis Strickland is said to have been made hostess of this department. It is here that ostentation finds its fullest realization at the university. The building is one of the most beautiful of its kind in the world and the furnishings and equipment are said to be equalled by nothing on the American continent. Report has it that Dalton Raymond, who studied for the role in Europe, has been made costumer and publicity man added to the publicity staff.

The sum of $20,000 said to have been expended last year in bringing able speakers to Baton Rouge is reported to have borne fruit. The graduate school has been greatly augmented through this means. It is in charge of Prof. Charles W. Pipkin.

Discharge of L. R. Burton, for many years in charge of the university cafeteria, is said to have had painful results. University students are none too keen for institution cafeterias under the best of circumstances; and although in charge but a few weeks, the new L. S. U. cafeteria management has let the weight of strong resentment from canteen, day students and co-eds. James E. Mixer, Henry M. Duhé, Sterling W. Cappell, J. Posey Prescott, J. C. Caprett, Lawrence De Lisa, Harmon E. Minor, George Wright, Miller Marp and John E. Welles, Jr., all university students, recently signed a detailed complaint against cafeteria conditions in which they said that while the meals served there might be nourishing, they are certainly not wholesome or well-balanced.

The signers reminded the university heads that the naval air station at Pensacola provides three hundred men with three wholesome, appetizing and well-balanced meals per day at a cost of twenty-six cents per capita, whereas the university does not approach that for 360 students whom it charges 55 cents each per day.

The protest concludes: "This brief observation of the prevailing conditions existing in the upstairs dining hall leaves but one of two ultimate, convincing conclusions. Precisely speaking, the dining hall is either under incorrigible, debased management, or some one is deriving considerable financial benefit from the said dining hall."

This dining hall, recently constructed, is known as the Venetian room, and is in charge of a personal friend of Mrs. James Monroe Smith. When charged, just before his dismissal, with running behind in receipts, Mr. Burton pointed to the Venetian room as one of the causes. There was, he said, too much free service to the presidential menage. However, the supervisor of the Venetian room is said to be "aces up" with the university head. The store, about which so many members of the faculty privately complain, is in her charge.

Everyone who knows anything about the state university is aware of the splendor of its student band. This musical organization is the pride and glory of Senator Long who, on many football and athletic fields, has goose-stepped before it like a German hussar on Bismarck's birthday. The senator finds there is no surer and more picturesque way of filching the limelight than leading the band.

The band has a regular drum major—tall, fine-looking chap who knows how to make a drum major's baton stand on its head and talk sanscrit. He is quite an attraction when Huey isn't edging him off the stage. Two weeks ago, when L. S. U. played Rice, startled patrons of the game beheld a new band attraction in the form of four (count 'em!) additional drum majors—two boys and two girls, in gorgeous new white uniforms. It looked like a knockout; but, a week later, when the L. S. U. eleven again performed in the university bowl, the four richly-apparated drum majors were missing. And it is said that they have permanently vanished from the pages of L. S. U. football history.

Not having been consulted about the matter, it is said that Senator Long didn't like 'em. He thought that they detracted from the musical tout ensemble. So, he would have no more of them. It is reported that his order that they not again be permitted to spoil the landscape was quickly obeyed. And it is reported also, that the dehorned drum majors had been promised scholarships as a reward for their work. Query; did they get them?

Mention was made some time ago of the university riding school, which also fell into senatorial disfavor because Senator Long does not ride. It is said that Mr. Long sent a peremptory order to Director Smith to "sell those plugs." So, they are being disposed of. The senator's influence is compelling in all things, great and small.

And so, politically guided and politically administered, the state university moves on to a precarious destiny. It swallowed more millions last year than during any previous ten years of its history. Only once was the year's record approached, but not equalled—when the new university was being built with severance tax money.

The university is in a bad way. Only a new senator, a new governor, a new president and a new board of supervisors can save it.

ARK-LA-TEX DAY TO BE OBSERVED

Ark-La-Tex day will be observed in Chicago tomorrow. A program will be given over the National Broadcasting company's hookup at 2 p. m., central standard time. This program was made possible through the generosity of the city of Monroe, parish of Ouachita, the Natural Gas company, United Carbon company, and United Gas Public Service. Mrs. Blanche Oliver, noted elocutionist, and Miss Florence Zeigler, Monroe musician, will participate in the broadcasting program.

The Shreveport Symphony orchestra, of 30 pieces, will present the "Flood Suite," which is the production of Mrs. Oliver and Miss Zeigler, working in collaboration.

"The Cajun" also is to be presented by Mrs. Oliver in connection with the broadcast.

Mrs. Oliver will be allotted eight minutes during the time from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m., to give a brief description of Monroe and of its natural advantages and of its strides in industry and education.

Shreveport also is to be given a place on the one-hour program in which that city and vicinity will be featured.

Mrs. Oliver and Miss Zeigler left last Thursday for Chicago to formulate plans for the broadcast, which will be one of the most important in its wide scope of any that has ever been given in the past, it is declared.

Kentucky had 539 homicides in 1932.

Shrinkage

A Mr. W. D. Hopkins, of Boston, wrote his will several years ago when times were good. In this will he made gifts and bequests, both public and private amounting to $365,000.00.

He died recently and his entire estate has been found to inventory only $4,000.00.

His attorney explaining the shrinkage says: "He just lost it—that's all."

ANOTHER HOUSE BURGLAR HELD

Negro Accused of Breaking Into Home of W. E. Lawrence

A second alleged residence burglar within the last two days was taken into custody Saturday when police arrested Nelson Young, negro, accused of breaking into the residence of W. E. Lawrence, 219 South Fifth street, salesman for L. B. Price company, on the night of September 23. Most of a quantity of L. B. Price merchandise taken in the burglary was recovered with the arrest of the negro.

Articles taken in the burglary included two double blankets, two single blankets, eight sheets, 10 pillow cases, one table cloth, two bedspreads, and one draper. The articles were said to have a total value of $39.30.

Louis Calvin, negro, who was taken into custody Friday night, Saturday was connected with two additional house burglaries. L. V. Tarver, superintendent of police, said, Police had in their possession articles taken from the home of Paul Collins before a report of the burglary was received. Calvin had already been connected with a burglary in the home of G. I. Hemphill, 206 Jasmine avenue, and later was connected with a burglary in the home of Phil Dunning.

Saturday Mrs. Collins identified as her property a silk nightgown, five pairs of silk hose, a class ring, a coin purse and three handkerchiefs. These were included in the loot in Calvin's possession when he was arrested. Previously Mr. Hemphill had identified a watch and several other articles taken from his home. In identifying the watch he said a peculiar knife which had been attached to the chain was missing. Saturday the knife was found in the yard at the Collins home. Mr. Tarver said shoes worn by Calvin fitted into tracks found at the Collins home.

Mrs. Dunning identified a beaded ring and several pennies as having been taken from her home. A 38

caliber pistol was also taken from the Dunning home.

TO SHOW PHOTOS OF OLD SCHOOLS

Fully forty photographs of old time school houses in Ouachita parish which have been in service during the past 25 years, will be displayed in the Ouachita parish school board's exhibit in the fair in West Monroe Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. There will be no marks of identification and the public will be asked to supply the names, placing them in a box at the fair. The person who correctly identifies the greatest number of the buildings will be awarded a prize of $5. The contest closes at 7 p. m. Friday.

Included in the collection are pictures of the old Haynes school in West Monroe, the old Cypress school, the Pleasant Hill, Logtown, and Cheneville schools and many others that have in some cases been torn down for years, and in other instances have been destroyed by fire.

Each picture bears a number from one to 40, and visitors will be asked to supply names to the schools in the contest mentioned and for which there will be the five dollar prize award.

Ouachita parish school transportation is to be shown in pictures. From six "vagrants" in 1913, there are today 47 motor buses in service.

The modern structures of Ouachita schools, replacing the small one and two-room schools and other small buildings, will be shown in pictures. There are today in Ouachita parish 22 standard elementary schools, three high schools and one junior college.

Old-timers are expected to have much amusement in trying to identify the pictures of pioneer schools of the parish.

Training School to Be Conducted by Baptists

The First Baptist church is to conduct a Sunday school training school this week, starting Monday night.

The first conference period is to start at 7 p. m. and end at 8 p. m. The seven faculty members are Miss Virlene Stephenson, Miss Elizabeth Cullen, Mrs. Bess Harrison, Miss Anna Bains, Mrs. Forrest Seaman, Miss May Detherage and J. B. Moseley, all of whom will take part on the program nightly.

At the inspirational period, 8 p. m. to 8:30 p. m., Rev. L. T. Hastings will address the workers on "The Life and Work of Paul."

At the second conference period, 8:30 p. m. to 9:15 p. m., "Cradle Roll and Beginners" will comprise the theme by Miss Stephenson. "Primeries" is to be the subject of Miss Cullen; "Juniors" by Mrs. Seaman; "Intermediate Department Conferences," by Mrs. Harrison; "Young People's Department Conferences," by Miss Bains; "Adult Department Conferences," by Miss Detherage, and "Sunday School Manual," by Mr. Moseley.

Negro Is Severely Slashed by His Wife

After being severely slashed on the arm late Saturday by his wife, Rosie Lee McQuinn, Charlie McQuinn, negro, was taken to St. Francis sanitarium for treatment. He was said to be weak from loss of blood.

When officers received a call that a fight was taking place, they responded and arrested McQuinn, taking him to headquarters and booking him for fighting. He was bleeding so badly, however, that he was taken to the sanitarium, instead of being placed in jail. The woman had fled when officers reached the scene of the fight.

LONG'S CONTROL MENACE TO L.S.U.

ficial action. President James Monroe Smith says no to that, but he acts yes.

From the smallest dormitory attendant to the chief administrator, Senator Long's selections are alone final. And, if he don't like 'em, he fires 'em. Sometimes, it isn't necessary for an employee or faculty member slated for the ax to be himself culpable in order to incur displeasure. He may have relatives who won't line up politically, or his father may have some time or other said something which displeased the kingfish. His university record, his ability as an instructor, his conscientious performance of duty, his fidelity to the university interest count as little as air-bubbles against the weight of Mr. Long's disfavor.

To illustrate: The senator is said to have appeared recently at Baton Rouge in a state of high exhilaration and there commanded the presence of a former member of the board of supervisors of the university. When the ex-supervisor responded, it is said that he found Senator Long gracefully draped on the counterpane, with light artillery conveniently at hand. Quite forgetting that he had had the ex-supervisor supplanted with a stronger political favorite, the senator ordered him to at once have removed an administrative officer of the institution.

When he learned, to his intense astonishment, that he had actually had his visitor politically decapitated, Mr. Long is reported to have reached for the telephone and transmitted his instructions directly to President Smith.

Those who heard the conversation talked about it, and it is said that the language employed by Senator Long on that occasion was not precisely parlor rhetoric. But, the administrative officer referred to has some political strength; Senator John H. Overton is a personal friend of his—and he wasn't cast out, merely demoted. Nevertheless, the thread holding him to the university is exceedingly light and his friends expect to hear it snap any day.

Just how long the Louisiana State university, once the pride and boast of patriotic Louisianians, will be able to stand the strain of machine control, cannot be conjectured. It is housed in ornate buildings, lavishly furnished and equipped, and its financial resources are practically exhausted. It is a pauper in a palace. While homes and small farms were being sold taxes in every quarter of the state, millions were thrown away on costly political monuments—such as the medical center, in New Orleans and the Long swimming pool (the largest and most magnificent on the American continent), at Baton Rouge.

Here are some of the evil effects which Longism has produced recently at the state university:

Not a single teacher of summer courses received any salary, whatever for his or her work. One hundred per cent of the amount is still due.

Members of the L. S. U. faculty were called together last week and advised that the limit of what they could hope for up to February 1, 1934, would be half pay for their services.

Complaints of cafeteria fare under the new Long management took the form of a signed protest from members of the student body.

The university established a store from which members of the faculty were required to purchase supplies and pay for them, not out of the amount due them for salary, but out of the money they actually receive—one-half up to February 1, as stated.

pose through the state board of education.

Mrs. Mary C. Herget, dean of women for 13 years, has been transferred to a minor position. Mrs. Herget is said to have relatives both in East Baton Rouge and Caddo who are reported to have been guilty of the fatal indiscretion of opposing Senator Long.

Miss Harriet Spiller Daggett has replaced former Dean R. L. Tullis as a teacher of civil law. Behind this change many profess to see the prospective graduation in law of Kemble K. Kennedy, of "Whangdoodle" fame and protégé of Senator Long.

Scholarships and fellowships have increased so extravagantly that it is said some fortunate individuals are favored with two or more of these appointments.

Although matriculation and other fees were doubled this year, the amount of cash received from the parents or guardians of students is said to be considerably below that taken in last year. During matriculation week, promissory notes are declared to have been the rule rather than the exception.

Up to quite recently, the Louisiana State university was a glutton for publicity. No improvement could be made, no faculty change recorded, without the public being made aware of it. But times have changed. President Smith is said to have recently instructed his faculty members to "soft pedal" talk about fine university buildings and equipment. Important faculty changes and additions were ordered without the public being taken into the institution's confidence. The university had a regularly established publicity department, but it suddenly ceased to function.

So, quite a number interested in university development do not know that Mrs. Marcus Wilkerson, whose husband is a teacher in the school of journalism, is acting dean of women, and that Mildred Cobb, of Monroe, has been added to the staff as assistant. There is also an academic dean of women, Mrs. Ophelia Stone Stone, who is assisted by Miss Culpepper.

Prof. H. W. Stopper, register of music and directly in charge of the department of music and art, is getting ready for several elaborate operatic productions this summer. Mrs. Frances Strickland is said to have been made hostess of this department. It is here that ostentation finds its fullest realization at the university. The building is one of the most beautiful of its kind in the world and the furnishings and equipment are said to be equalled by nothing on the American continent. Report has it that Dalton Raymond, who studied for the role in Europe, has been made a costume and publicity man and that A. M. Culpepper has been added to the publicity staff.

The sum of $20,000 said to have been expended last year in bringing able speakers to Baton Rouge is reported to have borne fruit. The graduate school has been greatly augmented through this means. It is in charge of Prof. Charles W. Pipkin.

Discharge of L. R. Burton, for many years in charge of the university cafeteria, is said to have had painful results. University students are none too keen for institution cafeterias under the best of circumstances, and although in charge but a few weeks, the new L. S. U. cafeteria management has felt the weight of strong resentment from cadets, day students and co-eds. James E. Mixon, Henry M. Duhe, Sterling W. Cappel, J. Posey Prescott, J. C. Cappel, Lawrence De Lisa, Harmon E. Minor, George Wright, Miller Marp and John E. Welles, Jr., all university students, recently signed a detailed complaint against cafeteria conditions in which they said that while the meals served there might be nourishing, they are certainly not wholesome or well-balanced.

The signers reminded the university heads that the naval air station at Pensacola provides three hundred men, with three wholesome, appetizing and well-balanced meals per day at a cost of twenty-six cents per capita, whereas the university does not approach that for 360 students whom it charges 55 cents each per day.

The protest concludes: "This brief observation of the prevailing conditions existing in the upstairs dining hall leaves but one of two ultimate, convincing conclusions. Precisely speaking, the dining hall is either under incorrigible, debased management, or some one is deriving considerable financial benefit from the said dining hall."

This dining hall, recently constructed, is known as the Ventian room, and is in charge of a personal friend of Mrs. James Monroe Smith. When charged, just before his dismissal, with running behind in receipts, Mr. Burton pointed to the Ventian room as one of the causes. There was, he said, too much free service to the presidential menage. However, the supervisor of the Ventian room is said to be "aces up" with the university head. The store, about which so many members of the faculty privately complain, is in her charge.

Everyone who knows anything about the state university is aware of the splendor of its student band. This musical organization is the pride and glory of Senator Long who, on many football and athletic fields, has goose-stepped before it like a German hussar on Bismarck's birthday. The senator finds there is no surer and more picturesque way of filching the lime-light than leading the band.

The band has a regular drum major—a tall, fine-looking chap who knows how to make a drum major's baton stand on its head and talk sanscrit. He is quite an attraction when Huey isn't edging him off the stage. Two weeks ago, when L. S. U. played Rice, startled patrons of the game beheld a new band attraction in the form of four (count 'em!) additional drum majors—two boys and two girls, in gorgeous new white uniforms. It looked like a knockout; but, a week later, when the L. S. U. eleven again performed in the university bowl, the four richly-appeared drum majors were missing. And it is said that they have permanently vanished from the pages of L. S. U. football history.

Not having been consulted about the matter, it is said that Senator Long didn't like 'em. He thought that they detracted from the musical tout ensemble. So, he would have no more of them. It is reported that his order that they not again be permitted to spoil the landscape was quickly obeyed. And it is reported also, that the dethroned drum majors had been promised scholarships as a reward for their work. Query; did they get them?

Mention was made some time ago of the university riding school, which also fell into senatorial disfavor because Senator Long does not ride. It is said that Mr. Long sent a peremptory order to President Smith to "sell those plugs." So, they are being disposed of. The senator's influence is compelling in all things, great and small.

And so, politically guided and politically administered, the state university moves on to a precarious destiny. It swallowed more millions last year than during any previous ten years of its history. Only once was the year's record approached, but not equalled—when the new university was being built with severance tax money.

The university is in a bad way. Only a new senator, a new governor, a new president and a new board of supervisors can save it.

Shrinkage

A Mr. W. D. Hopkins, of Boston, wrote his will several years ago when times were good. In this will he made gifts and bequests, both public and private amounting to $365,000.00.

He died recently and his entire estate has been found to inventory only $4,000.00.

His attorney explaining the shrinkage says: "He just lost it—that's all."

The moral to this incident is that the will which you wrote when times were good may today far exceed your present estate.

FRANCE MAY GIVE OUT SECRET DATA ON GERMAN ARMS

is reluctant to make public any of the dossier's secrets.

It is argued as long as the dossier remains secret it is calculated to act as a powerful deterrent to Germany's ambitions.

French officials believe publication would affect world opinion to such degree that the German government would be forced to pledge drastic curtailment of "suspect" industrial activities at her leading steel and chemical works.

The French dossier is believed to contain the fullest information on both present and potential armament in Germany, with evidence purporting to prove incontestably the war threat from across the Rhine is far from fictional.

It is reported the British have a dossier almost as voluminous.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—(AP)—A French spokesman today characterized the German withdrawal from the league of nations as "the gravest news in twenty years."

The news was flashed to the cabinet while it was in session discussing the armaments situation.

A foreign office spokesman commented as follows:

"France has done what she could to achieve disarmament. Her views are shared by the United States and Great Britain, and now it is perfectly clear where Germany stands."

The cabinet discussion of the German stand was informal because the session had been adjourned shortly before Joseph Paul-Boncour, the French foreign minister, telephoned from Geneva.

The ministers themselves refrained from public comment, but privately it was indicated they viewed Chancellor Hitler's decision as grave and construed it as justification for France's firm stand.

MOSCOW, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Soviet Russia, alone in Europe, was reassured, not alarmed today by Germany's withdrawal from the league of nations. It took the decision as evidence that the Mussolini ten year peace treaty was not directed against her.

ROME, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Italy feared today that Germany's withdrawal from the league of nations put the league itself in jeopardy, and endangered the new four-power Mussolini pact.

The Blue Eagle

And we do our Part—whenever opportunity presents itself to do the other fellow. Especially as to sub-contractors, who figure jobs and are not successful on the original letting, then double back and cut their original first figures.

Just recently I was awarded the tile roofing sheet copper work on Henry Biederman's residence by C. E. Andrews, Ruston contractor, for $1,930.00. The actual cost of this job being $1,538.00. After the original letting this job was contracted for by a competitor for $1,600.00.

Notwithstanding the fact that we, the roofing and sheet metal contractors, had a meeting on the 4th day of August, 1933, and made a list of various work and prices which was agreed to by all and signed by all. Those present were:

Paul Mattheus, representing Monroe Roofing & Sheet Metal Works; Sam Newson—Dixie Roofing Co.; J. G. Bell Roofing and Sheet Metal Works; Louis Daze.

In this agreement it was stipulated there was to be a call meeting in case of slate or tile roofing, and agree on prices.

Verbal contracts are as good as written ones, where witnessed, but why bring suit and get in return what the boy shot at—nothing?

Some years ago, a competitor insisted on me joining the building trades exchange. Shortly afterwards this competitor came to me stating just we two were figuring L. P. Milner's tile roof and wanted a complimentary bid, so he would get the job. I signed my name to the bottom of my letter head, and told this competitor to make both my figure and also his on Mr. Milner's tile roof. Afterwards, Mr. Milner said he would like to have given me the job, but I was $200.00 too high, and my competitor wrote both his and my bids.

But of course we all make mistakes, especially before the introduction of the NRA, and just as many since the birth of the Blue Eagle.

Rumor has it that a certain Monroe general contractor has an interest in a roofing and sheet metal concern, or did have; also a paint store, and a lime and lumber company. If this is true, I would like to inquire what else comes under the head of the NRA or what advantage might be in being a general contractor as well as being interested in general building supplies; also posing as a big-gun chairman, and supporter of the North La. Contractors' Association.

Possibly there has been a mistake made in birds and the common vulture has been mistaken for an Eagle of any color. Birds of a feather flock together, and do their part according to their nature.

General Johnson may be able to tame them by placing salt on their tails, but I doubt if they will stand tamed long enough.

All of the above is more or less a pipe dream on my part, so I am not asking you to believe a single word. Ask my competitor since he is a big man in the church, while I am only a wild weed in the religious garden.

J. C. (SHORT PENCIL) BELL

P. S.: If the above proves interesting I can write others that the eye of the Eagle has never focused on.

lini treaty guaranteeing European peace for 10 years.

GENEVA, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Rumors, unconfirmed in any way, were circulated in Geneva today that Italy might follow Germany's action in withdrawing from the disarmament conference and perhaps the league of nations.

The rumor was traced to French disarmament headquarters, and seemed to be based on the Italian chief delegate's weak endorsement of the Simon disarmament plan.

VIENNA, Oct. 14.—(AP)—All central and southeastern Europe was thrown into alarm today as extra newspapers on the streets of capitals blazoned the news of Germany's withdrawal from the league of nations.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Belgian political circles declared today that Germany's action in withdrawing from the disarmament conference and the league of nations had justified last Wednesday's unanimous cabinet decision to complete the frontier defenses.

An Anglo-French entente presenting a firm front, these circles added, would be the most satisfactory answer to the German withdrawal.

The Belgian reaction appeared to have been summed up in the expression: "Now we know where we all stand."

TOKYO, Oct. 15.—(Sunday)—(AP)—Although Germany's withdrawal from the league of nations and the arms conference astounded Tokyo officials, no regrets were expressed at the prospective failure of the occidental powers disarmament effort which Japan had watched from the sidelines.

Spokesmen for both the war and navy offices expressed the opinion that the German action means the destruction of the arms conference.

A high official of the foreign office merely expressed the opinion Europe's future could not be predicted as the result of this grave development.

had failed to act on disclosures of the legislative investigation which ended in resignation of Mayor James J. Walker. The fusion leader was counsel to the legislative committee.

"The Democratic party presents exceedingly the attacks being made on Gov. Lehman, the regularly elected candidate of the Democratic party," said former State Senator Abraham Kaplan, Tammany manager of O'Brien's campaign.

"In the campaign last year Mayor O'Brien worked indefatigably for the election of Gov. Lehman. Mayor O'Brien and the local Democratic party know that the governor has made an excellent record as the governor of the state of New York and see no basis for this unwarranted attack on him."

FOOD BUDGET AND THE E. R. A.

To the Editor:

About six weeks ago I asked one of the field workers of the E. R. A. if it was possible for her to get me one more days work on the E. R. A. as it was impossible to meet my expenses at the time I was getting. The field worker figured for a few minutes and then told me that I was getting more time than was due me according to the food budget. I, at that time, told her I would like very much to have an itemized copy of the food budget such as they went by. Since that time I have called at the E. R. A. office once or twice a week for it. Finally it was delivered to me on the 9th instant.

Here it is. A food budget for four, for one week, made out by Mrs. McQuiller, parish food demonstrator:

"Nine pounds white water rose flour, 36c; 6 pounds meal, 12c; 1 pound oatmeal, 10c; 1 pound grits, 10c; 5 pounds Irish potatoes (may divide into sweet and Irish), 20c; 1 and a half pounds dried beans, peas or lima beans, 12c; 1 pint syrup, 23c; 2 and a half pounds sugar, 12c; 1 pound coffee, 17c; 1 pound lard, 8c; 1 pound salt meat, 8c; 3 number one cans tomatoes, 20c; 2 bunches turnips or carrots, 15c; 3 pounds cabbage, 12c; 1 pound ground meat, 15c; 1 pound soup meat, 12c; 1 pound bulk peanut butter, 15c; 1-4 ounce baking powder (will last two weeks), 10c; 2 bars soap, 10c; 7 quarts sweet milk, 84c; 1 pound prunes, 18c; 1 package of salt (3 for 10c), 4c; 1 pound butter, 27c; 1-2 dozen eggs, 13c; 3 pounds rice, 12c. Total price, $4.36."

Those wishing to reduce in weight should carefully follow this budget. As potatoes contain a large percentage of starch and are fattening. Eating too much meat in glutinous and will injure your health. Too many beans will cause stomach disorder, and too much lard in your biscuit might cause you to gain weight and exceed the food budget. As it is I get two days a week, which makes me $3.60. The food budget amounts to $4.36 so I have to reduce the budget.

Signed,
BLAINE THOMPSON.

to express their attitude about these sudden, epochal events. President Paul von Hindenburg dissolved the reichstag and set new elections for November 12.

In explaining this "plebiscite," Hitler said his government will not "turn a deaf ear to proposals for real peace," but "will welcome every suggestion."

"The German people," the chancellor said, "destroyed their weapons and fulfilled their obligations in the treaties with a really fanatical fidelity."

"The political leadership of the nation at that time, however, was in the hands of men spiritually rooted to the world of victor states."

"The German people should rightly expect that for this reason alone the rest of the world would redeem its promise, but for 15 years the German people have vainly hoped and expected that the end of the war would finally also be the end of hatred and misery."

"The purpose of the Versailles treaty has not seemed to give humanity peace, but rather to maintain a fathomless hatred."

Then he described as "slave work" the treaty of Versailles, and added:

"The German peoples are the most deeply convinced of their guiltlessness for the war."

"Let the other nations see to it that by the unnatural eternalization of the concepts of the victor and the vanquished that there does not result an eternal inequality of rights."

The government issued another appeal, also condemning what was called the unwillingness of other powers to give Germany the arms equality promised in Geneva during an earlier disarmament parley in December.

"As the reich's government sees in this manner of procedure discrimination against the German people, unjust as it is humiliating," the chancellor's manifesto asserted, "it deems itself unable under the circumstances as a second class nation deprived of the rights to continue to participate in the negotiations which thereby could only lead to new dictates."

He declared his nation's "unshakable will to peace," and a government spokesman added that "leaving arms conference does not mean Germany intends to disregard the treaties."

Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath telegraphed the withdrawal decision to Arthur Henderson, a president of the league assembly, at Geneva.

"The arms conference will not fulfill the sole task of bringing about a general disarmament," Baron von Neurath's message read.

"At the same time it is certain that the failure of the arms conference is due solely to the lack of the will on the part of the highly-armed states now to make good their obligation to disarm, as laid down in the treaty."

"Thereby, the realization of Germany's acknowledged claim to equality has been rendered impossible, and the condition under which Germany at the beginning of this year declared its willingness again to participate in the conference's work has been eliminated."

Chancellor Hitler thanked Premier Edouard Daladier for "the noble sense of justice" contained in a recent speech.

"After the return of the Saar territory to the reich," he maintained, "only a crazy man" could believe a war between the two countries possible.

Premier Daladier had asked why "the German youth marches," and Hitler replied their purpose was not "to demonstrate against France, but to show . . . determination to keep communism down."

Only the army carries weapons in Germany, he went on, and explained as his Nazi party's only enemy is communism.

Germany is ready to go to the limit in disarmament, Hitler continued, but he warned that the reich demand for equality, if other nations are armed, must not be forgot.

Germany has a passionate devotion to peace, the chancellor claimed. This he said the people would demonstrate at the polls in November, both to show their solidarity with the government and to reveal their conception of national honor.

Germany is the second great world power in a year to announce an intention to withdraw from the league. Last March Japan resigned because of a disagreement over Japanese activities in Manchuria.

An appeal to the nation was issued by the minister of propaganda, Dr. Joseph Goebbels, on behalf of the government to acquiesce Germany with the decree dissolving the reichstag and the withdrawal decisions.

He also informed state governors to dissolve state diets. New elections for those bodies, however, were not called.

of German cabinet ministers conferred over the arms impasse at Geneva. They heard the German delegate to the arms conference, Dr. Rudolf Napolitano, describe a situation in which Great Britain, France, and the United States were reported aligned against Germany's hopes.

GENEVA, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Statesmen gathered here with the fundamental aim of consolidating peace asked themselves anxiously today along what road Germany's withdrawal from the league of nations and the disarmament conference would lead them.

Openly the words "let Germany go; we shall get along without her" was heard, but secretly the world leaders in Geneva were seriously disturbed for the future.

Many expressed profound dismay that Germany dropped from the arms conference, from which some quarters expressed a hope for a solemn treaty to tighten the fabric of peace, restore world confidence, and terminate a costly armaments race.

Spokesmen for the little entente nations and Poland, who never favored wholeheartedly the four-power western European peace pact inspired by Premier Mussolini, forecast tonight that the reich's twofold decision would mean the death of that accord.

They argued that even Italy, which today almost unequivocally backed other powers, including the United States, in saying there shall be no disarmament in Germany, may find it difficult to collaborate with Germany as a signatory of the four-power agreement.

They thought the French confidence in the pact would be destroyed and that British confidence therein would be shaken.

Tentative suggestions for the future of the disarmament conference, which was called for a meeting next Monday, were varied.

Many delegates believed the parley should go ahead and at least draw up a set of disarmament principles to which Germany could subscribe later if she changed her mind.

Others, however, expressed the view that the door should be left wide open for German participation in any solution to the arms problem.

Everybody agreed that the conference must meet Monday.

Events today, which were forecast by some persons yesterday, put every delegation on its guard from both political and military standpoints.

tanks and artillery asserted to be of a defensive character but withheld from Germany under the treaty that ended the World War.

Therefore, there was seen at least a possibility that Germany, having now abandoned diplomatic methods, might go ahead and acquire the weapons anyway.

The Germans have repeatedly taken the position that they were entitled to samples of the weapons possessed by their neighbors and which would be retained under any arms limitation agreement.

The United States, it was disclosed, holds that acquisition of such weapons would constitute rearmament and has joined with France and Great Britain in opposition on the ground that armaments should go down and not up.

If Germany should rearm in violation of the Versailles treaty, officials here believe the most serious consequences might result, particularly in view of the proximity of strong feeling of France on the subject.

Germany has based its demand either for the disarmament of other nations or its own re-armament on this sentence in the Versailles treaty:

"In order to render possible the initiation of general limitation of the armaments of all nations, Germany undertakes strictly to observe the military, naval and air clauses which follow."

is reluctant to make public any of the dossier's secrets.

It is argued as long as the dossier remains secret it is calculated to act as a powerful deterrent to Germany's ambitions.

French officials believe publication would affect world opinion to such degree that the German government would be forced to pledge drastic curtailment of "suspect" industrial activities at her leading steel and chemical works.

The French dossier is believed to contain the fullest information on both present and potential armament in Germany, with evidence purporting to prove incontrovertibly the war threat from across the Rhine is far from fictional.

It is reported the British have a dossier almost as voluminous.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—(P)—A French spokesman today characterized the announcement of Germany's intention to withdraw from the disarmament conference and the league of nations as "the gravest news in twenty years."

The news was flashed to the cabinet while it was in session discussing the armaments situation.

A foreign office spokesman commented as follows:

"France has done what she could to achieve disarmament. Her views are shared by the United States and Great Britain, and now it is perfectly clear where Germany stands."

The cabinet discussion of the German stand was informal because the session had adjourned shortly before Joseph Paul-Boncour, the French foreign minister, telephoned from Geneva.

The ministers themselves refrained from public comment, but privately it was indicated they viewed Chancellor Hitler's decision as grave and construed it as justification for France's firm stand.

MOSCOW, Oct. 14.—(U.P.)—Soviet Russia, alone in Europe, was reassured, not alarmed today by Germany's withdrawal from the league of nations. It took the decision as evidence that the Mussolini ten year peace treaty was not directed against her.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(U.P.)—Comment of a White House chauffeur appointed to open limousine doors for dignitaries arriving at a state dinner (Gen. Hugh S. Johnson had just arrived 20 minutes late).

"This guy Oden Mills was awful-gee, he was terrible. Being half an hour late wasn't nothing to him. One time he had an engagement with President Hoover. It was urgent, too. The date was for 1:30. Mills strolls in at two o'clock."

"And you know what he said? 'Well, he remarks casual like, 'well, I intended to play only nine holes but it was such a nice day I played 18.'"

(Occasioned by the arrival of a cabinet member, his wife clutching his arm):

"Nick and Alice Longworth used to go in the White House door as sweet as two angels. When they left they'd often go off in separate cars. Once I heard her say 'You didn't have to come if you didn't want to.'"

The Blue Eagle

And we do our Part—whenever opportunity presents itself to do the other fellow. Especially as to sub-contractors, who figure jobs and are not successful on the original letting, then double back and cut their original first figures.

Just recently I was awarded the tile roofing sheet copper work on Henry Biedenharn's residence by C. E. Andrews, Ruston contractor, for $1,930.00. The actual cost of this job being $1,538.00. After the original letting this job was contracted for by a competitor for $1,600.00.

Notwithstanding the "fact" that we, the roofing and sheet metal contractors, had a meeting on the 4th day of August, 1933, and made a list of various work and prices which was agreed to by all and signed by all. Those present were: Paul Matthews, representing Monroe Roofing & Sheet Metal Works; Sam Newson—Dixie Roofing Co.; J. G. Bell Roofing and Sheet Metal Works; A. L. Kennedy Sheet Metal Works; Louis Daze.

In this agreement it was stipulated there was to be a call meeting in case of slate or tile roofing, and agree on prices.

Verbal contracts are as good as written ones, where witnessed, but why bring suit and get in return what the boy shot at nothing?

Some years ago, a competitor insisted on me joining the building trades exchange. Shortly afterwards this competitor came to me stating just we were figuring L. P. Milner's tile roof and wanted a complimentary bid, so he would get the job. I signed my name to the bottom of my letter head, and told this competitor to make both my figure and also his on Mr. Milner's tile roof. Afterwards, Mr. Milner said he would like to have given me the job, but I was $200.00 too high, and my competitor wrote both his and my bids.

But of course we all make mistakes, especially before the introduction of the NRA, and just as many since the birth of the Blue Eagle.

Rumor has it that a certain Monroe general contractor has an interest in a roofing and sheet metal concern, or did have; also a paint store, and a lime and lumber company. If this is true, I would like to inquire what else comes under the head of the NRA or what advantage might be in being a general contractor as well as being interested in general building supplies; also posing as a big-gun chairman, and supporter of the North La. Contractors' Association.

Possibly there has been a mistake made in birds and the common vulture has been mistaken for an Eagle of any color. Birds of a feather flock together, and do their part according to their nature.

General Johnson may be able to assist them by placing salt on their tails, but I doubt if they will stand batted long enough.

All of the above is more or less of a pipe dream on my part, so I am not asking you to believe a single word. Ask my competitor since he is a big man in the church, while I am only a wild weed in the religious garden.

FOOD BUDGET AND THE E. R. A. To the Editor:

About six weeks ago I asked one of the field workers of the E. R. A. if it was possible for her to get me one more days work on the E. R. A. as it was impossible to meet my expenses at the time I was getting. The field worker figured for a few minutes and then told me that I was getting more time than was due me according to the food budget. I, at that time, told her I would like very much to have an itemized copy of the food budget such as they went by. Since that time I have called at the E. R. A. office once or twice a week for it. Finally it was delivered to me on the 9th instant.

Here it is. A food budget for four, for one week, made out by Mrs. McQuillier, parish food demonstrator:

"Nine pounds white water rose flour, 36c; 6 pounds meal, 12c; 1 pound oatmeal, 10c; 1 pound grits, 10c; 5 pounds Irish potatoes (may divide into sweet and Irish), 20c; 1 and a half pounds dried beans, peas or lima beans, 12c; 1 pint syrup, 23c; 2 and a half pounds sugar, 12c; 1 pound coffee, 17c; 1 pound lard, 8c; 1 pound salt meat, 8c; 3 number one cans tomatoes, 20c; 2 bunches turnips or carrots, 15c; 3 pounds cabbage, 12c; 1 pound ground meat, 15c; 1 pound soup meat, 13c; 1 pound bulk peanut butter, 15c; 1-4 ounce baking powder (will last two weeks), 10c; 2 bars soap, 10c; 7 quart sweet milk, 84c; 1 pound prunes, 18c; 1 package of salt (3 for 10c), 4c; 1 pound butter, 27c; 1-2 dozen eggs, 13c; 3 pounds rice, 12c. Total price, $4.36."

Those wishing to reduce in weight should carefully follow this budget. As potatoes contain a large percentage of starch and are fattening. Eating too much meat in glutinous and will injure your health. Too many beans will cause stomach disorder, and too much lard in your biscuit might cause you to gain weight and exceed the food budget.

As it is I get two days a week, which makes me $3.60. The food budget amounts to $4.36 so I have to reduce the budget.

Signed,

BLAINE THOMPSON.

BAPTIST SERMON IS GIVEN PRAISE

Rev. Virgil Starnes Continues Revival Meeting in West Monroe

The evening service at Immanuel Baptist church Friday night was declared by some of those present to have been one of the greatest hours in the history of the church life of West Monroe. Some of those present said it reminded them of descriptions of Pentecost.

For the first time during the meeting, Rev. Virgil Starnes, visiting evangelist, gave an opportunity for public profession of faith in Christ. Men and women went over the building asking others to accept Christ. Twelve answered the first call and came into the membership of the church, three by letter and nine for baptism. Saturday night another good service was conducted, at which time others came into the membership of the church. The church is confidently expecting a great spiritual uplift in the services of Sunday, it was reported. At 9:45 the Sunday school will meet. After class records are taken all classes will return to the auditorium, where the evangelist will speak. "A Mother's Charge" or "Parental Responsibility," will be the subject for the morning hour.

The entire evangelistic party will conduct a service at the Louisiana

Training Institute Sunday afternoon at two o'clock.

At 6:15 p.m. a song and devotional service will be conducted, following which the pastor, Rev. H. L. Driskell, will administer the ordinance of baptism to the candidates in the church pool. A brief hour of young people's service and prayer will follow the baptismal service, just preceding the evening evangelistic service.

The pastor will leave on the east-bound train over the Illinois Central to report at fourth corps area headquarters at Fort McPherson, Georgia, Monday. The church has extended an indefinite leave of absence and given the privilege of a supply in the pastor's absence. Rev. George E. Goodman of Monroe, will probably do the supply work during this period.

The evangelistic services will continue during all the coming week at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Larry Henry Is Named Fish and Game Warden

Larry Henry has received appointment as fish and game warden for this district under the state conservation department. He is taking office at once, succeeding L. H. Peavy, who resigned some weeks ago.

Mr. Henry is well known in this city where he was for some years in the clothing business, later having traveled Texas and Louisiana for a supply house.

He stated that he will exert every possible effort to see that game and fish laws of the state are observed in this section of Louisiana.

CHAPTER XIX

Though she would not have admitted it to anyone there were times when Eve Rader worried about her marriage. Was her work at the office making too many demands on her time and interest, she asked herself. Dick did not complain but nevertheless she sensed that something was wrong.

For one thing, there were those evenings he spent away from home. Eve had planned to be generous and tolerant in such matters. She had assured herself that she had the "modern" viewpoint. She and Dick had agreed their marriage was to be a fifty-fifty affair with equal freedom for each of them. Still she always felt a little stab of resentment and uneasiness when Dick announced casually that some engagement would keep him away from home.

Was he bored with their quiet evenings together—bored with her? Her piggy, she had to admit herself, was twofold—partly because he told her nothing of what occurred at these affairs. His explanation was always some vague reference to business or that he had been at a meeting of an organization to which he belonged.

Eve was dissatisfied but did not know what she could do about it. The night of Freda Carter's party Eve and Arlene went to dinner together and then took a cab to North Hills where Freda lived.

Arlene's eyes brightened when she saw the tiny studio piano. It was an upright model and looked almost like a toy. Its tone was splendid and as soon as her wraps were removed Arlene sat down and ran her fingers over the keys.

"Oh, I didn't know you played!" Freda exclaimed. "Now my party will surely be a success!"

Later Arlene played while the others sang. Her voice was a rich contralto, so sweet that presently when she sounded the first notes of "Lover, Come Back to Me," the other singers gradually dropped out to listen to Arlene. Eve hoped her friend had not chosen the song because George Bliss was there. He had come with Mona Allen.

Someone suggested bridge but it was postponed until later. The apartment house rules forbade music after 11 o'clock and the crowd apparently wanted music as long as possible.

When they sang "Will You Remember" from "Maytime," Sam Holeridge who was crippled and had been sitting quietly in a corner of the room leaped up and joined in the singing, letting his voice ring out lustily.

"Play it again!" he pleaded when the song was ended.

But before the last notes of the chorus had been reached a second time Sam turned away abruptly. Freda Carter saw that his eyes were misted.

"What's the matter, Sam?" she asked kindly.

"It's that song—and what it brings back to me," he told her huskily. "I was in love with a beautiful girl once but it all turned out wrong. After that I thought I had to drink to bolster up my courage. I've been doing it ever since. Even tonight! I'm always drinking to forget myself and I'm a damned fool. Don't think I don't know it. And here I am blubbering all over your place. Why don't you give me my marching orders?"

"That's all right Sam," soothed Freda, patting his arm. "And I want you to stay, of course. Tell me—would you rather the crowd stopped singing?"

"No. Ask the girl at the piano to play 'Liebestraum,' will you?"

And Arlene played it for him. Afterward she sang again while the others listened.

It was a little later when everyone was feeling that the evening had turned into a distinct success that Theron Reece arrived, spoiling the party for Eve.

Immediately he took his place at her side. "Does your hubby know you are out tonight?" he smirked.

Eve's glance was frigid. "I'm afraid I don't know what you mean," she answered.

"Come now," he said triumphantly. "You didn't tell me you were spending your honeymoon alone when we met in New York. Does hubby know you were out with me then?"

"I'm afraid you'll have to excuse me!" Eve said, rising. She could scarcely control herself, yet she did not wish to make a scene. And the apartment was so small she could hardly avoid Reece. She went into the kitchenette.

"May I help you?" she asked Freda, who was making preparations for the buffet supper. Eve wished Dick would come. He had promised to call for her and Arlene.

When she and Eve were alone again Freda said with a laugh, "Well, Arlene seems to have him handcuffed and bound."

"Who is he?" Eve asked. "Don't you know Sam? You should. He's a first rate advertising man. Working at Mason's now. Too bad he drinks so much—he has lots of ability."

Later when Eve looked into the living room she saw that one table of bridge had been organized but Arlene and Sam Holeridge were still at the piano. Mona Allen was holding Reece's hand, telling his fortune, and George Bliss stood alone.

Something impish tempted Eve. "Oh, Mr. Bliss!" she called. "Miss Carter would like a man with a good stroke to slice this ham."

Bliss seemed glad to help in the kitchenette. He opened a bottle of olives, sliced the ham and prepared excellent coffee.

"No kitchenette is complete without a handy man," sighed Freda with a twinkle in her eye. "If you happen to find one who's unattached and not too antique, Eve, be sure to pull an ear for my side."

A moment later she called gaily. "Fall in line for supper! I'm sending you all home early because I've got to be on the job myself tomorrow."

Reece continued his attempts to draw Eve out. He sat beside her and, balancing her plate and coffee cup, she found it inconvenient to move.

Soon the party broke up and the guests paired off to go home. Sam Holeridge asked Arlene to let him escort her but it was true that Sam had been drinking and Arlene was afraid. So she explained that she would have to go home with Eve with whom she had come to the party.

Eve and Arlene waited for Dick, who should have arrived long before. Finally Eve telephoned the apartment but there was no answer. Just as she was beginning to grow worried and restless Reece emerged from the kitchenette.

"All set to be chummy," Arlene whispered to Eve as he sat down on the davenport with the girls. Eve knew she had a hard day before her and that Freda had also. She was anxious to be home and it became increasingly embarrassing to sit waiting for Dick. At last she decided to call a taxi.

"That will be fine," said Reece. "We can all three make knots that way."

Eve was annoyed but with Arlene as a third she did not fear Reece. She asked to be taken home first and this was logical as her home was nearest. However, she did not hear Reece give the instructions to the driver and they arrived at Arlene's home first. Eve had paid no attention to the direction in which they traveled. Now she was too surprised to use her wits and with a good-night to Arlene she resigned herself to the situation. Alone again in the taxi with Reece whom she detested, Eve was provokingly silent.

"You don't like me very well, do you, Eve?" he asked.

"Mrs. Rader, if you please," she corrected him.

Reece removed his hat and ran his fingers through his black, curly hair. He was good looking, Eve thought, in rather a movie hero manner. He laughed, a low, throaty laugh. "Can't make me mad," he assured her.

To Eve's intense relief, however, he did not become cheaply familiar. His attempts at conversation met with silence from her and she sprang from the cab as soon as it stopped before her home. Reece followed her safely inside the hall. Dick opened the door and nodded curtly to Reece who turned and went his way.

"I waited and waited for you!" Eve said accusingly.

"I'm sorry I was late," Dick said, "but I couldn't help it. When I got to Freda's you had just gone. But I've been waiting a long while since I got home."

There was no use putting up a defense, Eve thought. She was tired and an argument would lead nowhere. Let Dick think what he might about her coming home with Theron Reece!

Betsy Ann Leaves Here With Cargo of Cotton

The steamer "Betsy Ann" arrived from New Orleans Friday morning with two barges of sugar and miscellaneous freight. She unloaded and departed for New Orleans yesterday with three barges of cotton. The tow comprised 7,000 bales.

The "Betsy Ann" was remembered by older residents as the mail boat running from Natchez to Bayou Sara, La., back in 1905.

The new steamer, "Altair," will arrive in Monroe about October 20 and will be operated in conjunction with the "Betsy Ann" from Monroe to Camden, Ark.

The "Betsy Ann" is in command of Capt. Oliver H. Troclair, with Capt. E. W. Booth as pilot. The engine room is in charge of Chief Joseph Rodriguez with L. Michael as assistant.

Do you trade your house every January?

Henry Ford Dearborn, Mich.

The golden days of the glib salesman and the tricky trader and the careless buyer of cars, are over and gone. It will be long before we see their like again.

Every family in America knows that buying a car today represents about double the investment it did several years ago. Not that car prices have gone up, but family incomes have gone down. The national income which was 84 billions in 1929 is less than 40 billions in 1933.

This means that everybody is striving to make every outgoing dollar bring back an equal value in quality. And that is right.

No country ever comes to economic trouble where values are kept equal. It is only when a man gives honest labor for the dollar which he receives, and is given dishonest value for the dollar which he spends, that the nation's life becomes unbalanced and broken. This is an old lesson in Bible economics that we ought to have learned.

Buying a car and buying a house are on nearly the same level of importance in the mind of the American family just now. They are both major investments. Both are considered from the point of long-term use and value.

We do not buy houses to trade them for new models every January. When we buy a house we expect to make it a home that will give us long, comfortable and economical use. More than that, we expect that the money price will be so evenly matched with the real value of the house that we may reasonably hope to get back the unused part of our investment should we dispose of it.

Cars are now being considered in exactly the same way. People are not buying the sales talk invented by sellers. They are buying the quality created by manufacturers. And quality is doing the talking.

Our experience is that the real talk about a car comes after the car is bought and is in use. That is the talk we rely on.

Intelligent buying is going on in this country. Many families are making a solid investment in a new car. We know this because of the way people have bought the Ford V-8 in the last few months. It has been the choice of every class of car user, both those who can afford to pay more, and those who must carefully economize.

This car is the logical answer to the careful buyer's search for value.

BAPTIST SERMON IS GIVEN PRAISE

Rev. Virgil Starnes Continues Revival Meeting in West Monroe

The evening service at Immanuel Baptist church Friday night was declared by some of those present to have been one of the greatest hours in the history of the church life of West Monroe. Some of those present said it reminded them of descriptions of Pentecost.

For the first time during the meeting, Rev. Virgil Starnes, visiting evangelist, gave an opportunity for public profession of faith in Christ. Men and women went over the building asking others to accept Christ. Twelve answered the first call and came into the membership of the church, three by letter and nine for baptism. Saturday night another good service was conducted, at which time others came into the membership of the church.

The church is confidently expecting a great spiritual uplift in the services of Sunday, it was reported. At 9:45 the Sunday school will meet. After class records are taken all classes will return to the auditorium, where the evangelist will speak. "A Mother's Charge" or "Parental Responsibility," will be the subject for the morning hour.

The entire evangelistic party will conduct a service at the Louisiana

Training Institute Sunday afternoon at two o'clock.

At 6:15 p.m. a song and devotional service will be conducted, following which the pastor, Rev. H. L. Driskell, will administer the ordinance of baptism to the candidates in the church pool. A brief hour of young people's service and prayer will follow the baptismal service, just preceding the evening evangelistic service.

The pastor will leave on the east bound train over the Illinois Central to report at fourth corps area headquarters at Fort McPherson, Georgia, Monday. The church has extended an indefinite leave of absence and given the privilege of a supply in the pastor's absence. Rev. George E. Goodman of Monroe, will probably do the supply work during this period.

The evangelistic services will continue during all the coming week at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Larry Henry Is Named
Fish and Game Warden

Larry Henry has received appointment as fish and game warden for this district under the state conservation department. He is taking office at once, succeeding L. H. Peavy, who resigned some weeks ago.

Mr. Henry is well known in this city where he was for some years in the clothing business, later having traveled Texas and Louisiana for a supply house.

He stated that he will exert every possible effort to see that game and fish laws of the state are observed in this section of Louisiana.

CHAPTER XIX

Though she would not have admitted it to anyone there were times when Eve Rader worried about her marriage. Was her work at the office making too many demands on her time and interest, she asked herself. Dick did not complain but nevertheless she sensed that something was wrong.

For one thing, there were those evenings he spent away from home. Eve had planned to be generous and tolerant in such matters. She had assured herself that she had the "modern" viewpoint. CHEVROLET HAS TRUE ECONOMIES

Many Features of New Six Make It Best Value on Market Today

Chevrolet owners may expect many thousands of economical miles from their car, according to Jack Rogers, of the Lee-Rogers Chevrolet company, local dealers.

"You'll save with a Chevrolet, especially after 10,000 miles," Mr. Rogers said. "The longer you drive a Chevrolet, the stronger you'll be for Chevrolet economy. And the more you'll appreciate the many things about the car that makes this economy possible."

Mr. Rogers went on to point out some of the many improvements of the new Chevrolet six.

"You'll learn how much better off you are, a valve-in-head six that keeps on using the very minimum of gas and oil," he declared. "Or what a lot of trouble you're spared by having the engine cushion-balanced to avoid destructive vibration. How much more economical it is to have a Fisher body, a staunch, solid steel-plus-hardwood body that's built rigid and tight and stays that way for years. And what a big advantage there is in owning a large, full-weight, solidly built car that can take plenty of punishment without showing this."

Year, Chevrolet is so far ahead of its field in popularity that no other er car comes even close to it in sales. Recent figures compiled on all automobile sales show that Chevrolet is far out in front in both volume and percentage of sales. Plainly, America wants a car that's just as economical after 10,000 miles as before—a car that saved and keeps on saving.

Chevrolet has embodied many wonderful new improvements in the new Six. It is a luxurious automobile that makes one wonder "how they do it." And Chevrolet cars have Fisher ventilation that will protect occupants of the car against exposure to drafts and prevents catching colds, a feature that is of especial interest now that winter is approaching.

Sam Orchard Is Back From Legion Meeting

Sam Orchard, former commander of the L. B. Faulk American Legion post, has just returned with his family from a trip to the national Legion convention and the Century of Progress exposition. He stated that he had never before realized the might of the Legion until he saw the convention in Chicago.

"There were 160,000 men in the parade and it required from 10 a. m. to 7 p. m. for the lines to pass a given point," he said. "The state of Massachusetts alone contributed 18,000 members to the Legion's delegation. Mr. Orchard declared that it was estimated in Chicago that no less than 225,000 people were in the city as visitors due to the holding of the Legion convention there."

From Chicago, Mr. Orchard and his wife went to Green Bay and other Wisconsin cities and inspected paper plants.

EL CUBO CIGARS ARE HAND MADE

Mayer Company Safeguards Quality in Popular 5-Cent Smoke

When the El Cubo cigar enjoyed immediate demand from cigar smokers at the time it was first placed on the market many years ago, officials of the factory in New Orleans decided that they had at last found a brand of Havana tobacco and a fine shade-grown wrapper which would assure them success as cigar manufacturers.

Throughout the years, noticing that the demand for their product enjoyed a steady increase and that the demand had spread throughout the country, these cigar makers have remained determined to constantly maintain themselves against a possible crop failure in the Havana tobacco fields that they use in their product by buying much in advance and storing the tobacco in warehouses. They realize that the success of their business depends upon the constant and unchanging quality of the El Cubo cigar and do not take any chances that might affect this condition.

Realizing that they had to also depend upon human judgment to maintain this El Cubo quality, officials of the firm have always adhered to the policy of having their cigars made by hand. They know that they can trust their experienced cigar makers to use just the right kind of tobacco in the blend that assure this quality and smoking satisfaction for El Cubo cigar smokers. They have been convinced many times that they could make greater profits out of their operations should they install cigar-wrapping machinery, but they claim that they have never been convinced that these machines would guarantee that El Cubo quality—and they would not take chances with having this distinctive quality vary in any degree.

Throughout the past several years there have been hundreds of cigar makers gainfully employed in the El Cubo cigar and company factory. This plant is one of the most valuable industries in the state in this respect and in the fact that it pays great amounts to the state in taxes on the products that they manufacture.

For mild, superior quality, it is suggested that you try an El Cubo cigar which is offered in a full range of prices and which might be bought from practically any cigar dealer in this section of the country.

Chinese Killed by Car Is Buried on Saturday
Funeral services for Tong Kwe, Chinese, who died Wednesday morning as a result of injuries received when struck by a hit-and-run automobile Tuesday night, were held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at Mulhearn's funeral chapel with Rev. Ernest Holloway officiating. Burial was in the city cemetery.

Efforts by friends to return the body to China for burial failed. Kwe was crossing DeSard street, between Eighth and Ninth streets, with Frank Yee, another Chinese, when both were hit by an automobile which failed to stop. Yee was struck only a glancing blow and escaped with minor cuts and bruises. Kwe was dragged for some distance by the car.

GUS WINKLER, Chicago's "gang overlord" had a handsome diamond-studded belt that Al Capone gave him, a diamond-studded watch chain, other diamonds, and his wife said tearfully that she "would bury Gus's diamonds with him." Reporters say the diamonds were not in the coffin.

Frau Cosima Wagner, daughter of Liszt, cut off her beautiful brown hair that reached to her knees and put it under the pillow in the coffin of her husband, Richard Wagner. She regretted it later perhaps, after publication of interesting letters that he had written to another lady.

THE AMERICAN Federation of Labor votes to boycott all goods produced in Germany, Italy, Russia, China, or "any other country which forbids free organization of labor unions."

It agrees to support President Roosevelt in his recovery program, but union labor must get greater benefits under it.

Employers are expected to comply without any qualifying "buts."

MR. ROCKEFELLER'S investigators, looking into the question "what to do after prohibition goes?" believe taxation of liquor should yield $700,000,000 a year.

The Rockefeller report advises state control of the liquor industry and says it is foolish to talk about "socialism." Government agencies that "own and operate bridges, tunnels, irrigation projects, power developments, shipping and a dozen other things" might well own and operate liquor dispensaries.

YOUR WOBBLING DOLLAR rose in value Friday, to 68 cents, in the opinion of European money dealers.

Our government's recent "conversion" of $1,875,000 worth of liberty bonds, convinced them there is "no danger of dollar inflation." The dollar may go to 68 cents or back where it was, at about $1.68, if the government continues its policy of "dollars few and precious." But the prosperity of Americans generally will not go up correspondingly. If the government doesn't make money more plentiful, there will be trouble in this country, and trouble for the government, such as neither has yet seen.

all it was told about "the government that governs least governs best," is now in business with a vengeance. It is in the pork business among other things, and it recently purchased 5,000,000 pounds of pork to help farmers and will give the pork to the hungry.

F. H. LeGuardia, one of several running for mayor in New York, informs a cheering crowd that he has arranged with the government to give beef instead of pork to those that do not like pork. Clothing the naked and feeding the hungry is no longer a simple business.

New Master Series Models Are Last Word in Refrigerators

The name Westinghouse has always stood for high quality and thus one may form the opinion that Westinghouse products are high in price, but such is not the case. The Westinghouse electric refrigerator is generally considered the best the market affords, but Westinghouse refrigerators may be purchased at surprisingly low prices, according to the Monroe Hardware company, distributors of Westinghouse products.

For instance, there's the model BL-42. This new model contains 4.2 cubic feet of net usable interior volume, 8.9 square feet of shelf area, and freezes 44 large ice cubes, yet it sells for only $99.50, at the factory.

This amazing new Westinghouse value is not a "price leader." It is not a "second-line" model. It is powered with the same precision-built, hermetically-sealed Westinghouse mechanism used in the larger models. Cabinets are of the finest all-steel quality, super-sealed with Westinghouse-perfected insulation.

CHEVROLET HAS TRUE ECONOMIES

Many Features of New Six Make It Best Value on Market Today

Chevrolet owners may expect many thousands of economical miles from their car, according to Jack Rogers, of the Lee-Rogers Chevrolet company, local dealers.

"You'll save with a Chevrolet, especially after 10,000 miles," Mr. Rogers said. "The longer you drive a Chevrolet, the stronger you'll be for Chevrolet economy. And the more you'll appreciate the many things about the car that makes this economy possible."

Mr. Rogers went on to point out some of the many improvements of the new Chevrolet six.

"You'll learn how much better off you are, a valve-in-head six that keeps on using the very minimum of gas and oil," he declared. "Or what a lot of trouble you're spared by having the engine cushion-balanced to avoid destructive vibration. How much more economical it is to have a Fisher body, a staunch, solid steel-plus-hardwood body that's built rigid and tight and stays that way for years. And what a big advantage there is in owning a large, full-weight, solidly built car that can take plenty of punishment without showing it."

This year, Chevrolet is so far ahead of its field in popularity that no other car comes even close to it in sales. Recent figures compiled on all automobile sales show that Chevrolet is far out in front in both volume and percentage of sales. Plainly, America wants a car that's just as economical after 10,000 miles as before—a car that saved and keeps on saving.

Chevrolet has embodied many wonderful new improvements in the new Six. It is a luxurious automobile that makes one wonder "how they do it." And Chevrolet cars have Fisher ventilation that will protect occupants of the car against exposure to drafts and prevents catching colds, a feature that is of especial interest now that winter is approaching.

A Lee-Rogers salesman will be pleased to demonstrate Chevrolet's many advantages. There is no obligation.

Lee-Rogers Chevrolet company, of course, was one of the first to sign the president's NRA agreement.

Sam Orchard Is Back From Legion Meeting

Sam Orchard, former commander of the L. B. Faulk American Legion post, has just returned with his family from a trip to the national Legion convention and the Century of Progress exposition. He stated that he had never before realized the might of the Legion until he saw the convention in Chicago.

"There were 160,000 men in the parade and it required from 10 a. m. to 7 p. m. for the lines to pass a given point," he said. "The state of Massachusetts alone contributed 18,000 members to the Legion's delegation."

Mr. Orchard declared that it was estimated in Chicago that no less than 225,000 people were in the city as visitors due to the holding of the Legion convention there.

From Chicago, Mr. Orchard and his wife went to Green Bay and other Wisconsin cities and inspected paper plants.

EL CUBO CIGARS ARE HAND MADE

Mayer Company Safeguards Quality in Popular 5-Cent Smoke

When the El Cubo cigar enjoyed immediate demand from cigar smokers at the time it was first placed on the market many years ago, officials of the factory in New Orleans decided that they had at last found a blend of Havana tobacco and a fine shade-grown wrapper which would assure them success as cigar manufacturers.

Throughout the years, noticing that the demand for their product enjoyed a steady increase and that the demand had spread throughout the country, these cigar makers have remained determined to constantly maintain themselves against a possible crop failure in the Havana tobacco that they use in their product by buying much in advance and storing the tobacco in warehouses. They realize that the success of their business depends upon the constant and unchanging quality of the El Cubo cigar and do not take any chances that might affect this condition.

Realizing that they had also depended upon human judgment to maintain this El Cubo quality, officials of the firm have always adhered to the policy of having their cigars made by hand. They know that they can trust their experienced cigar makers to use just the right kind of tobacco in the blend that assure this quality and smoking satisfaction for El Cubo cigar smokers. They have been convinced many times that they could make greater profits out of their operations should they install cigar-wrapping machinery, but they claim that these machines would guarantee that El Cubo quality—and they would not take chances with having this distinctive quality vary in any degree.

Throughout the past several years there have been hundreds of cigar makers gainfully employed in the El Cubo cigar and Company factory. This plant is one of the most valuable industries in the state in this respect and in the fact that it pays great amounts to the state in taxes on the products that they manufacture.

For mild, superior quality, it is suggested that you try an El Cubo cigar which is offered in a full range of prices and which might be bought from practically any cigar dealer in this section of the country.

ALLEN CONTINUES REVIVAL SERMONS

"Characteristics of Real Christian" Was Subject on Friday

"Characteristics of a Real Christian" was the subject of a sermon delivered Friday night by Rev. Harry S. Allen, evangelist, at the First Methodist church in West Monroe. He said in part:

"It is one thing to profess and another to possess the real experience of having Christ in one's heart and life. Not every one that says 'Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father. What you do speaks so loudly that I cannot hear what you say. Paul the great apostle, tells us what we will have if we are 100 per cent Christians.

"In the fourth chapter of his letter to the Philippians he gives the characteristics of a life hid with Christ in God. First, he said, stand fast in the Lord. Steadfastness is most essential if we would have a life worth while.

"Never was there a time when it required more of this quality and determination than today. There are many things trying to rob God's people of vital godliness.

Services will continue throughout the week at 9:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. People are coming to the revival from different parts of Monroe and West Monroe and before the close of the revival many are expected to be reached for the church, Rev. Louis Hoffpauir, pastor, said.

Curtis Williams of Port Worth, Texas, is conducting the singing. He has had many years experience as a song director and is a member of the Baptist church. He has assisted some of the leading men of that denomination in their revival campaigns. His solos are enjoyed by the congregations and he is being assisted in the music by a large choir.

IN SMART MUSICAL AT CAPITOL

June Knight, ravishing favorite of the New York stage, makes her film debut in "Ladies Must Love," one of the season's gayest, smartest, and most tuneful, musical comedies playing at the Capitol theater today and Monday. A perfect blending of sentiment and gold-digging makes for uproarious laughter, drama, wise-cracks, music and songs. Miss Knight is featured with Neil Hamilton, Sally O'Neill, Dorothy Burgess, Mary Carlisle and George E. Stone.

TODAY'S AMUSEMENTS

AT THE PARAMOUNT.—Bing Crosby, Jack Oakie, Skeets Gallagher, Judith Allen, Harry Green, Lilyan Tashman and Ned Sparks head the star-packed cast of Paramount's sensational musical comedy smash, "Too Much Harmony," at the Paramount theater Sunday for the last times.

The film, directed by Edward Sullivan, centers around the on-and-off stage activities of a group of show people. Interspersed in the action are the novel plot unravels are eight brand new hit tunes, and several lavish production numbers, staged by the famous dance director, LeRoy Prinz, with a huge chorus of Hollywood's foremost beauties.

Crosby, last seen in "College Humor," has the stellar role of Eddie Bronson, musical comedy star who falls in love with Judith Allen when he discovers her doing a small-time vaudeville act in the west. He brings her to Broadway for a big role in his new show, and then the fun begins. For along with her comes her fiancé, Jack Oakie, and Skeets Gal-agher. Events both hilarious and dramatic occur with lightning-like rapidity, as Oakie and Crosby and Miss Allen attempt to solve the unfortunate triangle. The film comes to a highly amusing conclusion when Oakie impersonates a Texas millionaire, in order to alienate the affections of Crosby's scheming fiancée so that Bing and Judith can get together.

Harry Green is cast as a slightly cracked theatrical producer, Lilyan Tashman is a scheming and voluptuous siren, and Ned Sparks plays the role of Lem Spawm, a sphinx-faced person who knows all the answers to Jack Oakie's alleged jokes.

AT THE CAPITOL.—The boudoirs of Broadway's "Ladies of the evening" form the setting for much of the story of "Ladies Must Love," the gay universal musical picture at the Capitol theater Sunday and Monday with June Knight and Neil Hamilton in features roles.

The story revolves around four seductive girls who live in a luxurious penthouse apartment on New York's notorious avenue of intrigues. From this penthouse the action swings to a large cafe, and later to the streets of New York, where many amusing incidents take place. An ultra-modern touch is brought into the story when the scene is transferred to a beer garden, with a horde of customers quaffing the foamy fluid, and the four luscious girls, now somewhat down on their luck, swinging and dancing on the stage at one end of the enclosure. As a distinct contrast to those perfectly lawful scenes are other episodes laid in a New York speakeasy, and all sorts of gambling games in operation.

Supporting June Knight and Neil Hamilton in "Ladies Must Love" are Dorothy Burgess, Sally O'Neill, Mary Carlisle, George E. Stone and other well known players, and the tuneful picture was directed by E. A. Dupont.

City to Receive Bids For Pumping Station

Bids will be received until October 23 at 11 o'clock by the commission council of the city of Monroe for the construction of a storm water pumping station and appurtenances at Calypso and South Grand streets, with the contractor furnishing all necessary labor, equipment and materials. Plans and specifications are on file with W. I. Neel, city engineer, at his office in the city hall.

This work consists of the following approximate quantities:
Reinforced concrete 500 cubic yards; excavation, 2,000 cubic yards; crosscut timber piling, 15 by 37 one-story brick building.
Full information can be had of Mr. Neel. Bids must in all cases be accompanied by a check for 5 per cent of the amount bid, which will be returned to unsuccessful bidders.

CITY PROVIDES FOR RECREATION

Ordinance Establishing Department Is Promulgated by Mayor

A city ordinance establishing the Monroe recreation department as a legally constituted department of the city, was promulgated by Mayor Bernstein, following formal adoption of the measure at a meeting of the city council October 10.

Creation of the department was made under the authority of Act No. 200 of the legislature of 1924. The action of the council was taken, it was explained by Mayor Bernstein, to insure the perpetuation of the work that has already been done under the direction of the recreation association, which has been in existence for nearly three years. The department will be known as the "recreation board of the city of Monroe," with powers of administration under the direction of the city commission, vested in a board of five or more members, at least two of whom shall be women, "serving without pay, residents of the city of Monroe, who are known to be interested in public recreation." Appointment of the board is to be made by the mayor, subject to the approval of the council. The present members of the board are: Fred Williamson, chairman; Dr. B. M. McKoin, vice-chairman; Mrs. Charles Mitchell, secretary-treasurer; Miss Julia Wossman, Rev. T. L. Jett, G. B. Cooley, Isaac Lemle. A. B. Clarkson is the representative of the National Recreation association on the board.

A report embracing the wide activities of the recreation department during the past year was presented to the council by Miss Lucyle Godwin, superintendent. In her report Miss Godwin said:

"We are proud of the steps taken by our mayor, commissioners, recreation board, Twin City P-T. A. council and citizens in their efforts and success in carrying on in spite of the conditions of the past summer. It is with a feeling of pride that we can point out to our national association, Monroe, as a city carrying on as other cities in the great field of leisure time activities. We believe that the past summer has been a testing time that has proved beyond a doubt the merit and importance of this work.

It is our sincere hope that the next few years will see a continual growth in this field of endeavor, so that every man, woman and child will feel that he or she is a part of the Monroe recreation department; remembering, recreation for all and all for recreation."

"The destiny of our country is in the use that shall be made of this greatly increased leisure time. "Prevention and conservation are better than punishment and correction and cost much less."

N. C. Williamson Asks Farmers to Hold Cotton

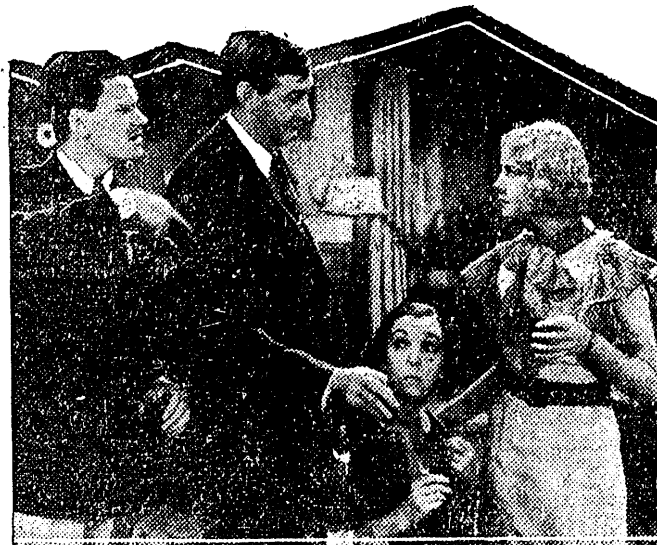

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., Oct. 14.—(Special)—N. C. Williamson, of Lake Providence, president of the American Cotton Cooperative association in a statement today urged cotton farmers to hold their cotton until the department of agriculture completes details for the ten cent loan.

He said the price is now below ten cents and if all the farmers will accept the loan and refuse to sell their cotton the price will soon advance. Every farmer who sells a bale of cotton now is helping to defeat the plan proposed by the president to help the cotton farmer, he said.

The object of the plan is to control acreage next year and thus raise the price. Therefore every farmer who places his cotton in the loan pool is helping to make this program a success, Williamson declared.

Williamson, in a telegram to George Peck and C. A. Cobb today urged prompt action so that farmers may know just what they are expected to do. He informed these officials that further delay will seriously endanger the success of the whole plan.

LABOR in the TWIN CITIES

of Typographical Union

It is only recently that men of prominence other than spokesmen for labor have become converted to this philosophy. Because of his prominence and accepted leadership in the south we quote from an editorial by Josephus Daniels, a former secretary of the navy, publisher of the Raleigh News and Observer:

"The history of the rising standard of living in American life during the past half century has been by and large the history of the organized labor movement. Where men have been able to collectively bargain for the prices of their services they have been able to secure a far greater return than they otherwise could have obtained.

"The south has lagged far behind the rest of the country in the organization of its workers, and the result has been that southern wages have also lagged far behind the level in other sections. The low base of wages has kept low, too, the volume of mercantile business done. It has kept depressed the prosperity of the whole south where the per capita wealth has been lower than any other section of the nation.

"Nowhere else in the country has there been a more stubborn resistance on the part of industry to the organization of their workers for the purpose of collective bargaining. For that reason no other feature of the recently passed industrial recovery act is more important to the south than that which will bring to an abrupt end the practice of discharging workers in southern industry for the single reason that they helped to form or belonged to a union.

"Not in the history of the labor movement in the south has a greater opportunity been offered to secure that collective bargaining necessary to the lifting of the living standards of labor. This may be bitter news to obdurate, individualistic employers, but it is good news not only to the workers of the south but also for all who wish to see the level of the southern living standards lifted from the top of the bottom of southern life."

Satisfied with the program of its present leaders, the American Federation of Labor in convention today reaffirmed its traditional opposition to unrestrained inflation, pledged its support to President Roosevelt's recovery program and re-elected its officers for another year. Renewed assaults upon the federation's activities since NIRA proved only short uprisings that went down under the mass of votes behind the ruling officers.

Gentlemen:—
The Silver Fleet is at present using five of the twenty Ford V-8 truck tractors on the New Orleans-Memphis division.

Although we encounter the worst road conditions in our entire system we average from eight to ten miles per gallon of gas pulling a payload of 10,000 pounds each way, covering the 450 miles in about eighteen hours.

Some of our trucks are now five months old and have travelled more than 20,000 miles. You can't beat Ford for economy and efficiency in motor freight transportation.

We believe in our Ford V-8s.

"I'll never use anything but a FORD V-8"

Says Mr. Matthews of the Silver Fleet

Mr. Matthews' experience is not unusual. Similar results have recently been accomplished by the Big Red Ford V-8 Freighter with a 2 1/2 ton load in the gruelling 5000 mile Economy Run.

Here are the figures that tell the story: (1) Average 11.5 miles per gallon of gasoline, with a 66 2-3% overload; (2) used only 7 quarts of water in 5000 miles; (3) not a single drop of oil was added between changes, and oil was changed only 4 times. All foregoing figures checked and verified by the A. A. A.

These two tests conclusively prove to truck buyers the economy and dependability of the Ford V-8 truck. The Ford V-8 truck will satisfy your haulage needs with greatest efficiency and at the lowest cost per unit of material hauled.

ALLEN CONTINUES REVIVAL SERMONS

'Characteristics of Real Christian' Was Subject on Friday

"Characteristics of a Real Christian" was the subject of a sermon delivered Friday night by Rev. Harry S. Allen, evangelist, at the First Methodist church in West Monroe. He said in part:

"It is one thing to profess and another to possess the real experience of having Christ in one's heart and life. Not every one that says 'Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father. What you do speaks so loudly that I cannot hear what you say. Paul the great apostle, tells us what we will have if we are 100 per cent Christians."

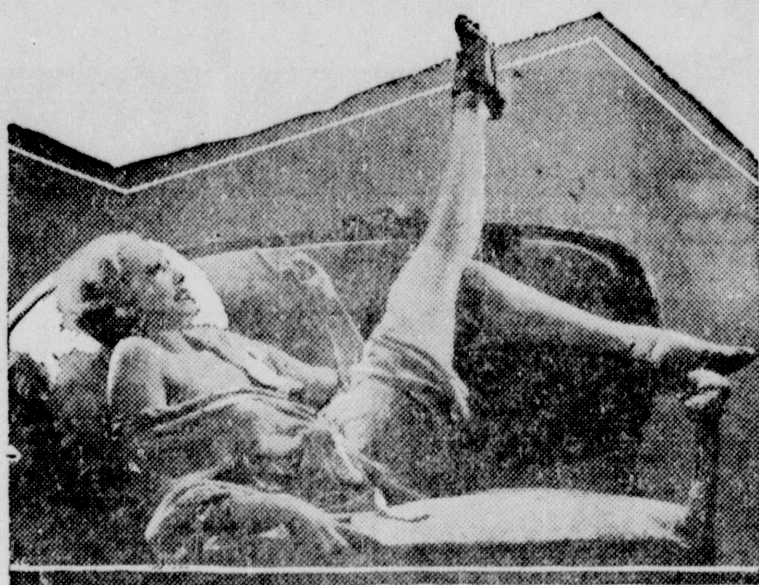

"In the fourth chapter of his letter to the Philippians he gives the characteristics of a life hid with Christ in God. First, he said, stand fast in the Lord. Steadfastness is most essential if we would have a life worth while."

"Never was there a time when it required more of this quality and determination than today. There are many things trying to rob God's people of their godliness."

Services will continue throughout the week at 9:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. People are coming to the revival from different parts of Monroe and West Monroe and before the close of the revival many are expected to be reached for the church. Rev. Louis Hoffpauir, pastor, said.

Curtis Williams of Fort Worth, Texas, is conducting the singing. He has had many years experience as a song director and is a member of the Baptist church. He has assisted some of the leading men of that denomination in their revival campaigns. His solos are enjoyed by the congregations and he is being assisted in the music by a large choir.

ITCHING, PAINFUL SKIN IRRITATION SOON HEALED

"A while ago," writes a man in New York City, "my leg got red, swollen, and itched terribly. Then it broke out in several places and the pain was intense. I used all kinds of treatments without success and I walked the floor at night in pain. A friend told me he used Resinol Ointment, so I tried it. In two hours I had relief and after using two and one-half large jars the leg was completely healed. If you suffer from some itching, burning skin disorder, try Resinol Ointment—your druggist sells it—and see if it doesn't help you as it has thousands of others."

Autumn's Pageantry Lures Lovers Of Nature Into Nearby Woodlands

MON AMIE, how beautiful our days, to say nothing of the cool evenings with a hint of frost in the air like a sip of wine to a jaded appetite. . . . What more could this Sabbath day offer than an invitation to roam the wayside banquet hall where plants are heavy with seed and nature seems resting momentarily, now the struggle of production is over. . . . After bowing your head in humble thankfulness for all the beauty encompassing you about, why not go from church to "God's first temples" and worship at the shrine of nature for the rest of the day? . . . So many pleasant things are associated with life these days . . . hot cereal for dejeuner . . . glowing fireplaces . . . a cup of orange-pecoo with a friend . . . walking over the sun-kissed golf links at the country club . . . casual chats with acquaintances in the shops . . . softly glowing evenings . . . then to bed to tuck yourself under a fuzzy wool blanket and off to peaceful, quiet sleep without the buzz of an electric fan. . . . Always at this time we offer up a little prayer of thankfulness for our work which is cast in such pleasant lines, and the privilege it affords for association with kindly people. . . .

Perfect Plans For the Fall Flower Show

Flowers in home gardens of Monroe and West Monroe are being given extra care this month in an effort to produce perfect blooms for the first annual flower show of the Garden club on the twenty-sixth of October.

Every garden lover in the city is now alive to the possibilities of a fall flower show and whenever one or two are gathered together you rest assured the pedigree of a flower is the subject of discussion. The variety of the true color, the cultivation and the care of seedlings are now being studied as never before.

The fall flower show will be held on the roof garden of the Virginia hotel with Mrs. J. L. Kennen who spends her days among the beautiful flowers that nod a welcome to every visitor on the roof, assisting members of the Garden club in classifying the flowers.

The class list is an extensive one, including all fall flowers, shrubs, floral arrangements and competitive classes for table bouquets. The show will open in the morning and remain open until 10 o'clock in the evening.

Mrs. Elmer Richards, chairman of exhibits, is most enthusiastic over the interest being displayed by amateur gardeners and feels sure that the exhibit will be well worth the attention of any visitor.

Interesting visitors in the city are Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Mansberg of Balboa Heights, Canal Zone, guests in the home of their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Mansberg, Jr., and their mother, Mrs. E. N. Mansberg, Sr.

Monroe girls off at college are continually having honors heaped upon them . . . just heard that Gertrude Feazel has been made president of the senior class at Gulf Park college. . . . Margaret Poag, president of the freshman class at Whitworth college. . . .

Sarah Talbert has had honors conferred upon her at Shorter college, Georgia. . . . Others whose school days are over are in the limelight this week. . . . Blanche Oliver's thrilling voice tomorrow will encircle the country, telling folks how wondrously beautiful and how vast the resources of Monroe. . . .

On the same program, Florence Zeigler's slender fingers will glide over the ivories, playing the piano accompaniment to her and Blanche's musical composition "Flood Suite" rendered by the National Broadcasting orchestra. . . .

Ruth Rasbury's beautiful soprano will be heard in a radio program sponsored by the National Federated Music clubs. . . . Mrs. James Davis, pianist, and Bessie Sterns, alto, will also make their bow before the microphone on a national hookup. . . .

Mrs. Stone Talks on Subject Of Great Interest to Members Of Welcome Branch Book Club

Mrs. Dudley Stone spoke before members of the Welcome Branch of the Twentieth Century Book club on the subject of "The Foreign Policy of the United States." You will find material of great interest to you in her remarks which follow:

"The foreign policy of this, or any other country, can only be an instrument of government and a government can only be continuous and effective when it labors for the welfare of its own people.

"The foreign policy of this country cannot be unrelated to its economic structure. It cannot be something apart, an activity for delicate gentlemen who dislike trade. It is as an instrument of trade, as a weapon for economic exploitation, as a means of producing more work for American labor and more revenue for the American farmer, that the foreign policy of this country, in this critical period of the shrinkage of dollars, takes on a new importance.

"The American attitudes toward Soviet Russia, Japan, China, Canada, Great Britain and even the South American countries, call for immediate revisions because they were developed without due regard to trade interest. If they want to and can do business with us, we should do business with them—and let questions of ideals, morals, confused logic and human error be left to politicians, specialists and to time.

"The foreign policy of the United States was developed during the 19th century when a small number of the ardent and courageous men and women set out to conquer an unknown continent. From the beginning of national existence the American relationship with foreign parts, not only with Europe and Central America, but also with Asia and Africa, required a defensive foreign policy to safeguard the very existence of the small and struggling country and to protect its slight commerce. Thus the first treaty with China, signed as early as 1843, contains all the factors which are today inherent in our Asiatic policy. Similarly, the Monroe Doctrine is a defensive mechanism against continued European penetration on the American continents. The foreign policy was, in those days, a defensive mechanism of an insecure people who wanted to be left alone, to work out their destiny in the conquest of a rich continent.

"The territorial limits of the United States were for years uncertain. It was not until the Pacific was reached that the western political boundary was fixed, but an intervening economic area remained for colonial exploitation. The northern boundary was fixed by Canada's disinclination to forsake England, but we almost went to war over the Oregon territory. The southern boundary was achieved by imperialistic warfare and equally imperialistic purchase.

"As this movement of the boundaries away from the original thirteen colonies involved relations with foreign countries, the United States was aggressively forward in its foreign policy, but trade has never been its primary force of motivation. If anywhere, only in the Far East, and principally in the articulation of the American policy in China, has trade tended to be a salient factor in American foreign relations. The acquisition of the Philippines aroused an interest in the Pacific trade which had become less active after the Civil war, but it was not until the World war were American statesmen stirred.

"This is a dangerous conception of the future of this country and we realize that foreign trade is a direct solution of our problem. He who buys must be able to sell. "If what this country requires for peace and prosperity is foreign trade, then that is what we should set out to get and our foreign policy should be revised and altered to serve as an instrument in the getting."

Members of the Friendship class of the First Christian church entertained with a charming class banquet in the church parlors, Thursday evening.

The class colors were everywhere in evidence, forming a canopy over the dinner table centered with an immense plaque of pink roses and fern flanked by tall pink tapers in pink crystal candlesticks. Baskets overflowing with pink roses were placed at vantage points.

A delicious dinner was served to the thirty-five members who also enjoyed a delightful program with Mrs. Thomas Jett the charming toastmistress. Mrs. O. R. Tomlinson gave the invocation and Mrs. Emma Alexander gave a splendid dramatic reading, "The Value of an Adult Class." A memorial to Mrs. H. L. Talbert was read by Mrs. Merl Padgett.

Lovely Tea Hour Brings a Few Members of the Younger Set Together at Ethridge Home

Open face sandwiches and individual cakes embossed in rose color were placed in silver salvers along the board and bonbonnières held delicious sweetmeats and choice confections. Autumn's Pageantry Lures Lovers Of Nature Into Nearby Woodlands

MON AMIE, how beautiful our days, to say nothing of the cool evenings with a hint of frost in the air like a sip of wine to a jaded appetite. . . . What more could this Sabbath day offer than an invitation to roam the wayside banquet hall where plants are heavy with seed and nature seems resting momentarily, now the struggle of production is over. . . . After bowing your head in humble thankfulness for all the beauty encompassing you about, why not go from church to "God's first temples" and worship at the shrine of nature for the rest of the day? . . . So many pleasant things are associated with life these days . . . hot cereal for dejeuner . . . glowing fireplaces . . . a cup of orange-pecan with a friend . . . walking over the sun-kissed golf links at the country club . . . casual chats with acquaintances in the shops . . . softly glowing evenings . . . then to bed to tuck yourself under a fuzzy wool blanket and off to peaceful, quiet sleep without the buzz of an electric fan. . . . Always at this time we offer up a little prayer of thankfulness for our work which is cast in such pleasant lines, and the privilege it affords for association with kindly people. . . . Mrs. J. S. Sisson for instance who brought such gorgeous roses from her garden to glorify the drab walls of our office. . . . Mrs. P. N. Edwards who gathered her choicest dahlias to gladden our heart. . . . Mrs. M. P. Hayes who remembered a little kindness done and expressed her pleasure to us in a "sweet" way. . . . countless others make our daily work exceedingly joyful by their words of appreciation and encouragement. . . . We are constantly inspired by Lizzie Morris whose heart is big enough to include all mankind in her manifestations of love. . . . Mrs. M. E. Ethridge is still another who believes in giving praise for work well done. . . . her sweet voice over the telephone on several occasions, fell like a benediction on our ears. . . . Mrs. Bruce Frizzell has a way of making your whole day happier by some little word of praise. . . . We have in mind also Mrs. Joseph Davenport with her sweetness of manner that envelopes her like a mantle. . . . she is so sincere in her praise and kindness to people generally. . . . and so on ad infinitum. . . . we would like at this time to quote the glowing words of Henry Ward Beecher—"Do not keep the alabaster boxes of your love and tenderness sealed up until your friends are dead—fill their lives with sweetness. Speak approving, cheering words while their ears can hear them and while their hearts can be thrilled by them."

Mrs. Stone Talks on Subject Of Great Interest to Members Of Welcome Branch Book Club

Mrs. Dudley Stone spoke before members of the Welcome Branch of the Twentieth Century Book club on the subject of "The Foreign Policy of the United States." You will find material of great interest to you in her remarks which follow:

"The foreign policy of this, or any other country, can only be an instrument of government and a government can only be continuous and effective when it labors for the welfare of its own people.

"The foreign policy of this country cannot be unrelated to its economic structure. It cannot be something apart, an activity for delicate gentlemen who dislike trade. It is as an instrument of trade, as a weapon for economic exploitation, as a means of producing more work for American labor and more revenue for the American farmer, that the foreign policy of this country, in this critical period of the shrinkage of dollars, takes on a new importance.

"The American attitudes toward Soviet Russia, Japan, China, Canada, Great Britain and even the South American countries, call for immediate revisions because they were developed without due regard to trade interest. If they want to and can do business with us, we should do business with them—and let questions of ideals, morals, confused logic and human error be left to politicians, specialists and to time.

"The foreign policy of the United States was developed during the 19th century when a small number of ardent and courageous men and women set out to conquer an unknown continent. From the beginning of national existence the American relationship with foreign parts, not only with Europe and Central America, but also with Asia and Africa, required a defensive foreign policy to safeguard the very existence of the small and struggling country and to protect its slight commerce. Thus the first treaty with China, signed as early as 1843, contains all the factors which are today inherent in our Asiatic policy. Similarly, the Monroe Doctrine is a defensive mechanism against continued European penetration on the American continents. The foreign policy was, in those days, a defensive mechanism of an insecure people who wanted to be left alone, to work out their destiny in the conquest of a rich continent.

"The territorial limits of the United States were for years uncertain. It was not until the Pacific was reached that the western political boundary was fixed, but an intervening economic area remained for colonial exploitation. The northern boundary was fixed by Canada's disinclination to forsake England, but we almost went to war over the Oregon territory. The southern boundary was achieved by imperialistic warfare and equally imperialistic purchase.

"As this movement of the boundaries away from the original thirteen colonies involved relations with foreign countries, the United States was aggressively forward in its foreign policy, but trade has never been its primary force of motivation. If anywhere, only in the Far East, and principally in the articulation of the American policy in China, has trade tended to be a salient factor in American foreign relations. The acquisition of the Philippines aroused an interest in the Pacific trade which had become less active after the Civil war, but it was not until the World war were American statesmen stirred.

Lovely Tea Hour Brings a Few Members of the Younger Set Together at Ethridge Home

A charming tea at the home of Mrs. Lynton Ethridge, Jr., brought members of the younger set together in the most delightful manner Saturday afternoon.

Gorgeous crimson roses banked the reception suite where Mrs. Ethridge received her guests, in a handsome hostess gown of black cut velvet and rose colored accessories.

The tea table in the dining room was overladen with beautiful lace over rose satin and centered with an immense plaque of American Beauty roses and feathery maiden hair. Open face sandwiches and individual cakes embossed in rose color were placed in silver salvers along the board and bonbonnières held delicious sweets, meats and choice confections. Miss Beverly Gimler, wearing a charming C. Kinney, Mrs. Ivy McDonald, black and white afternoon model, presided over the tea table.

Among the guests who enjoyed the courtesies extended by the young hostess were: Misses Dorothy Aggar, Nellie Breard, Charlotte Holden, Oliver Hodge, Ouida Collins, Juanita Gatlin, Lucy Williams, Joy Renwick, Aubrey Slay, Clara Virginia Terzia, India Stubbs, Johnnie Cox, Davie Noyles, Joy Griffin, Myrtle Odum, Dorothy Calvert, Carolyn Walder, Jennie Hanna, Dorothy Breece, Ann Hardie, Precilla Hodge, Clarice Roan, Alma McKee, Carolyn Myers, Mamie D. Here are two irresistible models that take it "right in the neck." All the new frocks do. They keep their skirts slim, the sleeves add a bit for shoulder interest—but for absolute chic, the full blow of attention lies in brand new necklines. If fetching little collars are your pride and joy, you'll be absolutely crazy about the tabbed one on Model 1628. Picture it in bengaline or satin on a black satin or ribbed silk frock—or against any of the dark new winter shades for that matter. A huge, crisp bow is the catch-note for Model 1629. Here you match sleeves and vestee in a striking color note. Plaid velvet is the latest though satin, lame and taffeta are equally delightful to use.

Pattern 1628—sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 2 3/4 yards 39-inch fabric and 1 yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with each pattern.

Autumn Weaves Magic Spell and Invites Us to Enjoy The Beauty of the Country

How many of us really appreciate our blessings? Where in all the world is autumn ushered in with such splendor as in America? In the Old World, October is Brumaire, the month of mist and fog, precursor of interminable winter rains and snows.

Here in Louisiana is the month of crisp, bracing mornings, golden days, azure skies, with the scent of ripe fruit in the air, while the hillsides and roadways clothe themselves in such pagentry of riotous color as defies the artist's brush and leaves the word painter breathlessly groping for the phrases that will convey a tinge of Nature's beauty.

This is the month when we should spend every hour we can win from duty in the open air. It is a time for long walks, for leisurely drives through the byways and country roads. Even the city streets are leafy tunnels arched with bright colors.

The on-looker takes on daily richer, deeper tints, crimson, maroon, wine color, which November will soften into golden brown. The scarlet sumacs brighten the roadsides. An occasional red gum flames like a burning brush.

It is a time to drink deep draughts of the sparkling air, expanding the lungs, clearing the veins, building fresh and tonic vigor into bodies and minds against the onrush and brooding of the winter's toil. It is a time to bathe our souls in beauty, storing up inspiration and courage for the worrisome problems of these troublous years.

Nature offers us the strong wine of her beauty and charm, to fit us for these things. Let us lift our hearts and voices in her praise.

The road to Shreveport is most beautiful during the months of October and November. The broad expanse of rolling farm lands are always seen to the best advantage through the hazy sunlight of an autumn day. Another beautiful drive at this season of the year is to Lake Providence where the picturesque stream of water winds like a ribbon through the sleepy little village. In East Carroll parish there is much to interest you. . . the Indian mounds for instance, where relics of this tribe can still be found. Miss Caroline Dorman, a recent visitor in Monroe, enjoyed a trip to East Carroll parish as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Murphree and Miss Julia Wessman and expressed herself as being more delighted with the traces of Indian life and the number of relics unearthed than she would have been with a trip to Europe. Miss Dorman has made a close study of the Caddo Indians and the aboriginal remains, mounds, etc., and at the present time is writing a book on phases of this subject.

A short drive, ideal for a Sunday afternoon, is the road to Clear Lake, branching off from the Rayville road and then home through the beautiful countryside on the Winnemere road. We have in mind a beautiful country lane, branching off from the river road on the West Side, leading to Pine Pop, where the gorgeous view of the Ouachita river is offered. In this quiet spot, you can drink in sufficient beauty to feed your soul for many a day. Other trails lead into the country to remote places where you can get out of your car and stretch your legs. . . gather sticks and build a fire (if you are careful to extinguish it before leaving) and cook something over the glowing embers. If it is only a few marshmallows, but be sure and treat yourself to the pleasure of a wood fire if the day is crisp and cool. There is something about the smoke curling heavenward that stirs your gypsy blood and creates a longing for the open highway and the carefree life of the nomad.

Miss Lallage Fenzel, who graduated in June from King Smith studio, Washington, D. C., will leave during the week for New York City, where she will enter the American Academy of Fine Arts for a course of study.

ALL THIS WEEK IS OPEN HOUSE The public is cordially invited to visit us during our OPEN HOUSE and inspect our newly remodeled and enlarged shops which have the newest scientific machinery and equipment that science has perfected.

The first pre-nuptial affair honoring Miss Constance Ineichen and Dr. George Purvis, whose marriage is of wide interest to their many friends in North Louisiana and Mississippi, was given by Mrs. Fred Morgan and Miss Mary Elizabeth Morgan on Thursday evening at the beautiful Morgan home in Rayville.

The reception room, spacious living room and music room were profusely decorated with silver moons and stars carrying out the motif of a silver honeymoon treasure hunt in which Dr. Purvis and Miss Ineichen participated while friends looked on with much interest and enthusiasm.

This hunt led them over the entire house by clever clues, ending with the finding of a large package containing scores of kitchen utensils tied in many mysterious packages. The climax of the evening was reached when the doors of the dining room were thrown open displaying a beautifully decorated table, the centerpiece being an artistically decorated bride cake from which streamers of silver and blue attached to various symbols were drawn by the guests.

The bachelor button was drawn by Dr. Purvis, the good luck symbol by Miss Ineichen. Delicious refreshments were served followed by the cutting of the bride's cake.

Dancing was enjoyed during the evening by the following guests: Misses Constance Ineichen, Cary Hatch, Margaret Hatch, Mary Gill, Elizabeth Taylor, Elizabeth Martin, Ethel Ratcliff, Polly Richards, Annie Cooper, Fannie Cooper, Tae Harris, Rebecca Parks, Dorothy Dymun, Isabel Bynum, Marie Kelly, Louisa O'Neal, Mary E. The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Welcome Branch Book club met Wednesday afternoon at 3 p. m. at Hotel Monroe with Mrs. C. C. Colvert presiding. The club song was led by Mrs. E. L. Wright, Mrs. Marvin Johnson, accompanist. Roll call, "Who's Who in Washington," was answered by 28 members. In the absence of Mrs. J. Noble White, Mrs. H. H. Douglas acted as secretary.

Correspondence regarding the convention on November 8th and 9th, developed more interesting news with a club institute to be held at Tallulah, Louisiana on October 28th, as an outstanding feature. Mrs. B. A. Kramer gave a financial report, which was followed by Mrs. Colvert announcing the afternoon's subject, International Relations. Two excellent papers, "The Foreign Policy of the United States," by Mrs. Dudley Stone and "Our Laws of Neutrality," by Mrs. E. C. Colvert, were greatly enjoyed by the following members: Mrs. Fred Bennett, Mrs. Merton Bell, Mrs. C. C. Colvert, Mrs. H. T. Carley, Mrs. H. H. Douglas, Mrs. W. C. Davenport, Mrs. J. E. "New England Psalmody," by Mrs. W. K. Anders, Jr.

"Yankee Doodle," (organ and vocal solo) by Mrs. Darwin Nichols, Solo "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," by Miss Breard.

A brief business session resulted in the election of two new officers, secretary, Mrs. Anders; reporters, Miss Breard. Other officers are: president, Mrs. D. Nichols; vice-president, Miss Louise Gray; treasurer, Miss Dorothy Calvert.

Delicious refreshments were served during the social hour to Mrs. Mildred Beard, Miss Nellie Beard, Miss Elizabeth Moffett, Miss Sara Moffett, Miss Elizabeth Kenny, Miss Percy O'Toole, Miss Frances Browning, Miss Joy Griffin, Mrs. Louis Hullum, Mrs. D. Coronation of Miss Davis Brings to Brilliant Close Ruston's Golden Jubilee

One of the outstanding features of the entertainment in connection with Ruston's golden jubilee was the beautiful coronation service Friday night, when Miss Charlotte Elizabeth Davis was crowned queen and Mr. Stewart S. Hunt, chosen by Miss Davis, was crowned king.

Miss Davis, wearing a regal mantle of gold cloth, heavily jeweled with precious stones, reigned in queenly manner. She is the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Davis, members of a prominent north Louisiana family. Mr. Davis is a pioneer lumberman, who with his three brothers established the Davis Brothers Lumber company near Ruston. Incidentally, it was one of the first manufacturing concerns in that parish.

Miss Davis is a graduate of the Ruston high school and attended Brenau college. She received her Bachelor of Music degree from the Louisiana State university last spring.

While a student at L. S. U. she was chosen one of the 13 sponsors for the senior ball and was also judged one of the three most popular coeds.

Mr. Hunt, one of Ruston's most prominent citizens, is associated with the Southern Advance Bag and Pulp

Monroe friends of Mrs. Louise Smelser McComb of Cotton Plant, Miss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Smelser of this city, were privileged to hear her beautiful voice over the radio last Thursday when she appeared on the program broadcast from Hot Springs, Ark. Mrs. McComb sang two numbers, "Trees" and "Poor Butterfly." In a recent audition arranged by Horbie Kay, noted orchestra leader, Mrs. McComb won third place—quite a distinct honor as vocalists from various sections of the state were assembled for the event.

Miss McComb was a favorite entertainer in this city before her marriage. She is a graduate of Kid-Key conservatory of music.

Miss Lucyle Godwin of the recreation department extends an invitation to the women of Monroe to attend her class in callisthenics at the parish house every Wednesday morning between the hours of 8:30 and 9:15 a. m. The class already has a membership of twenty-five, all of whom are most enthusiastic over the splendid results obtained from the weekly exercise.

Autumn Weaves Magic Spell and Invites Us to Enjoy The Beauty of the Country

How many of us really appreciate our blessings? Where in all the world is autumn ushered in with such splendor as in America? In the Old World, October is Brumaire, the month of mist and fog, precursor of interminable winter rains and snows. Here in Louisiana is the month of crisp, bracing mornings, golden days, azure skies, with the scent of ripe fruit in the air, while the hillsides and roadways clothe themselves in such pagentry of riotous color as defies the artist's brush and leaves the word painter breathlessly groping for the phrases that will convey a tithe of Nature's beauty.

This is the month when we should spend every hour we can win from duty in the open air. It is a time for long walks, for leisurely drives through the byways and country roads. Even the city streets are leafy tunnels arched with bright colors. The oak-leaf hollies take on daily richer, deeper tints, crimson, maroon, wine color, which November will soften into golden brown. The scarlet sumacs brighten the roadsides. An occasional red gum flames like a burning bush.

It is a time to drink deep draughts of the sparkling air, expanding the lungs, clearing the veins, building fresh and tonic vigor into bodies and minds against the cares and burdens of the winter's toil. It is a time to bathe our souls in beauty, storing up inspiration and courage for the worrisome problems of these troublous years.

Nature offers us the strong wine of her beauty and charm, to fit us for these things. Let us lift our hearts and voices in her praise.

The road to Shreveport is most beautiful during the months of October and November. The broad expanse of rolling farm lands are always seen to the best advantage through the hazy sunlight of an autumn day. Another beautiful drive at this season of the year is to Lake Providence where the picturesque stream of water winds like a ribbon through the sleepy little village. In East Carroll parish there is much to interest you. The Indian mounds for instance, where relics of this tribe can still be found. Miss Caroline Dorman, a recent visitor to Monroe, enjoyed a trip to East Carroll parish as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Mulholland and Miss Julia Wossman and expressed herself as being more delighted with the traces of Indian life and the number of relics unearthed than she would have been with a trip to Europe. Miss Dorman has made a close study of the Caddo Indians and the aboriginal remains, mounds, etc., and at the present time is writing a book on phases of this subject.

A short drive, ideal for a Sunday afternoon, is the road to Clear Lake, branching off from the Rayville road and then home through the beautiful countryside on the Winnesho road. We have in mind a beautiful country lane, branching off from the river road on the West Side, leading to Pine Top, where a gorgeous view of the Ouachita river is offered. In this quiet spot, you can drink in sufficient beauty to feed your soul for many a day. Other trails lead into the country to remote places where you can get out of your car and stretch your legs. . . gather sticks and build a fire (if you are careful to extinguish it before leaving) and cook something over the glowing embers if it is only a few marshmallows, but be sure and treat yourself to the pleasure of a wood fire if the day is crisp and cool. There is something about the smoke curling heavenward that stirs your gypsy blood and creates a longing for the open highway and the carefree life of the nomad.

Miss Lallage Feazel, who graduated in June from King Smith studio, Washington, D. C., will leave during the week for New York City, where she will enter the American Academy of Fine Arts for a course of study.

The first pre-nuptial affair honoring Miss Constance Ineichen and Dr. George Purvis, whose marriage is of wide interest to their many friends in North Louisiana and Mississippi, was given by Mrs. Fred Morgan and Miss Mary Elizabeth Morgan on Thursday evening at the beautiful Morgan home in Rayville.

The reception room, spacious living room and music room were prettily decorated with silver moons and stars carrying out the motif of a silver honeymoon treasure hunt in which Dr. Purvis and Miss Ineichen participated while friends looked on with much interest and enthusiasm.

This hunt led them over the entire house by clever clues, ending with the finding of a large package containing scores of kitchen utensils tied in many mysterious packages. The climax of the evening was reached when the doors of the dining room were thrown open displaying a beautifully decorated table, the centerpiece being an artistically decorated bridal cake from which streamers of silver and blue attached to various symbols were drawn by the guests.

The bachelor button was drawn by Dr. Purvis, the good luck symbol by Miss Ineichen. Delicious refreshments were served followed by the cutting of the bride's cake.

Dancing was enjoyed during the evening by the following guests: Misses Constance Ineichen, Cary Hatch, Margaret Hatch, Mary Gill, Elizabeth Taylor, Elizabeth Martin, Ethel Ratcliff, Polly Richards, Annie Cooper, Fannie Cooper, Tae Harris, Rebecca Parks, Dorothy Bynum, Isabel Bynum, Marie Kelly, Louisa O'Neal, Mary E. The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Welcome Branch Book club met Wednesday afternoon at 3 p. m. at Hotel Monroe, with Mrs. C. C. Colvert presiding. The club song was led by Mrs. E. L. Wright. Mrs. Marvin Johnson, accompanist. Roll call, "Who's Who in Washington," was answered by 23 members. In the absence of Mrs. J. M. White, Mrs. H. H. Douglas acted as secretary. Correspondence regarding the convention on November 8th and 9th, developed more interesting news with a club institute to be held at Tallulah, Louisiana on October 28th, as an outstanding feature. Mrs. B. A. Kramer gave a financial report, which was followed by Mrs. Colvert announcing the afternoon's subject, International Relations. Two excellent papers, "The Foreign Policy of the United States," by Mrs. Dudley Stone, and "Our Laws of Neutrality," by Mrs. E. C. Gibson, were greatly enjoyed by the following members: Mrs. Fred Bennett, Mrs. Merton Bell, Mrs. C. C. Colvert, Mrs. H. T. Carley, Mrs. H. H. Douglas, Mrs. W. C. Davenport, Mrs. J. E. Doughtie, Mrs. W. C. Faulk, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. R. E. Hanna, Mrs. Marvin Johnson, Mrs. J. E. Kersh, Mrs. B. A. Mrs. W. K. Anders, Jr., entertained members of the Junior Musical Coterie last Saturday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Horuff.

The program was unusually interesting as it featured American composers. It was presented as follows: "Life of Francis Hopkins," by Miss Nellie Beard. "New England Psalmody," by Mrs. W. K. Anders, Jr. "Yankee Doodle," (organ and vocal solo) by Mrs. Darwin Nichols. Solo "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," by Miss Beard.

A brief business session resulted in the election of two new officers, secretary, Mrs. Anders; reporters, Miss Beard. Other officers are: president, Mrs. D. Nichols; vice-president, Miss Louise Gray; treasurer, Miss Dorothy Calvert.

Delicious refreshments were served during the social hour to Miss Mildred Beard, Miss Nellie Beard, Miss Elizabeth Moffett, Miss Sara Moffett, Miss Elizabeth Kenny, Miss Peggy O'Toole, Miss Frances Browning, Miss Joy Griffin, Mrs. Louis Hullum, Mrs. D. Nichols, Miss Sara Florence Coon, Miss Dorothy Calvert.

Coronation of Miss Davis Brings to Brilliant Close Ruston's Golden Jubilee

One of the outstanding features of the entertainment in connection with Ruston's golden jubilee was the beautiful coronation service Friday night, when Miss Charlotte Elizabeth Davis was crowned queen and Mr. Stewart S. Hunt, chosen by Miss Davis, was crowned king.

Miss Davis, wearing a regal mantle of gold cloth, heavily jeweled with precious stones, reigned in queenly manner. She is the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Davis, members of a prominent north Louisiana family. Mr. Davis is a pioneer lumberman, who with his three brothers established the Davis Brothers Lumber company near Ruston. Incidentally, it was one of the first manufacturing concerns in that parish. Miss Davis is a graduate of the Ruston high school and attended Breau college. She received her Bachelor of Music degree from the Louisiana State university last spring. While a student at L. S. U. she was chosen one of the 13 sponsors for the senior ball and was also judged one of the three most popular coeds.

Mr. Hunt, one of Ruston's most prominent citizens, is associated with the Southern Advance Bag and Pulp

Monroe friends of Mrs. Louise Smelser McComb of Cotton Plant, Miss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Smelser of this city, were privileged to hear Miss Davis' beautiful voice over the radio last Thursday when she appeared on the program broadcast from Hot Springs, Ark. Mrs. McComb sang two numbers, "Trees" and "Poor Butterfly." In a recent audition arranged by Herbie Kay, noted orchestra leader, Mrs. McComb won third place—quite a distinct honor as 60 vocalists from various sections of the state were assembled for the event. Mrs. McComb was a favorite entertainer in this city before her marriage. She is a graduate of Kid-Key conservatory of music.

Miss Lucyle Godwin of the recreation department extends an invitation to the women of Monroe to attend her class in callisthenics at the parish house every Wednesday morning between the hours of 8:30 and 9:15 a. m. The class already has a membership of twenty-five, all of whom are most enthusiastic over the splendid results obtained from the weekly exercise.

Little Theater Will Present Mystery Play

The coming year is big with promise in Monroe Little Theater circles. With the courage and enterprise which has marked every step taken since organization, they now face another year of achievement. The months ahead are most promising if one can judge by the splendid enthusiasm manifested by members of the board at a recent meeting. At this time Mrs. Elmer Richards was elected business manager and Mrs. O. N. McNeil, production chairman. Mrs. McNeil's duties will be to take complete charge of stage properties and stagecraft, generally. This means that all productions in the future will feature greater regard for perfection of detail. The next production, "Out of the Night," three-act mystery drama, under the direction of Mrs. Emma Alexander, who scored a triumph in the recent presentation of "Dulcine," will be given during the month of November. Mrs. Alexander is already looking around for a capable cast to fill the various roles which demand unusual histrionic ability. We can rest assured that Mrs. Alexander will play the same splendid discrimination in this selection as in times past and can look forward to one of the most "thrilling" productions ever attempted in Monroe Little Theater circles.

The Sterlington P. T. A. entertained with a social hour for the teachers and members on Thursday at 3 p. m. at the A. L. Smith school. A Halloween motif was observed in the decorations. Upon entering each guest was presented at the door with a paper hat in the Halloween colors.

Miss Faulk, teacher of the third grade, introduced several clever games during the afternoon. Those receiving prizes were Mrs. J. S. Sebring, Mrs. E. G. Dalton and Mrs. J. M. Moore.

A delicious salad course and coffee was served by Mrs. Joe Miller, Mrs. A. G. Miller, Mrs. R. G. Cretney, Mrs. L. Burns, who acted as hostesses during the evening. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Moore, Mrs. B. E. Kelly, Miss Maria Wooten, Mrs. Van Anderson, Mrs. Scott Horton, Mrs. T. T. Gray, Mrs. H. B. Grant, Mrs. Dick Robinson, Mrs. G. R. IN SUCH AN AGE

O Lord, how manifold are thy works! in wisdom hast thou made them all, —Psalm 104:24.

To be alive in such an age! With every year a lightning page Turned in the world's great wonder-book Whereon the leaning nations look, When men speak strong for brotherhood, For peace and universal good; When miracles are everywhere And every inch of common air Throbs a tremendous prophecy Of greater marvels yet to be.

Give thanks with all thy flaming heart, Crave but to have in it a part— Give thanks and clasp thy heritage— To be alive in such an age!

FALLING LEAVES

By Eleanor Jewett

With needles from the pine trees And rain drops for their thread The brownies sew the blankets To make a flower's beds.

The maple leaves of scarlet, The oak leaves burnished gold Will be the finest blankets Against the winter's cold.

Soon now the flowers of summer, All tired from the sun, Will creep into their cradles When the brownies' work is done.

THE PETRIFIED MAN

There was a petrified man in a box at the circus. They found him in the Ohio river. The man's feet were tied when they found him. He was lying in rocks and sand. He had a hole in his heart where a gun had shot him. It cost ten cents to see him.

ON MY TRIP TO LAKE CHARLES

On Saturday, September 2, we left for Lake Charles. We took a boy with us as far as Long Leaf. We had a flat on the way. Then we went swimming. The water was like ice. Then we had dinner and went on to Lake Charles. The next day was Sunday, and the next was Labor Day and we had to come home on Labor Day. We had a grand time.

FRITZ FLEMING, Barkdull Faulk School.

MY BULL DOG

I have a Bull dog. His name is Bull. I got him from my grandmother when he was a puppy. He has many big holes dug around his house and in the garage. We have two cars, one stays in the garage and the other car stays out in the yard. At night he sleeps right by the car that's out in the yard. He will not let anything bother the car.

My Bull dog is a big one. He is fat and healthy, he pants all the time. I like my Bull dog.

A LITTLE DOG

Once there were three children. They were playing. A dog was playing with them. One day he felt bad. They had to call the doctor. The Dr. came and gave him some medicine. It was old quinine, but the little dog did not like the old quinine. He brought me a letter to the little dog. He was in a tub. The nurse came to see. She rubbed and rubbed him with the salve.

AN EXCITING EVENT

Sirens were sounding and everybody was running down the street. They were all heading over toward a big vacant house. A big blaze went up! Then everyone knew that the house was on fire. All the fire trucks were coming up to put out the fire. Some brave firemen took the hose and went into the house, they had to knock the door down to get in. Soon they had the fire under their control. One of the firemen let Betty, John and me hold the hose. Soon the fire was out. The house was not damaged much. I surely had an exciting time at that fire.

EMALE GATTIS, 6-B, Barkdull Faulk.

Macon Passes Over Bernice on Friday

BERNICE, La., Oct. 14.—The dirigible Macon passed over here Friday and held the interest of 500 school children, the faculty and many citizens for a brief period of time.

More than $5,000 worth of government checks for cotton plowed up were received Thursday afternoon. The bank was closed on Columbus day and check recipients were exceedingly anxious to get them cashed. Receipt of this money will greatly benefit trade and will assist farmers to tide over the fall months, it is the general opinion here.

A TRIP TO NEW ORLEANS

Mother, father, and I left for New Orleans one morning and was on the train all day. I saw many interesting sights. One was Lake Ponchartrain. It had all kinds of amusements such as the old mill and the bug. New Orleans is a very large city. We spent four days there. Then we took the train and was on it all day again. When we got home we were very tired but I had a fine trip.

BILLY ARMSTRONG, 5-A grade, Barkdull Faulk.

A SNAKE IN THE HOUSE

One day my mother went into the kitchen to get a bucket. A snake was in the bucket and it fell on the floor. My mother screamed. My cousin came in and killed it. Then he threw it in the river.

SONNIE SESHOR, 5-B grade, Breese Lumber Co.

FINDING A SNAKE

One morning I was walking along the driveway. I saw something running through the grass. I stopped to see what it was. It was a snake. I ran to get mother. She got a fruit jar to put it in. Then I asked my grandfather, what kind of snake it was. He said it was a baby King snake. We took it out in the yard and let it go.

CHILDREN

Oh, how each tiny curl is entwined Into our hearts dear, yours and mine. Each word, each bit of laughter steals Into our very souls and seals Them to us throughout eternity. They are of us a part—our entry.

When they laugh and sing Like some wild bird upon the wing, Little do we stop to think That we are standing on the brink, And that a few short hours may bring An end to happiness—everything.

The little head upon its pillow does toss And you and I are at such a loss We try this and that to soothe the pain. Oh! If they could only be well again! The little one seems to respond And our happiness knows no bounds.

Let us thank our God each day And never more forget to pray That He in His wisdom unite Will watch over each little spirit. Let us love Him more and more each day. We are His children. He did not say us nay.

—HELEN FERNANDEZ.

THE TWIN CALVES
When I lived in the country we had twin calves. When they were a month old their mother died. My sister and I put them into the barn when it would rain. My mother would let them suck another cow. They are large cows now and I think they will make good cows.

JULIA FORD, 5-B grade, Barkdull Faulk school.

At the circus I saw a man in an elephant's mouth. Then I saw a dog on an elephant's head. The horses that I saw were very pretty. The jolly old clown was so funny. I had a good time.

MY PET CHICKEN

This summer my pet chicken used to follow me wherever I went. My pet would cuddle close to my dog when it was cold. It would cuddle to the dog's fur and go to sleep with the dog. My dog would never hurt the chicken and they were the best of friends.

CARNIVAL

By Eleanor Jewett
This is a very funny place, With wonders everywhere you face; A man as tall as tall can be, When I came in, shook hands with me.

I saw a children's theater, too, And playgrounds full of things to do. There was a train for me to ride As I sat donkey-back astride. A Ferris wheel which worked by hand Swung me up high to see the land. And then I rode inside a boat Pulled by a duck, trained just to float!

I rode in motor cars a race At a blood curdling, thrilling pace. Upon a lion spotted red, Where canvas green and white were spread.

I rode to music round and round, And laughed to hear the jolly sound. Something I did the whole day through And everything I did was new.

Now, where do you suppose I mean This magic can be heard and seen? The Enchanted Island—that is where. You make your mother take you there!

THE CARNIVAL

One night about 6 o'clock we went to the carnival by the swimming pool. My two cousins and I rode two times each on the ponies. They had very pretty music. We had very much fun.

MARY KATHRYN MOAK, Barkdull Faulk school, Age 9 years.

THE CIRCUS

When we went in the first thing came out was a clown policeman. He pulled up a man's coat and went to the other side and pulled up another man's coat. Then he caught a woman's arm and went walking along. He hit my brother with his club and put his arm around my mother.

NELLY DAVIS, 4-A Grade, Barkdull Faulk.

MY FUZZY TAIL DOG

My little dog has a fuzzy little tail. She plays with me and sleeps with me too. If I could I would put her in the funny paper. She has a tail the shape of a doughnut. But it is wagging all the time. Sometimes she chases me up a tree. Sometimes she will walk around an old setting hen. She will peck her, and she will chase the hen up in a tree. She is a curiosity dog.

J. R. HOOD, 4-A grade, Barkdull Faulk school.

MY BANTAMS

My little hen has been sitting about three weeks. This morning I was on the front porch and I heard something go "peep, peep." I went out to where she was sitting and to my surprise the eggs were hatching out. The next day they have little feathers on their wings.

OPAL CUMMINGS, 5-B, Barkdull Faulk.

BOBBY'S GRIEVANCE

Last night I said to my dad, "Let's go. Just you and me, to a picture show. Some place where they're showing Mickey Mouse; And maybe a ghost in a haunted house. You know, like that one in Huck Finn. We can see it twice when we once get in. We'll get some candy before the show. To eat while the lights are on, you know. On the way home we'll get some more. And when we pass that new drug store We'll get some malted milk to drink; We'll have a lot of fun, I think."

And this is what my daddy said: "I don't feel well. I've a pain in my head. And one of my legs don't act just right. I think I'd better stay in tonight. Next week, my son, we'll surely go. For one big time at the picture show." Then Mr. Smith called, just outside, "Come out here, Brown, and go for a ride."

And my dad gave a great big shout, "Coming, old boy, I'll be right out!"

TO A CHILD AT BEDTIME
Though you've played the live long day, little girl, In your funny baby way, little girl, Now your waking hours are past; Sleepy-time has come at last; Mother's arms shall hold you fast, little girl.

There's a bump upon your head, little girl, And a place that's mighty red, little girl, But as tears they brought are gone, So they too will pass anon; Snuggle closer, slumber on, little girl.

Strange the songs your mother sings, little girl, Mixtures of so many things, little girl, Music plays but little part In the melodies that start, But they stir from out her heart, little girl!

Now I tuck you in your bed, little girl; Touch the gold that is your head, little girl, And reluctant steal away From the crib wherein you lay—Angels watch you till the day—little girl!

GENE FRENEAU.

FEEDING ELEPHANTS
When I went to the circus, I saw a clown walking on his hands. He walked all around everywhere on his hands.

I was looking at the elephants. A man had a big pocket of peanuts, and every elephant he came to he would give each one a lot of peanuts.

ELLIS WALKER, 4-A Grade, Barkdull Faulk.

I went to the circus last Friday. I saw the elephants, and a car that ran by itself. I saw many other things too.

RALPH IRVING, 2-A.

SEALS AT THE CIRCUS
I went to the circus. I saw the men ride the horses. I saw the dogs ride the elephant. I saw the seals play with balls.

MILLARD MASLING.

ELEPHANTS AND CLOWNS
I liked the part in the circus where the elephants did the waltz and they played London Bridge. Then one elephant did the "hootchy-kootchy" dance.

The next thing I liked was where a clown came around and every time he looked at you a little light would light on his nose.

PATRICIA MURPHY, 4-A Grade, Barkdull Faulk.

Society
Little Theater
Will Present
Mystery Play

The coming year is big with promise in Monroe Little Theater circles. With the courage and enterprise which has marked every step taken since organization, they now face another year of achievement. The months ahead are most promising if one can judge by the splendid enthusiasm manifested by members of the board at a recent meeting. At this time Mrs. Elmer Richards was elected business manager and Mrs. O. N. McNeil, production chairman. Mrs. McNeil's duties will be to take complete charge of stage properties and stagecraft, generally. This means that all productions in the future will feature greater regard for perfection of detail.

The next production, "Out of the Night," three-act mystery drama, under the direction of Mrs. Emma Alexander, who scored a triumph in the recent presentation of "Dulce," will be given during the month of November. Mrs. Alexander is already looking around for a capable cast to fill the various roles which demand unusual histrionic ability. We can rest assured that Mrs. Alexander will display the same splendid discrimination in this selection as in times past and can look forward to one of the most "thrilling" productions ever attempted in Monroe Little Theater circles.

The Sterling P.-T. A. entertained with a social hour for the teachers and members on Thursday at 3 p. m. at the A. L. Smith school.

Miss Faulk, teacher of the third grade, introduced several clever games during the afternoon. Those receiving prizes were Mrs. J. S. Sebring, Mrs. E. G. Dalton and Mrs. J. M. Moore.

A delicious salad course and coffee was served by Mrs. Joe Miller, Mrs. A. G. Miller, Mrs. R. G. Cretney, Mrs. L. Burns, who acted as hostesses during the evening.

IN SUCH AN AGE
O Lord, how manifold are thy works in wisdom hast thou made them all,
—Psalm 104:24.

To be alive in such an age! With every year a lightning page Turned in the world's great wonder-book.

Whereon the leaning nations look, When men speak strong for brotherhood, For peace and universal good; When miracles are everywhere And every inch of common air Throbs a tremendous prophecy Of greater marvels yet to be.

Give thanks with all thy flaming heart, Crave but to have in it a part— Give thanks and clasp thy heritage— To be alive in such an age!

I had a little rat, Funny little thing, And just about the time, I've turned around He has my new gold ring.

Makes me mad to think, He does not have enough sense, To even know how to leave things alone, Like my dog used to do.

I wish you could see him, His tail is rubber, His eyes like cherries, He is too fat for one thing, I can say that much for him.

Poor, poor, poor little thing Poor little rat, You are just a little too fat.

My little dog has a funny little thing. Little do we stop to think That we are standing on the brink, And that a few short hours may bring An end to happiness—everything.

AN EXCITING EVENT
Sirens were sounding and everybody was running down the street. They were all heading over toward a big vacant house. A big blaze went up! Then everyone knew that the house was on fire. All the fire trucks were coming up to put out the fire. Some brave firemen took the hose and went into the house, they had to knock the door down to get in. Soon they had the fire under their control. One of the firemen let Betty, John and me hold the hose. Soon the fire was out. The house was not damaged much. I surely had an exciting time at that fire.

MY BANTAMS
My little hen has been sitting about three weeks. This morning I was on the front porch and I heard something go "peep, peep." I went out to where she was sitting and to my surprise the eggs were hatching out. The next day they have little feathers on their wings.

BOBBY'S GRIEVANCE
Last night I said to my dad, "Let's go. Just you and me, to a picture show. Some place where they're showing Micky Mouse; And maybe a ghost in a haunted house. You know, like that one in Huck Finn. We can see it twice when we once get in. We'll get some candy before the show. To eat while the lights are on, you know. On the way home we'll get some more. And when we pass that new drug store We'll get some malted milk to drink; We'll have a lot of fun, I think."

And this is what my daddy said: "I don't feel well. I've a pain in my head. And one of my legs don't act just right. I think I'd better stay in tonight. Next week, my son, we'll surely go. For one big time at the picture show." Then Mr. Smith called, just outside, "Come out here, Brown, and go for a ride."

And my dad gave a great big shout, "Coming, old boy, I'll be right out!"

TO A CHILD AT BEDTIME
There's a bump upon your head, little girl, In your funny baby way, little girl, Now your waking hours are past; Sleepy-time has come at last; Mother's arms shall hold you fast, little girl.

There's a bump upon your head, little girl, And a place that's mighty red, little girl, But as tears they brought are gone, So they too will pass anon; Snuggle closer; slumber on, little girl.

Strange the songs your mother sings, little girl, Mixtures of so many things, little girl. Music plays but little part In the melodies that start, But they flow from out her heart, little girl!

Now I tuck you in your bed, little girl; Touch the gold that is your head, little girl, And reluctant steal away From the crib wherein you lay— Angels watch you till the day—little girl!

FEEDING ELEPHANTS
When I went to the circus, I saw a clown walking on his hands. He walked all around everywhere on his hands.

I was looking at the elephants. A man had a big pocket of peanuts, and every elephant he came to he would give each one a lot of peanuts.

I went to the circus. I saw the men ride the horses. I saw the dogs ride the elephant. I saw the seals play with balls.

ELEPHANTS AND CLOWNS
I liked the part in the circus where the elephants did the waltz and they played London Bridge. Then one elephant did the "hoochy-kootchy" dance.

The next thing I liked was where a clown came around and every time he looked at you a little light would light on his nose.

CARNIVAL
By Eleanor Jewett
This is a very funny place, With wonders everywhere you face; A man as tall as tall can be, When I came in, shook hands with him.

I saw a children's theater, too, And playgrounds full of things to do. There was a train for me to ride As I sat donkey-back astride. A Ferris wheel which worked by hand Swung me up high to see the land. And then I rode inside a boat Pulled by a duck, trained just to float!

I rode in motor cars a race At a blood curdling, thrilling pace. Upon a lion spotted red, Where canvas green and white were spread.

I rode to music round and round, And laughed to hear the jolly sound. Something I did the whole day through And everything I did was new.

Now, where do you suppose I mean This magic can be heard and seen? The Enchanted Island—that is where, You make your mother take you there!

SOME TRUE ADVENTURES
Late one evening Homer, Charles and Coley (a dog) went to Chickasaw swamp to spend the night. Everything went all right until about 2 o'clock in the morning. We thought we heard a panther. Our wood went low. We put pine needles on our fire. Soon they were all gone. Everything got quietened down but we were in misery the rest of the night.

Later we went on an exploring trip. We came upon a small stream. We decided to explore it. We went on down the stream and came upon a coon's hole. Coley went in after the coon and we had to pull him out. We went on down the stream and came to a trail and we decided to follow it. We followed the trail and came upon the Yale camp. We came back to the stream and kept on going. We came to a cliff with vines hanging down. Charles started down and the vines broke and he landed in the water. Coley jumped in after him and they started back up the vines, and they broke and he fell back to the ground. He came back up so fast (Homer) found out that he landed in a nest of polecats. We went on down the stream and came to its delta. Coley started barking at a log. We lifted the log and found a diamond head rattlesnake with seven rattlers and a button. The snake struck at Coley and missed. We killed the snake and went home.

Later we camped all night on the new pond bank. Charles' dog (Bear) came up in our camp while we were asleep and ate up our meat. Charles started after him and Bear leaped at him and ran off. Later in the night a striped crawfish came through our camp backwards. We captured the crawfish and kept him as a specimen.

Charles has a 22 rifle now and a while back we were camping and we killed three foxes.

One day while we were hunting we killed a bird like we had never seen before. It was all colors. We are always in the woods twelve hours a day.

We have all kinds of specimens. One night last summer we were camping at our lean-to. We had a world war it seemed to us. We wasted all our grub and ruined our lean-to. We set the woods on fire and had to put it out. A few nights before we got lost and camped three miles from home.

Yours truly,
HOMER HEIDER,
CHARLES RICHEY,
URANIA, LA.
P. S.: The dog named Bear is one-half wolf.

THE CIRCUS
When we went in the first thing came out was a clown policeman. He pulled up a man's coat and went to the other side and pulled up another man's coat. Then he caught a woman's arm and went walking along. He hit my brother with his club and put his arm around my mother.

MY FUZZY TAIL DOG
My little dog has a funny little tail. She plays with me and sleeps with me too. If I could I would put her in the funny paper. She has a tail the shape of a doughnut. But it is wagging all the time. Sometimes she chases me up a tree. Sometimes she will walk around an old setting hen. She will peck her, and she will chase the hen up in a tree. She is a curiosity dog.

CENTENARY BATTLES L. S. U. TIGERS TO SCORELESS TIE

BOTH TEAMS MISS MANY CHANCES TO GAIN TOUCHDOWNS

Louisiana State Makes 15 First Downs to Five for Gentlemen

TIGER STADIUM, BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 14.—(P)—Each uncovering stout defenses and flashy but inconsistent attacks, Louisiana State university and Centenary college battled to a scoreless tie tonight in a slashing football game that almost rang up some kind of a record for scoring chances missed.

A crowd of 20,000 saw the contest in which State tried to avenge a 6-0 defeat by Centenary last year. Louisiana State apparently had the edge in the bag near the end of the final period, after a steady drive, but muffed a touchdown chance from the Centenary two-yard line by electing to try the giant Jack Torrance on a field goal. The big tackle fumbled the center pass, was smothered when he tried to run, and the game was over a few moments later.

From the opening whistle to the last play the game was packed with potential scoring dynamite, with State's offensive backed, especially by Abe Mickal, seven effective mainstays, threatening repeatedly with passes, dashes and power smashes, while Oslin and Smith of Centenary, fleet and wiry ball jugglers, were always getting away for dangerous races around end.

Passers and slithers through broken fields enlivened the action, but desperate defense of both teams lightened shy of the goals.

Desides the last quarter scoring failure, the game missed touchdowns in the second period, when Mickal took a 33-yard pass from Oslin and ran 25 more over the goal only to be called back on an offense, and early in the fourth when Fatherree was smeared by Oslin after a brilliant 55-yard dash to the Centenary 20-yard marker.

As the fourth quarter drew to a close, State launched a scoring offensive with Mickal on his 40-yard line (tossing a short pass to Lobdell who took the ball to his 25. Fatherree fell with a beautifully completed pass on the eight-yard line, and then went over left guard for four yards. Mickal got two more to put it within two yards of the last stripe. It was then that the Tigers tried to kick with abysmal failure.

The entire Centenary team battled heroically to stave off the Louisiana attacks, but the Maroon gridmen from Shreveport got the worst of it in statistics.

L. S. U. was credited with 15 first downs to five for Centenary; 190 yards gained from scrimmage to 40 for the visitors, and completed eight passes for 110 yards to seven for 58 yards by the upstarts.

Torrance, though he failed on kick try, played the game of the huge tackle's career, smashing through the line repeatedly with speed and power to tangle up Centenary backs.

Lone Star Jockey Club Opens Meeting on Nov. 30

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 14.—(P)—The racing plant of the Texas Breeders and Racing association, known as the Lone Star Jockey club, will be prepared to launch a 27-day race meeting, the first in south Texas, on Thanksgiving day, November 30, it was announced today by M. S. Ingleright, vice president and secretary.

The Lone Star Jockey club's track, seven miles from Houston on the Humble road, is under construction, and the foundations already have been laid for the grandstand and racing strip. E. J. Husson, president of the Texas Breeders and Racing association, announced through Ingleright that contracts call for completion of the layout by November 28 at an estimated cost of $500,000.

Insuring the race meeting Thanksgiving day, officials plan to race through until December 30. These plans were revealed following information of horse race betting in law that was signed Friday by Governor Ferguson.

L. S. U.-Gents Tilt in Detail

Louisiana State kicked off to Oslin who received it on his own goal and returned it to the 15. Smith passed 15 yards to Oslin who dashed along the sidelines, cut back and stumbled down on the Centenary 40, when he was apparently away for a touchdown.

Smith lost two on a fumble. He recovered it and then punted out on State's 18. Mickal quick kicked out of bounds on the Tiger 40 in a poor boot. Torrance, State giant tackle, smashed through and dented Oslin for a three-yard loss. Kent then intercepted a Smith pass on State's 40 and raced to Centenary's 21 where Oslin forced him out of bounds.

A short pass behind the line, Fatherree to Mickal, gave nine yards, to Centenary's 13. Mickal made five through center and first down. Fatherree was thrown for a two-yard loss by Parker, and Lobdell and Mickal failed to gain on line plays. A field goal try by Mickal failed. Smith punted and Lobdell fumbled on his 40 and Geisler recovered for Centenary. Smith lost five yards on a fumble. A pass from Smith was taken by Geisler on a 10-yard right-end skirt. Two punts by Smith failed to get first down.

A punting exchange between Mickal and Smith followed that netted Centenary a 5-yard gain and put the ball on State's 28.

Mickal and Mickal gained seven and three each for first down, slashed off left tackle and over left guard, respectively, for first down. Fatherree added 15 on an end run, as the quarter ended with the score tied at nothing-all.

State tried passes with Mickal throwing, but gained no ground, and punted to Smith on the visitor's 18. Centenary punted, and Mickal shot a 33-yard pass to Lobdell who dashed 25 yards over the goal, but the play was called back for an L. S. U. offense. Mickal tore around right end for 9 yards to the Shreveporter's 46, stepped by Harper and Wilson. Mickal fumbled on the next play, Waters recovering for Centenary, on their 45. The up-starters were held and booted to State's 28.

Two cracks at the line by Mickal and Fatherree gained seven yards, and Mickal punted to Centenary's 22. Defenses of both teams proved invincible, forcing repeated punt exchanges. Oslin turned in a beautiful left end race from his 27 to the Tiger 45 where five men pulled him down. Oslin tore off around right end and Sellers and Parker bucked out a bare first down. Mickal spilled Oslin for 12-yard loss on a second end try, however. Mickal intercepted a Smith pass on his 35 and dashed to his 48. A pass, Mickal to Burge netted nine yards.

State tried long passes as the half end neared, but they fell short, and Mickal punted. Sellers fumbled and State recovered on the Centenary 20 as the half ended, with the score: Centenary 0; Louisiana State 0.

Yates was substituted for Mickal and returned the opening kickoff 27 yards to his 32. He cracked right tackle for ten and first down. Playing a whole of a game, he cut inside right tackle for 23 more yards, to the Centenary 35. Centenary, which started with three reserves in the third period, rushed Oslin, Geisler and Morgan back in the game. Ploughing over right tackle and guard Yates made ten yards in three tries and first down.

An end try by Fatherree failed, and Yates smashed center for 8 yards, but Centenary held for downs on its 16. Smith punted to the visitors 47. Yates, Fatherree and Mickal hammered a first with slashes off tackle and around end. Mickal tripped and fell after catching a Yates pass in an almost clear field, but the Tigers made it first down on the Centenary 23. The Shreveporters fighting stubbornly, held them on their 20 and punted.

A tricky backward and forward pass combination Yates to Burge to Mickal gained 15 yards, but when the same play was tried again Ames intercepted and was downed by Fickett, sub for Rhyme.

FUMBLES CAUSE WAVE TO LOSE MANY CHANCES

Greenies Put on Last Half Drive to Defeat Old Liner Eleven

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 14.—(P)—Tulane came out of a bag of fumbles to win 20 to 0 over Maryland here today in a ragged football game.

Time and again Tulane brought the ball into touchdown territory in the first half but could not overcome 10 fumbles of the backfield and the half ended 0 to 0.

The third quarter opened with another fumble, but here the Greenies shook off the jinx and drove the ball to the six-yard line. But Maryland put up a rock wall defense and got the ball on downs.

Yeager kicked out to the 40-yard line and Tulane started a drive that brought the ball back to Maryland's seven-yard line where a pass, Mintz to Hardy scored the first touchdown.

Confidence restored and fumbles shaken off, the Green Wave gave an exhibition of old time form in the fourth quarter and ran wild over the visiting Marylanders, scoring two touchdowns on 50 and 60-yard runs.

Maryland played a stubborn defensive game in the first half but was unable to cope with the fast vicious attack of Tulane in the last half. The game brought out into the open hitherto virtually unknown players such as Barney Mintz and Bucky Bryan, Tulane halfbacks. Mintz dominated the scoring play, the first touchdown being on his forward pass. He made the second touchdown by intercepting a pass, Nelson to Ennis, and running 50 yards to score behind interference of six teammates. Mintz accounted for two extra points.

Bucky Bryan caught a punt and raced 60 yards for the third touchdown through the whole Maryland team on a roadway opened by Tulane linemen.

For Maryland Widmeyer, reputed to be one of the fastest players in football, made several spectacular runs, but the team was unable to capitalize on his gains. B. Buscher, Maryland end, recovered two Tulane fumbles and set the ball up in good striking distance but Maryland was unable to organize a sustained attack.

A good picture of the game can be seen in ground gains from running plays. Tulane made 224 yards against Maryland's 40.

Last Minute Attack Gives Ruston Bulldogs Their Only Score

RUSTON, Oct. 14.—(Special)—Fighting grimly for a homecoming victory but with all odds and breaks against them the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs bowed in defeat to Southwestern at Tech field Saturday afternoon, by a score of 13 to 7. More than 3,000 alumni, students and visitors to Ruston's semi-centennial witnessed the spectacular battle.

After Southwestern had scored two touchdowns the Techmen staged a brilliant aerial attack in the last minute to gain their score. With most of the crowd on their way to the gates and the victory conceded to the visitors, Davis tossed a pass to Johnson for a 23-yard gain to Southwestern's two-yard line. After failing on two line plays to score, the Tech crew took to the air again and this time Davis threw a wide pass to Johnson for the tally.

Scoring threats in nearly every quarter brought the fans to their feet time and again and the entire affair was interesting. Southwestern's power plays were telling on Tech's weak forward wall and the visitors concentrated on this type of offensive throughout the tilt. Having very few chances to carry the ball, Tech made only one first down until the final period. The visiting team used an abundant reserve strength to advantage during the warm contest.

Higgins crossed the Tech goal in the third quarter for the first score of the game on a short thrust at the line. Southwestern gained possession of the ball on their own 45-yard stripe and marched the 55 yards to the Tech goal. Tech had held for four downs within their two-yard line before the touchdown was counted. In the fourth period Zack passed to McMurray for an 18-yard pass and run for the second Southwestern score.

Play was called to start the game after Miss Jewell Smith, queen of Tech's homecoming, had presented Captain Thad Waters of the Tech team with the football to be used during the game. Southwestern received and counted three first downs in gaining to Tech's 18-yard line before the Tech line braced and held them for downs. From then on until the closing minutes of the quarter neither team made any headway and punters for both sides were kept busy.

As the quarter ended Davis got off a good kick from close formation to set the visitors back on their own 10-yard stripe and on the punt back Garrett returned the ball to Southwestern's 30-yard line.

Carrying the ball three times, Garrett made a first down to start the second quarter. A five-yard penalty and a nine-yard gain by Thigpen placed the ball four yards from Southwestern's goal line but the threat was stopped and Tech lost the ball. The same punting game with Tech back on defense marked the remainder of play until the rest period.

Shortly after resuming play of the second half, Southwestern's Higgins started functioning and with offense in the main role of ball totter, the South Louisianians pushed over a touchdown. Honeycutt booted the ball through the uprights from placement for the extra point. Using a quick kick to advantage, Southwestern sent the Techmen back deep in their own territory and gained a real break by covering a fumble on Tech's 11-yard stripe. The Tech fighters dug in and held and a pass on the last down went into the end zone and prevented a score.

Higgins and Zack continued the assault on Tech's line in the fourth quarter with plentiful Southwestern reserves out-charging the tired Tech squad. A pass from Zack to McMurray scored a touchdown from the Tech 18-yard line after the visitors had gained the ball in Tech territory.

With the game almost over Tech started passing and from mid-field Davis passed twice to Garrett for 33 yards gain. Stopped within the 20-yard line with a pass going uncompleted into the end zone, Tech made another drive after Garrett made a nice return on a punt. Davis passed to Royce Johnson and the receiver dashed within two yards of the goal before being fumbled. Apparently blocked in their desperate effort to tally, Tech tried another pass on the last down with Johnson receiving across the Southwestern goal line. Davis kicked the extra point from placement. Tech kicked to Southwestern and after one play the time was up.

TROJANS DEFEAT ST. MARY'S, 14-7

Penalty Gives Southern California Chance to Gain Victory

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—(P)—An irresistible impulse of a St. Mary's football player for conversation with his fellows may have cost his team a tie with Southern California today.

The Trojans won their 25th consecutive football game, 14 to 7, but a penalty following a substitute's illegal conversation placed the ball in position for the winning touchdown to be scored.

With the score tied through a sensational 30 yard pass by St. Mary's after the home guard had moved out in front early in the game, Southern California took the kick-off.

The Trojans had driven to the goal's 23 yard line and back Edward McCullough sent Ed Gilbert, a giant guard, into the fray.

Before a play could be run, the referee moved the ball to St. Mary's eight yard line, the explanation being made that Gilbert had talked before a play with the resulting penalty of fifteen yards. From the eight yard line Homer Griffith carried the ball across for the third and final counter of the ball game.

Eighty thousand persons saw the winners use sheer power to gain advantage. St. Mary's passing game sparkled at intervals. The overbend attack was featured by a pass from George Wilson to Fred Caninus half the distance of the field.

GEORGIA DEFEATS NORTH CAROLINA

Bulldogs' Powerful Eleven Easily Trims Tar Heel Eleven

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 14.—(P)—Georgia's powerful football team ran rough shod over an outclassed University of North Carolina eleven here today to win 30 to 0.

The Bulldogs scored in each quarter and threatened on occasions when they could not count. The Tar Heels got within 23 yards of Georgia goal line one time, near the game's end.

Coach Harry Mehre used a total of 51 men and even the relief teams ran up points. Carolina used 25 players.

Georgia's galaxy of backs led by the powerful George Chapman and the shifty Homer Key, rolled up 351 yards of net ground gained during the afternoon while Carolina's men with Burnett, Croom and McDonald accounting for more than three quarters of the total in three dashes netted 82 yards.

Chapman, playing fullback scored Georgia's first touchdown with spectacular runs of 29 and 34 yards. After the second touchdown relief men were going in fast for Georgia and two of them, Bond and Brown, completed a pass that was good for 29 yards and a score just as the half ended.

ARKANSAS TRIMS BAYLOR, 19 TO 7

Twin Brother Combination Gives Razorbacks Late Victory

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 14.—(P)—A twin brother combination of Clark and George Jordan carried the University of Arkansas Razorbacks to the let-1 of the Southwest conference here today with a fourth period pass for 55 yards that demoralized a heroic Baylor university team and gave Arkansas the decision 19 to 7.

The long pass from Clark to George with the latter racing 20 yards over the Bears' goal for the Razorbacks' second touchdown, recovered the 7-6 lead the Bears assumed when they tallied in the second period.

On the first play after the kickoff from this touchdown, Brennan intercepted Parks' lateral pass and exposed the Baylor goal line. Hagan, guard sub, kicked the extra point.

Ralph Laforce, Razorback speedy back, had been bottled up all afternoon. With the game less than four minutes old Murphy quick kicked to the Baylor six-yard line where Williams fumbled on the first play and Captain Lewis Johnson raced across the goal and covered the ball for a touchdown.

Laforce's quick kick was partially blocked and White, a sub for Pearce, ran the ball to the Arkansas 36-yard line.

Krony after being partially stopped by Rucker, eluded him and two other Hogs and hurled the ball to the waiting hands of Petty for a touchdown. Stringer place kicked the extra points.

TERRY IS GIVEN GALA RECEPTION

Memphis Honors Manager of World Champion New York Giants

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 14.—(P)—William Harold Terry—Colonel Terry—took a ride down Main street in a flag-draped automobile today.

It was the same old Main street he'd known all these years, but the flags were out and the bands were playing.

So many people, too—there were thousands of them lining the sidewalks, waving handkerchiefs, throwing their hats in the air and cheering with unquestionable volume and fervor.

They were blowing horns, and joining in the din of march behind the official car carrying Colonel Terry in the lead.

Memphis was welcoming "Memphis Bill" Terry home again. The manager of the world champion New York Giants was receiving the acclaim of thousands in a mammoth celebration that swept down Main street from one end to the other.

The madly cheering procession finally wound up at the court house where W. Marking Overton, dapper little mayor, stood waiting on the steps of city hall.

"We know all along Bill Terry was a good baseball player," he said, "but we didn't know he would reach the pinnacle so quickly." Without further ado, the mayor detailed the virtues of the distinguished citizen and concluded by presenting him with a commission as colonel on the staff of Governor Hill McAlister.

Colonel Terry got a firm clinch on his big, black cigar and began, a trifle unsteadily, perhaps: "Three or four weeks ago after we won the National league pennant, we were escorted through New York and received by the mayor. But this reception outdoes that. It's got me shaky."

Everybody laughed and applauded. The celebration, in which Mrs. Terry and the Terry children participated was carried on into the night with a great public banquet at which the Elks presented him with expensive tributes.

FERRIDAY MEETS CROWVILLE FERRIDAY, Oct. 14.—(Special)—Coming out of their third game of the season last Friday here with the Waterproof Bengals, the Ferriday high school Bulldogs begin early this week to prepare for their fourth home tilt of the season with the Crowville Bulldogs on Friday afternoon. Crowville always has a good driven team and in past years have always given the local Canines hard games. None of the local players were injured against the Tigers Friday and all will be in tip-top shape for the Bulldogs from Franklin parish.

BOTH TEAMS MISS MANY CHANCES TO GAIN TOUCHDOWNS

Louisiana State Makes 15
First Downs to Five for Gentlemen

TIGER STADIUM, BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 14.—(P)—Each uncovering stout defenses and flashy but inconsistent attacks, Louisiana State university and Centenary college battled to a scoreless tie tonight in a slashing football game that almost rang up some kind of a record for scoring chances missed.

A crowd of 20,000 saw the contest in which State tried to avenge a 6-0 defeat by Centenary last year. Louisiana State apparently had the scrap in the bag near the end of the final period, after a steady drive, but muffed a touchdown chance from the Centenary two-yard line by electing to try the giant Jack Torrance on a field goal. The big tackle fumbled the center pass, was smothered when he tried to run, and the game was over a few moments later.

From the opening whistle to the last play the game was packed with potential scoring dynamite, with State's dangerous backfield, especially Ab Mikal, Tiger offensive main-spring, threatening repeatedly with passes, dashes and power smashes, while Oslin and Smith of Centenary, fleet and wiry ball jugglers, were always getting away for dangerous races around end.

Passers and slithers through broken fields enlivened the action, but desperate defense of both teams tightened shy of the goals.

Besides the last quarter scoring failure, State barely missed touchdowns in the second period, when Lobdell took a 33-yard pass from Mikal and ran 25 more over the goal only to be called back on an offside, and early in the fourth when Fatherree was smeared by Oslin after a brilliant 55-yard dash to the Centenary 20-yard marker.

As the fourth quarter drew to a close, State launched a scoring offensive with Mikal on his 40-yard line tossing a short pass to Lobdell who took the ball to his 25. Fatherree fell with a beautifully completed pass on the eight-yard line, and then went over left guard for four yards. Mikal got two more to put it within two yards of the last stripe.

It was then that the Tigers tried to kick with a shrewd failure.

The entire Centenary team battled heroically to stave off the Louisiana attacks, but the Maroon gridders from Shreveport got the worst of it in statistics.

L. S. U. was credited with 15 first downs to five for Centenary; 199 yards gained from scrimmage to 46 for the visitors, and completed eight passes for 110 yards to seven for 38 yards by the upstarters.

Torrance, though he failed on kick try, played the game of the huge tackle career, smashing through the line repeatedly with speed and power to tangle up Centenary backs.

L. S. U.-Gents Tilt in Detail

Louisiana State kicked off to Oslin who received it on his own goal and returned it to the 15. Smith passed 15 yards to Oslin who dashed along the sidelines, cut back and stumbled down on the Centenary 40, when he was apparently away for a touchdown. Smith lost two on a fumble. He recovered it and then punted out on State's 18. Mikal quick kicked out of bounds on the Tiger 40 in a poor boot. Torrance, State giant tackle, smashed through and downed Oslin for a three-yard loss. Kent then intercepted a Smith pass on State's 40 and raced to Centenary's 21 where Oslin forced him out of bounds.

A short pass behind the line, Fatherree to Mikal, gave nine yards, to Centenary's 13. Mikal made five through center and first down. Fatherree was thrown for a two-yard loss by Parker, and Lobdell and Mikal failed to gain on line plays. A field goal try by Mikal failed. Smith punted from his 40, passed shortly to Lobdell who dashed to his 25. Another pass, Fatherree caught at the tip of his fingers as he fell, put the ball on the Centenary eight yard stripe. Fatherree went over left guard for four, and Mikal cracked the same place for two more. Torrance tried for a field goal, but fumbled, picked it up and tried to run but was smeared by Morgan on the eight and Smith punted. Centenary was penalized seven yards for holding and the play was called back to the one yard marker where Smith punted to his 38.

A pass, Mikal to Bowman, sub for Lobdell, placed the ball on the 26. Another pass, Mikal to Burge put it on the 13. A try by Mikal at the line failed as the game concluded.

Final score: Centenary 0; Louisiana 0 (tie).

State tried passes with Mikal throwing, but gained no ground, and punted to Smith on the visitor's 18. Centenary punted, and Mikal shot a 33-yard pass to Lobdell who dashed 25 yards over the goal, but the play was called back for an L. S. U. offside. Mikal tore around right end for 9 yards to the Shreveport's 46, stopped by Harper and Wilson. Mikal fumbled on the next play, Waters recovering for Centenary, on their 45. The upstarters were held and booted to State's 28.

Two cracks at the line by Mikal and Fatherree gained seven yards, and Mikal punted to Centenary's 22. Defense of both teams proved invincible, forcing repeated punt exchanges. Oslin turned in a beautiful left end race from his 27 to the Tiger 45 where five men pulled him down. Oslin tore off around right end and Sellers and Parker bucked out a bare first down. Mikal spilled Oslin for 12-yard loss on a second end try, however. Mikal intercepted a Smith pass on his 35 and dashed to his 48. A pass, Mikal to Burge netted nine yards.

State tried long passes as the half ended, but they fell short, and Mikal punted. Sellers fumbled and State recovered on the Centenary 20 as the half ended, with the score: Centenary 0; Louisiana State 0. Yates was substituted for Mikal and returned the opening kickoff 27 yards to his 32. He cracked right tackle for ten and first down. Playing a whale of a game, he cut inside right tackle for 23 more yards, to the Centenary 35. Centenary, which started with three reserves in the third period, rushed Oslin, Geisler and Morgan back in the game. Ploughing over right tackle and guard Yates made ten yards in three tries and first down.

An end try by Fatherree failed, and Yates smashed center for 8 yards, but Centenary held them for downs on its 16. Smith punted to the visitors 47. Yates, Fatherree and Mikal hammered a first with slashes off tackle and around end. Mikal tripped and fell after catching a Yates pass in an almost clear field, but the Tigers made it first down on the Centenary 23. The Shreveporters fighting stubbornly, held them on their 20 and punted.

A tricky backward and forward pass combination Yates to Burge to Mikal gained 15 yards, but when the game was tried again Ames intercepted and was downed by Pickett, sub for Rhyne.

Humphrey, on the Centenary 22. Smith punted and play went to mid-field. After State punted, a pass Smith to Oslin gained 10 yards on State's 40 as the period closed.

Score end third, Centenary 0, Louisiana State 0.

Both coaches sprinkled substitutes as the fourth quarter got under way. A short pass to Oslin gained 15 yards. Oslin was thrown for a nine yard loss by Burge on the next play. Mikal resumed his position and Yates went out. Centenary passes wouldn't work and Smith punted out of bounds on the Tiger 15. State kicked back, and Centenary rang up two straight first downs with Oslin supplying the drive to State's 41.

Louisiana started to work a Centenary punt back from its 20. Fatherree broke through left tackle and raced 60 yards when Oslin, only man between him and the goal, dragged him down. Line smashes by Mikal and Oslin failed to make first down, and Smith punted from his 15. Mikal, from his 40, passed shortly to Lobdell who dashed to his 25. Another pass, Fatherree caught at the tip of his fingers as he fell, put the ball on the Centenary eight yard stripe. Fatherree went over left guard for four, and Mikal cracked the same place for two more. Torrance tried for a field goal, but fumbled, picked it up and tried to run but was smeared by Morgan on the eight and Smith punted. Centenary was penalized seven yards for holding and the play was called back to the one yard marker where Smith punted to his 38.

A pass, Mikal to Bowman, sub for Lobdell, placed the ball on the 26. Another pass, Mikal to Burge put it on the 13. A try by Mikal at the line failed as the game concluded.

Final score: Centenary 0; Louisiana 0 (tie).

DUKE'S VICTORY IS DAY'S UPSET

Southern Grid Schedule
Featured by Defeat Of Tennessee Team

(By Associated Press)
Duke University's 10 to 2 victory to end the three-year winning streak of the favored University of Tennessee eleven featured Saturday's gridiron program of southern games.

Wallace Wade, who coached the 1930 Alabama team that gave Tennessee its last licking until yesterday, also is now Duke's mentor. Wade's Blue Devils capitalized a Tennessee fumble in the second period to boot over a field goal, then added a touchdown in the final period after Tennessee had blocked Laney's punt for its only points.

Duke's win was the first of the year for southern conference teams over southeastern conference rivals. Georgia romped to an easy 30 to 0 win over North Carolina and gave notice it would be a real contender for southern honors. Tulane added another triumph for the southeastern group by plastering Maryland 20 to 0 with a late attack.

Georgia Tech snapped Auburn's record of 13 games without defeat, winning from the Plainsmen 16 to 6 and pushing Auburn out of the southeastern championship picture. Alabama won from Mississippi State 18 to 0 in the only southeastern conference title battle.

Vanderbilt lost its intercollegiate tilt with Ohio State 20-0.

In other games Mercer and Birmingham-Southern played a scoreless tie, Furman beat Citadel 14 to 0, and Sewanee defeated Southwestern of Memphis 12 to 7. Chattanooga university won Oglethorpe university 16 to 12, Southwestern Louisiana defeated Louisiana Tech 13 to 7, Georgetown (Ky.) and East Kentucky played to a scoreless tie, Newberry beat Catawba 19 to 7 and Wofford won 7 to 6 over Lenoir Rhyne.

FUMBLES CAUSE WAVE TO LOSE MANY CHANCES

Drive to Defeat Old
Liner Eleven

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 14.—(P)—Tulane came out of a bag of fumbles to win 20 to 0 over Maryland here today in a ragged football game.

Time and again Tulane brought the ball into touchdown territory in the first half but could not overcome 10 fumbles of the backfield and the half ended 0 to 0.

The third quarter opened with another fumble, but here the Greenies shook off the jinx and drove the ball to the six-yard line. But Maryland put up a rock wall defense and got the ball on downs.

Yeager kicked out to the 40-yard line and Tulane started a drive that brought the ball back to Maryland's seven-yard line where a pass, Mintz to Hardy scored the first touchdown.

Confidence restored and fumbles shaken off, the Green Wave gave an exhibition of old time form in the fourth quarter and ran wild over the visiting Marylanders, scoring two touchdowns on 50 and 60-yard runs.

Maryland played a stubborn defensive game in the first half but was unable to cope with the fast vicious attack of Tulane in the last half.

The game brought out into the open hitherto virtually unknown players such as Barney Mintz and Bucky Bryan, Tulane halfbacks. Mintz dominated the scoring play, the first touchdown being on his forward pass. He made the second touchdown by intercepting a pass, Nelson to Ennis, and running 50 yards to score behind interference of six teammates. Mintz accounted for two extra points.

Bucky Bryan caught a punt and raced 60 yards for the third touchdown through the whole Maryland team on a roadway opened by Tulane linemen.

For Maryland Widmeyer, reputed to be one of the fastest players in football, made several spectacular runs, but the team was unable to capitalize on his gains. B. Buscher, Maryland end, recovered two Tulane fumbles and set the ball up in good striking distance but Maryland was unable to organize a sustained attack.

A good picture of the game can be seen in ground gains from running plays. Tulane made 234 yards against Maryland's 40.

Ruston Bulldogs Their Only Score

RUSTON, Oct. 14.—(Special)—Fighting grimly for a homecoming victory but with all odds and breaks against them the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs bowed in defeat to Southwestern at Tech field Saturday afternoon by a score of 13 to 7. More than 3,000 alumni, students and visitors to Ruston's semi-centennial witnessed the spectacular battle.

After Southwestern had scored two touchdowns the Techmen staged a brilliant aerial attack in the last minute to gain their score. With most of the crowd on their way to the visitors, Davis tossed a pass to Johnson for a 23-yard gain to Southwestern's two-yard line. After failing on two line plays to score, the Tech crew took to the air again and this time Davis shot a wide pass to Johnson for the tally.

Scoring threats in nearly every quarter brought the fans to their feet time and again and the entire affray was interesting. Southwestern's power plays were telling on Tech's weak forward wall and the visitors concentrated on this type of offensive throughout the tie. Having very few chances to carry the ball, Tech made only one first down until the final period. The visiting team used an abundant reserve strength to advantage during the warm contest.

Higgins crossed the Tech goal in the third quarter for the first score of the game on a short thrust at the line. Southwestern gained possession of the ball on their own 45-yard stripe and marched the 55 yards to the Tech goal. Tech had held for four downs within their two-yard line before the touchdown was counted. In the fourth period Zack passed to McMurray for an 18-yard pass and run for the second Southwestern score.

Play was called to start the game after Miss Jewell Smith, queen of Tech's homecoming, had presented Captain Chad Waters of the Tech team with the football to be used during the game. Southwestern received and counted three first downs in gaining to Tech's 18-yard line before the Tech line braced and held them for downs. From then on until the closing minutes of the quarter neither team made any headway and punters for both sides were kept busy.

As the quarter ended Davis got off a good kick from close formation to set the visitors back on their own 10-yard stripe and on the punt back Garrett returned the ball to Southwestern's 30-yard line.

Carrying the ball three times, Garrett made a first down to start the second quarter. A five-yard penalty and a nine-yard gain by Thigpen placed the ball four yards from Southwestern's goal line but the threat was stopped and Tech lost the ball. The same punting game with Tech back on defense marked the remainder of play until the rest period.

Shortly after resuming play the second half, Southwestern's offense started functioning and with Higgins in the main role of ball totter, the South Louisianians pushed over a touchdown. Honeycutt booted the ball through the uprights from placement for the extra point. Using a quick kick to advantage, Southwestern sent the Techmen back deep in their own territory and gained a real break by covering a fumble on Tech's 11-yard stripe. The Tech fighters dug in and held and a pass on the last down went into the end zone and prevented a score.

Higgins and Zack continued the assault on Tech's line in the fourth quarter with plentiful Southwestern reserves out-charging the tired Tech squad. A pass from Zack to McMurray scored a touchdown from the Tech 18-yard line after the visitors had gained the ball in Tech territory.

With the game almost over Tech started passing and from mid-field Davis passed twice to Garrett for 30 yards gain. Stopped within the 20-yard line with a pass going uncompleted into the end zone, Tech made another drive after Garrett made a nice return on a punt. Davis passed to Royce Johnson and the receiver dashed within two yards of the score before being downed. Apparently Tech tried another pass on the last down with Johnson receiving across the Southwestern goal line. Davis kicked the extra point from placement. Tech kicked to Southwestern and after one play the time was up.

TROJANS DEFEAT ST. MARY'S, 14-7

Penalty Gives Southern California Chance to Gain Victory

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—(P)—An irresistible impulse of a St. Mary's football player for conversation with his fellows may have cost his team a tie with Southern California today. The Trojans won their 25th consecutive football game, 14 to 7, but a penalty following a substitute's illegal conversation placed the ball in position for the winning touchdown to be scored.

With the score tied through a sensational 50 yard pass by St. Mary's after the home guard had moved out in front early in the game, Southern California took the kick-off.

The Trojans had driven to the Gaels' 23 yard line when Coach Edward Madigan sent Ed Gilbert, a giant guard, into the fray.

Before a play could be run, the referee moved the ball to St. Mary's eight yard line, the explanation being made that Gilbert had talked before play with the resulting penalty of fifteen yards. From the eight yard line Homer Griffith carried the ball across for the third and final counter of the half game.

Eighty thousand persons saw the winners use sheer power to good advantage. St. Mary's passing game sparkled at intervals. The overhead attack was featured by a pass from George Wilson to Fred Caninus half the distance of the field.

Southern California won the game but lost two star players for an indefinite period. Bob Erskine, tackle, was carried off the field after the second half kick-off and Captain Ford Palmer followed him in the arms of stretcher bearers in the fourth period.

The game was a rough, tough one, penalties were frequent, Southern California losing fifty yards for unnecessary roughness.

Heel Eleven

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 14.—(P)—Georgia's powerful football team ran rough shod over an outclassed University of North Carolina eleven here today to win 30 to 0.

The Bulldogs scored in each quarter and threatened on occasions when they could not count. The Tar Heels got within 23 yards of Georgia goal line one time, near the game's end.

Coach Harry Mehre used a total of 31 men and even the relief teams ran up points. Carolina used 28 players.

Georgia's galaxy of backs led by the powerful George Chapman and the shifty Homer Key, rolled up 354 yards of net ground gained during the afternoon while Carolina's men with Burnett, Croon and McDonald accounting for more than three quarters of the total in three dashes netted 82 yards.

Chapman, playing fullback scored Georgia's first two touchdowns with spectacular runs of 29 and 34 yards. After the second touchdown relief men were going in fast for Georgia and two of them, Bond and Brown, completed a pass that was good for 29 yards and a score just as the half ended.

ARKANSAS TRIMS BAYLOR, 19 TO 7

Twin Brother Combination Gives Razorbacks
Late Victory

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 14.—(P)—A twin brother combination of Clark and George Jordan carried the University of Arkansas Razorbacks to the lead of the Southwest conference here today with a fourth period pass for 55 yards that demoralized a heroic Baylor university team and gave Arkansas the decision 19 to 7.

The long pass from Clark to George with the latter racing 20 yards over the Bears' goal for the Razorbacks' second touchdown, recovered the 7-6 lead the Bears assumed when they tallied in the second period.

On the first play after the kickoff from this touchdown Brennan intercepted Parks' lateral pass and chased the Baylor goal line. Hagan, guard sub, kicked the extra point.

Ralph Laforce, Razorback speedy back, had been bottled up all afternoon.

With the game less than four minutes old Murphy quick kicked to the Baylor six-yard line where Williams fumbled on the first play and Captain Lewis Johnson raced across the goal and covered the ball for a touchdown.

DUKE PULLS UPSET IN BEATING TENNESSEE, 10 TO 9

VOLS' WINNING STREAK SNAPPED BY BLUE DEVILS

Homecoming Crowd Of 22,000 Watch Wade's Charges Win Game

By Reld Monfort
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
DUKE STADIUM, DULHAM, N. C., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Duke's Blue Devils laughed in the face of Tennessee's long queue of 26 victories by defeating the saffron-shirted Vols 10 to 2 here today.

And in the doing they heaped high the happiness of a homecoming crowd of 22,000, and roared a challenge to be reckoned with when the roll of mighty eleven is called with the ringing down of the season's curtain.

Today as in 1930 it was Wallace Wade coached eleven, that plastered black mark against the shining Tennessee escutcheon. Then Alabama did the trick.

The Blue Devils, playing inspired football, scored in the second period when the flashing Cornelius, standing on Tennessee's 18-yard line, sent the ball scurrying between the uprisings from the steady hands of Hendrickson almost directly in front of the goal posts. The Vols retaliated in the beginning of the fourth to block one of Lane's punts which was recovered over the goal line by Durner for a safety in one of the liveliest free for all scrambles.

But the Blue Devils struck again, for the fourth with the thunder of Thor's hammer. Charging Cornelius a second time entered the scoring column when he took the ball on a reverse and lunged over left tackle for 14 yards and a touchdown to climax a 31-yard Duke march. Then Cornelius proceeded to kick the extra point thereby taking personal complete possession of the goal gained by doughty Duke.

Dubach Trounces Dodson Eleven Friday, 74 to 0

DUBACH, La., Oct. 14.—(Special)—With the regular Plungers on the bench during most of the game, the Baby Plungers of the Dubach high school clashed with a light and inexperienced Dodson team 74 to 0 on the local gridiron Friday.

New faces appeared in the Plungers' starting lineup as the regulars Adams, fullback, and Mount, guard, were out nursing ailments. Despite new faces, the team clicked satisfactorily and the opening kickoff was run back by the locals backfield ace, W. H. Hinkle, for a touchdown.

The lighter Dodson eleven could not compete with the power of the locals and the Plungers ran through their defense almost at will, resorting chiefly to straight line plays.

Captain Colvin, quarterback, called a great game while in action and kept the Dodson defense completely baffled.

Smith, center; Schuler and Napper, guards; Bailey and Napper, ends, were replaced soon after the game began and the reserves had no trouble carrying on where the regulars left off.

The coming week will find the locals preparing for their ancient rivals in Arcadia next Friday. The Arcadia aggregation, under the tutelage of Coach Hassell, has a strong team as they bowled over Gibsland for the parish championship and held Minden 7 to 6 and Ruston 7 to 0.

Panthers Climax Victory With Three Scores in Third Period

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Rising slowly to crunching fury, the Golden Panthers of Pittsburgh, smashed a game but almost helpless Navy team, 34 to 6 today, to warn the football world that another in a string of mighty eleven is growing on the smoky heights above the Monongahela.

Seemingly holding in check the same ruthless power that dominated the east last year and won them the Rose Bowl assignment against Southern California, the Panthers let go only in the third period when an uncontrollable sophomore, Hub Randour, of McDonald, Pa., rocketed to two shift scores in a three-touchdown assault.

Only in flashes did this Pitt eleven lacking but an end, a center, and an all-America back, Warren Heller, from last year's dreadnaughts, tear full tilt into Navy's overpowered youngsters.

After a scoreless first period in which Navy got to Pitt's seven-yard line as the whistle blew, the Panthers smashed swiftly to one score in the second, piled up three in the third, ground out a fifth in the final quarter, and then tangled in a pair of rudimentary mistakes that made possible the six-yard dash of Gordon Chung Hoon, slippery little back from Hawaii, around an end for Navy's lone touchdown with but a few minutes left of the ball game.

Navy counted only after a bad pass from center drove Pitt from its own 40 to the eight-yard line, a punt carried back only to the 25, and a 15-yard penalty set the sailors upon the enemy ten-yard mark. Chung Hoon scored in 34 plays.

Betty Boop Team Beats News-Star Boys Eleven

The Betty Boop football team, sponsored by the Capitol theater, defeated the News-Star-World Newsboys yesterday. The game was played at the parish high school football grounds.

The outstanding player of the game was Cason Mitchell, who made several long runs for the Boopers. The Boopers' line was strong, holding the Newsboys for few long gains. The Capitol eleven presented a pair of triple threats in Mitchell and Schmuck.

The Betty Boop club made 18 first downs to seven for the News-Star. Officials of the game were Monroe Trimble and Truman Staples of the Ouachita parish high school team.

TEACHERS HOLD MILLSAPS TO TIE

Majors Outgain Hattiesburg Foes But Are Unable to Score

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Coach Pooley Hubert's state teachers from Hattiesburg accounted for a stunning upset here today by battling to a scoreless tie with Millsaps college.

The Teachers were outgained, 179 to 149 yards in ground made from scrimmage, but with the aid of penalties the Yellow Jackets made six first downs to five for the majors.

Real scoring threats by either team were missing, and the game was fought largely in midfield, with defensive attainments outstripping the attack of both evens.

Forward passing was attempted at many stages of the tilt by both teams, but only one gain of importance was made via aerial chunks, Holloman of Millsaps completing a long toss to Alexander in the final quarter to give the Majors a 30-yard gain to the Teacher 29-yard line.

Interception of passes was frequent on both sides and prevented sustained offensive drives. Millsaps went to the Teachers' 20-yard line in the opening period, but were held by an intercepted pass. It was their greatest threat at the Jacket goal.

The Teachers blocked a major punt and advanced the ball just inside the 20-yard line before an interception cost them their scoring opportunity at the opening of the fourth period.

PANTHERS HOLD MERCER TO TIE

Birmingham Southern Fights Desperately to Turn Back Bears

LEGION FIELD, BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Birmingham Southern's Panthers fought desperately for four periods here today to hold the vaunted Mercer passing attack in check at vital moments, and the game ended in a 0-0 tie.

Trommerhauser's passes kept the Panthers back in their own territory for the greater portion of the game but the Mercer eleven always lacked the final scoring punch.

Nine of the Mercer quarterbacks flips were completed, for total gains of 128 yards. Four others, however, were intercepted, each time ending a threat at the Birmingham-Southern goal. The Panthers failed to complete a pass and were outgained 12 first downs to 3.

In the second quarter Olson, Mercer tackle, blocked a punt from Haygood and downed the ball back of the Panther goal, but the touchdown was lost when Mercer was offside on the play.

TORNADO TAKES EARLY LEAD TO TRIM PLAINSMEN

Nine Points In First Period Give Tech Commanding Margin

By Dillon Graham
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
ATLANTA, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Auburn, co-champion of southern football last year, was blasted out of the Southeastern conference race in its first league game today by Georgia Tech, 16 to 6, although the Plainsmen outrushed the Engineers all the way.

Georgia Tech drove to an early touchdown, profited by an Auburn safety, then played a defensive contest to coast in, repulsing Auburn's late drive through the air.

The Golden Tornado's second touchdown came on a 50-yard run after a short pass, with Auburn scoring its only tally early in the fourth period.

Except in the first period, Auburn forced the play, outgaining the Tornado and threatening seriously on three occasions only to have their bid halted every time by an intercepted forward pass. Auburn gained 271 yards to Tech's 147 and made 19 first downs to 5 for the Tornado. The Plainsmen completed 13 passes out of 20 for a total of more than a hundred yards.

The defeat was Auburn's first in 13 contests, since the closing engagement in the 1931 season. Auburn showed real power in midfield but neither its running attack nor its passes could function successfully within the shadow of Tech's goal.

Tech's first touchdown early in the opening period, climaxed a 60-yard advance. The Tornado drove from 40 to Auburn's 17. Here Griffith's pass to Slocum was interfered with by Kimbrell, Auburn halfback, and it was Tech's ball on the one-yard line. Phillips plunged over and E. Wilcox booted the extra point.

Shortly afterwards, with Auburn on its own 10-yard line after taking a Tech punt, Kimbrell fumbled a bad from center and fell on the ball on the goal line for a safety and two points for the Tornado.

Auburn marched 65 yards at the start of the second period, with Phillips and Rogers doing most of the running, and was aided by a 15-yard penalty against Tech, but the move was stopped when Rogers was halted on the six-yard line. The Plainsmen drove down again but Phillips made a one-handed spectacular interception of Phillips' pass and ran 50 yards to Auburn's 23. Tech's success was shortlived for Aerial immediately snatched one of Phillips' tosses. Here Auburn opened its own bag of aerial tricks and passes quickly took the Plainsmen to Tech's 20, where again a pass interception, this time by Spradling, broke up the touchdown threat.

Interpassing passes with short runs by Phillips and Rogers, Auburn advanced into Tech's ground at the opening of the third period only to have Pool, Tech center, grab a pass thrown by Rogers and meant for Phillips.

Tech's final score came at this stage when Phillips, fading back to pass, was rushed and almost caught by Auburn's forwards. Just before the Plainsmen were on him Phillips let go a short heave to Roberts, who whirled, cut past two Auburn tacklers and shifted to the left to elude other Auburn men, and ran 50 yards across the goal. E. Wilcox again kicked goal.

Auburn finally capitalized one of its marches after the kickoff, going all the way down field late in the third period, with Talley plunging across on the first play of the last quarter. Passes again played a large part in the forward movement. The Auburn resorting almost wholly to its aerial game in an effort to score again in the closing minutes and carried from its 35 to Tech's 17, where two passes were incomplete and the ball went over, shortly before the final whistle.

Michigan and Pittsburgh Turn in Great Victories

Favored Teams Come Through Generally Throughout Nation

(By Associated Press)
The Wolverines of Michigan and the Panthers of Pittsburgh turned on the football heat yesterday and served notice on all rivals that they again will be among the contenders for the mythical national championship.

On a day conspicuous for its lack of the upsets the gridiron world has come to depend upon, Michigan uncovered an amazing attack that sent "Gloomy Gil" Dobie's astonished Cornell eleven down to a 40-0 battering.

Outplayed in the first quarter, Pitt suddenly found its offense clicking and crushed Navy under a 34-6 score that revealed the Panther has lost little of its power through the graduation of the great halfback, Warren Heller. Both Michigan and Pitt were favored from the start, but few among even their most ardent supporters expected triumph by such tremendous margins.

All down the line it was the scores, rather than the results, that surprised although Tennessee's 10-2 defeat at the hands of Duke's Blue Devils was hardly expected.

Southern California, Colgate, Nebraska and all of the east's score of major eleven registered victories but the margin in many instances was much closer than had been anticipated.

Northwestern, beaten by Iowa two weeks ago, came back with a bang to hold Stanford's highly regarded Cardinals to a scoreless draw while Ohio State, contributing to a smashing day for the midwest, turned back Vanderbilt, 20-0.

Notre Dame, rallying after its scoreless draw with Kansas a week ago, defeated Indiana, 12-2, but the Ramblers' performance still fell far short of expectations. Purdue came from behind to tie Minnesota's Gophers, 7-7 while Illinois, in the only other Big Ten conference game of the day, whipped Wisconsin in surprising fashion, 21-0.

In the Big Six, Nebraska defeated Iowa State, 20-0 while Kansas swamped Missouri, 33-0.

Despite Cornell's defeat, the east fared well in intersectional combat as Yale whipped Washington and Lee, 14-0. Columbia overcame a stubborn Virginia outfit 15-6, Syracuse adequately avenged a 1932 defeat by crushing Ohio Wesleyan, 40-0, and Carnegie Tech eked out a 3-0 verdict over Xavier of Cincinnati.

Fordham continued its winning ways although extended by West Virginia before it could win, 20-0 while Colgate, although a decisive victor over Rutgers, 25-2, saw its unscored record go by the boards. Up to today the Red Raiders had not permitted the opposition a single point since 1931.

Princeton uncovered all kinds of power in swamping Williams, 45-0 and Army trounced Delaware, 52-0 and Harvard was romping over New Hampshire, 34-0. Dartmouth, Holy Cross, Pennsylvania and Brown all won with some difficulty, Dartmouth beating Bates 14-0, Holy Cross stopping Providence by the same count, Penn turning back Franklin and Marshall, 9-0, and Brown defeating Springfield, 13-6. New York university outpointed Lafayette, 13-12. Bucknell nosed out Villanova, 19-17, and Manhattan and Georgetown played to a 20-20 tie in three of the most spectacular games of the day. Muhlenberg caused mild surprise by beating Penn State, 6-0, in an eastern power.

In the south, Georgia Tech caused some stir by beating Auburn's Plainsmen, 16-6, while Georgia was swamping North Carolina, 30-0. Tulane was beating Maryland, 20-0, and Alabama was turning back Mississippi State, 18-0.

Southern California's Trojans emerged 14-7 victors over St. Mary's Gaels after a strenuous struggle while Oregon was whipping Washington, 6-0 and Washington State was eking out a 12-7 decision over Montana in Pacific Coast conference games.

For the second week in a row, Texas bowed to a big six conference foe, losing 9-0 to Oklahoma's Sooners. Arkansas hung up its second Southwestern conference victory, beating Baylor, 19-7 while Southern Methodist upset Rice, 13-7.

Utah was hard pressed by Brigham Young in the Rocky Mountain sector but won, 21-6. Denver turned back Utah State, 12-0 and Montana State won from Wyoming, 6-0.

Winning Team Expected At Wisner High School

WISNER, Oct. 14.—(Special)—Wisner coaches the second week of hard work. Coaches Peel and Faulk are proud of the prospects for a winning season. The Bulldogs have no doubt make it but for most of the team in class "B" football this year.

For the first time in several years the Bulldogs have plenty of football material, some already developed and some to be developed shortly. With lettermen back in the harness and recruits the chances for winning a good.

The team that goes on the field Friday against Grayson will resemble the team of the Bulldogs that stood in Rayville's way for the class "B" championship several years ago and will deal Tallulah plenty of mischief this year should they meet in the playoffs.

With O. Wells, C. Chapman, Wells and Peters, veterans in the line and Robertson a new man showing up well in the line and W. Chapman, Brown and Walker doing splendid work in the backfield the team work is functioning smoothly.

ALABAMA TRIMS MAROONS, 18

Converted Fullback Leads Crimson Tide to Victory Over State

DENNY FIELD, UNIVERSITY, Ala., Oct. 14.—(AP)—A converted fullback, Frank Mosley, furnished spark today that touched off Alabama's drive to an 18 to 0 victory over a stubborn Mississippi State eleven.

Mosley entering the game as a fullback for the first time in his college career, furnished the power set off a touchdown drive in the second period, after the Mississippi had outplayed the Tide through opening quarter.

The Maroons threw a sudden surprise into Alabama with two quick touchdowns after the Crimson had fouled the Mississippians' defense hold solidly.

That, however, was the last in a run bid until late in the fourth period, when Captain Herrington, by a series of cleverly executed passes drove his team to the Alabama yard line only to meet a stone wall.

Mosley touched off the first Alabama offensive with a 17 yard smash.

It was the first time Alabama scored a first down. Mosley's Chappell made another, with Chappell right left tackle for 12 and the Millard Howell sprinted 21 around right end. Chappell and Mosley made first downs on the 2-yard line. Mosley took it over to complete a 71 yard march. His kick from playmen was blocked.

In the third period after the Mississippians had kicked to Alabama's Howell skirted right edge for 17 on fake kick to start a 68 yard drive. Mosley went over for the touchdown on a yard dash. Gandy's kick from playmen was blocked.

A short kick placed Alabama in scoring position in the fourth period when they took the ball on the 30 yard line, and drove to touchdown on off-tackle smashes and short end runs. Mosley went final foot for the touchdown but a kick for the extra point was blocked.

Alabama registered 13 first downs and Mississippi State seven with 11. Crimsons gaining 220 yards in scrimmage to the Maroons' 69.

VOLS' WINNING STREAK SNAPPED BY BLUE DEVILS

Homecoming Crowd Of 22,000 Watch Wade's Charges Win Game

By Reld Monfort (Associated Press Sports Writer) DUKES STADIUM, DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Duke's Blue Devils laughed in the face of Tennessee's long queue of 26 victories by defeating the saffron-shirted Vols 10 to 2 here today.

And in the doing they heaped high the happiness of a homecoming crowd of 22,000, and roared a challenge to be reckoned with when the roll of mighty eleven is called with the ringing down of the season's curtain.

Today as in 1930 it was Wallace Wade coached eleven, that plastered black mark against the shining Tennessee escutcheon. Then Alabama did the trick.

The Blue Devils, playing inspired football, scored in the second period when the flashing Cornelius, standing on Tennessee's 15-yard line, sent the ball scurrying between the uprights from the steady hands of Hendrickson almost directly in front of the goal posts. The Vols retaliated in the beginning of the fourth to block one of Lane's punts which was recovered over the goal line by Durner for safety in one of the liveliest free for all scrambles.

But the Blue Devils struck again. In the fourth with the thunder of Thor's hammer. Charging Cornelius a second time entered the scoring column when he took the ball on a reverse and lunged over left tackle for 14 yards and a touchdown to climax a 31-yard Duke march. Then Cornelius proceeded to kick the extra point thereby taking personal complete possession of the total garnered by doughty Duke.

DUBACH, La., Oct. 14.—(Special)—With the regular Plungers on the bench during most of the game, the Baby Plungers of the Dubach high school clashed through a light and inexperienced Dodson wall 74 to 0 on the local gridiron Friday.

Starting lineup as the regulars Adams, fullback, and Mount, guard, were out nursing ailments. Despite new faces, the team clicked satisfactorily and the opening kickoff was run back by the locals backfield ace, W. H. Hinkle, for a touchdown.

The lighter Dodson eleven could not compete with the power of the locals and the Plungers ran through their defense almost at will, resorting chiefly to straight line plays.

Captain Colvin, quarterback, called a great game while in action and kept the Dodson defense completely baffled.

Smith, center; Schuler and Napper, guards; Bailey and Napper, ends, were replaced soon after the game began and the reserves had no trouble carrying on where the regulars left off.

The coming week will find the locals preparing for their ancient rivals in Arcadia next Friday. The Arcadia aggregation, under the tutelage of Coach Hassell, has a strong team as they bowled over Gibsland for the parish championship and held Minden 7 to 0 and Ruston 7 to 0.

Officials at Friday's game were McMillan (La. Tech.), referee; Johnson (La. Tech.), umpire; Hall (La. Normal), head linesman.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 14.—(AP)—After being perilously close to defeat George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, Davis cup player and national doubles champion, today won his second claim on the Walter G. Mortland bowl by winning the finals of men's singles from J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., former Canadian champion, in a five-set duel, 2-6, 7-5, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3, in the Greenbrier Autumn tennis championship.

Lott and Hall each shared a leg on the challenge bowl. Gregory S. Mangin of Newark, N. J., 1932 winner, did not defend this week.

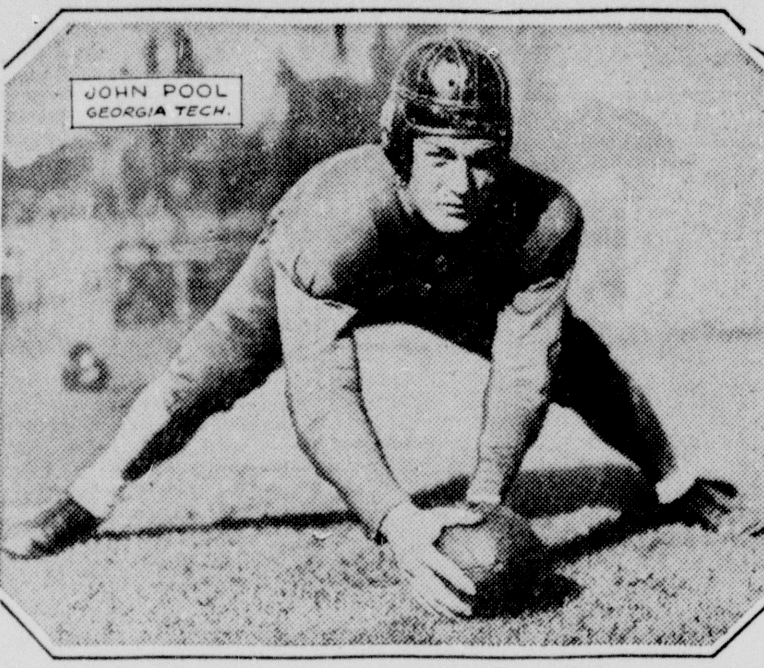

Jean Ridley of England gained her second holding of the women's cup by defeating Anne Page of Philadelphia 6-3, 6-4, in the finals yesterday.

The title in men's doubles was won by Lott and Fred C. Baggis of New York who conquered Hall and E. W. Feibleman of New York, 2-6, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5, in the final round today.

Miss Ridley and Mrs. Philip B. Hawk of New York came through as victors in the women's doubles, vanquishing Elize Coxe of Asheville, N. C., and Miss Josephine Gray of Cincinnati, 6-4, 6-4.

PITT TROUNCES MIDDIES, 34 TO 6

Panthers Climax Victory With Three Scores in Third Period

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Rising slowly to crunching fury, the Golden Panthers of Pittsburgh, smashed a game but almost helpless Navy team, 34 to 6 today, to warn the football world that another in a string of mighty eleven is growing on the smoky heights above the Monongahela. Seemingly holding in check the same ruthless power that dominated the east last year and won them the Rose Bowl assignment against Southern California, the Panthers let go only in the third period when an uncontrollable sophomore, Hub Randour, of McDonald, Pa., rocketed to two shift scores in a three-touchdown assault.

Only in flashes did this Pitt eleven lacking but an end, a center, and an all-America back, Warren Heller, from last year's dreadnaughts, tear full tilt into Navy's overpowered youngsters.

After a scoreless first period in which Navy got to Pitt's seven-yard line as the whistle blew, the Panthers smothered swiftly to one score in the second, and then tangled in a pair of rudimentary mistakes that made possible the six-yard dash of Gordon Chung Hoon, slippery little back from Hawaii, around an end for Navy's lone touchdown with but a few minutes left of the ball game.

Navy counted only after a bad pass from center drove Pitt from its own 40 to the eight-yard line, a punt carried back only to the 25, and a 15-yard penalty set the sailors upon the enemy ten-yard mark. Chung Hoon scored in two plays.

OHIO STATE BEATS VANDERBILT, 20-0

Scarlet Wave Runs Roughshod Over Commodores to Win Easily

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Ohio State's Scarlet Wave, a bit hampered by 35 substitutions, reached near tidal proportions again today and engulfed the Vanderbilt Commodores, 20 to 0, in an inter-sectional game played before 21,568 persons.

The wave pushed down all resistance as it rolled up touchdowns in the first, second and fourth quarters. Another touchdown was well on its way at the final gun, the Ohioans holding the ball on the Commodores' 4-yard line, as the result of a 60-yard run by little Sammy Drackulich, the smallest man on the squad.

Vanderbilt only once advanced the ball into Buckeye territory, when Oliphant lost one of Burton's punts in the sun and fumbled on his 35-yard line with a Commodore recovering. Only one play was made in this territory and that was an intercepted pass.

Coach Sam Williamson kept a steady line as the whistle blew, the Panthers smothered swiftly to one score in the second, and then tangled in a pair of rudimentary mistakes that made possible the six-yard dash of Gordon Chung Hoon, slippery little back from Hawaii, around an end for Navy's lone touchdown with but a few minutes left of the ball game.

Notre Dame Wins Hard Fought Battle, 12 to 2

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Two flashes of brilliant football by a Notre Dame eleven intent on showing its mettle for coming battles on the gridirons of the nation won a hard-fought 12 to 2 victory over Indiana university here today.

Nick Lukats, speedy halfback from Perth Amboy, N. J., cut through the Indiana line and dashed 53 yards for the first touchdown in the second quarter and Don Elser, the big Gary, Ind., fullback, skirted the Hoosiers' right end for the other one midway in the final period after a 33-yard march.

The safety which gave Indiana its only score came in the first minute of play after a long kick-off and short return bent the shock troops started by Coach Heartley Anderson back nearly to their goal line. Bill Shakespeare, Irish halfback, dropped the ball as he fell back to punt, and then chased it back across the goal, where he was downed.

Betty Boop Team Beats News-Star Boys Eleven

The Betty Boop football team, sponsored by the Capitol theater, defeated the News-Star-World Newsboys yesterday. The game was played at the parish high school football grounds.

The outstanding player of the game was Cason Mitchell, who made several long runs for the Boopers. The Boopers' line was strong, holding the Newsboys for few long gains. The Capitol eleven presented a pair of triple threats in Mitchell and Schmuck.

The Betty Boop club made 18 first downs to seven for the News-Star. Officials of the game were Monroe Trimble and Truman Staples of the Ouachita parish high school team.

TEACHERS HOLD MILLSAPS TO TIE

Majors Outgain Hattiesburg Foes But Are Unable to Score

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Coach Pooley Hubert's state teachers from Hattiesburg accounted for a stunning upset here today by battling to a scoreless tie with Millsaps college.

The Teachers were outgained, 173 to 149 yards in ground made from scrimmage, but with the aid of penalties the Yellow Jackets made six first downs to five for the majors.

Real scoring threats by either team were missing, and the game was fought largely in midfield, with defensive attainments outstripping the attack of both eleven.

Forward passing was attempted at many stages of the tilt by both teams, but only one gain of importance was made via aerial chunks, Holloman of Millsaps completing a long toss to Alexander in the final quarter to tie the Teachers 30-yard gain to the Teacher 29-yard line.

Interception of passes was frequent on both sides and prevented sustained offensive drives. Millsaps went to the Teachers' 20-yard line in the opening period, but were held by an intercepted forward. It was their greatest threat at the Jacket goal. The Teachers blocked a major punt and advanced the ball just inside the 20-yard line before an interception cost them their scoring opportunity at the opening of the fourth period.

Boyd performed well in the Jacket lineup with the entire club playing inspired football. The Majors' team play lacked cohesion and punch at critical moments.

PANTHERS HOLD MERCER TO TIE

Birmingham Southern Fights Desperately to Turn Back Bears

LEGION FIELD, BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Birmingham Southern's Panthers fought desperately for four periods here today to hold the vaunted Mercer passing attack in check at vital moments, and the game ended in a 0-0 tie.

Trommerhauser's passes kept the Panthers back in their own territory for the greater portion of the game but the Mercer eleven always lacked the final scoring punch.

Nine of the Mercer quarterbacks flips were completed, for total gains of 128 yards. Four others, however, were intercepted, each time ending a threat at the Birmingham-Southern goal. The Panthers failed to complete a pass and were outgained 12 first downs to 3.

In the second quarter Olsson, Mercer tackle, blocked a punt from Haygood and downed the ball back of the Panther goal, but the touchdown was lost when Mercer was offside on the play.

TORNADO TAKES EARLY LEAD TO TRIM PLAINSMEN

By Dillon Graham (Associated Press Sports Writer)

ATLANTA, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Auburn, co-champion of southern football last year, was blasted out of the Southeastern conference race in its first league game today by Georgia Tech, 16 to 6, although the Plainsmen outrushed the Engineers all the way.

Georgia Tech drove to an early touchdown, profited by an Auburn safety that repulsed a defensive contest to coast in, repulsing Auburn's late rally through the air.

The Golden Tornado's second touchdown came on a 50-yard run after a short pass, with Auburn scoring its only tally early in the fourth period.

Except in the first period, Auburn forced the play, outgaining the Tornado and threatening seriously on three occasions only to have their bid halted every time by an intercepted forward pass. Auburn gained 271 yards to Tech's 147 and made 19 first downs to 5 for the Tornado.

The Plainsmen completed 13 passes out of 20 for a total of more than a hundred yards.

The defeat was Auburn's first in 13 contests, since the closing engagement in the 1931 season. Auburn showed real power in midfield but neither its running attack nor its passes could function successfully within the shadow of Tech's goal.

Tech's first touchdown early in the opening period climaxed a 60-yard advance. The Tornado drove from its 40 to Auburn's 17. Here Griffith's pass to Slocum was interfered with by Kimbrell, Auburn halfback, and it was Tech's ball on the one-yard line. Phillips plunged over and E. Wilcox booted the extra point.

Shortly afterwards, with Auburn on its own 10-yard line after taking a Tech punt, Kimbrell fumbled a ball pass from center and fell on the ball on the goal line for a safety and two points for the Tornado.

Auburn marched 65 yards at the start of the second period, with Phillips and Rogers doing most of the running, and was aided by a 15-yard penalty against Tech, but the move was stopped when Rogers was halted on the six-yard line. The Plainsmen drove down again but Phillips made a one-handed spectacular interception of Phillips' pass and ran 50 yards to Auburn's 33. Tech's success was shortlived for Airlair immediately snatched one of Phillips' tosses. Here Auburn opened its own bag of aerial tricks and passed quickly took the Plainsmen to Tech's 20, where again a pass interception, this time by Spradling, broke up the touchdown threat.

Interpassing passes with short runs by Phipps and Rogers, Auburn advanced into Tech's ground at the opening of the third period only to have Pool, Tech center, grab a pass thrown by Rogers and meant for Phipps.

Tech's final score came at this stage when Phillips, fading back to pass, was rushed and almost caught by Auburn's forwards. Just before the Plainsmen were on him Phillips let go a short heave to Roberts, who whirled, cut past two Auburn tacklers shifted to the left to elude other Auburn men, and ran 50 yards across the goal. E. Wilcox again kicked goal.

Auburn finally capitalized one of its marches after the kickoff, going all the way down field late in the third period, with Talley plunging across on the first play of the last quarter. Passes again played a large part in the forward movement.

Auburn resorted almost wholly to its aerial game in an effort to score again in the closing minutes and carried by its 35 to Tech's 17, where two passes were incomplete and the ball went over, shortly before the final whistle.

Lineups: Auburn Pos. Georgia Tech Fenton LE..... Slocum McCollum LT..... Tharpes Wood LG..... D. Wilcox Chritesthew C..... Shaw Chambliss RG..... J. Wilcox Holmes RT..... Williams Airlair RE..... Gibson Williams RB..... Roberts Kimbrell QB..... Martin Rogers RH..... Davis Dupre FB..... Phillips

Favored Teams Come Through Generally Throughout Nation

(By Associated Press)

The Wolverines of Michigan and the Panthers of Pittsburgh turned on the football heat yesterday and served notice on all rivals that they again will be among the contenders for the mythical national championship.

On a day conspicuous for its lack of the upsets the gridiron world has come to depend upon, Michigan uncovered an amazing attack that sent "Gloomy Gil" Dobie's astonished Cornell eleven down to a 40-0 battering.

Outplayed in the first quarter, Pitt suddenly found its offense clicking and crushed Navy under a 34-6 score that revealed the Panther has lost little of its power through the graduation of the great halfback, Warren Heller. Both Michigan and Pitt were favored from the start, but few among even their most ardent supporters expected triumph by such tremendous margins.

All down the line it was the scores, rather than the results, that surprised although Tennessee's 10-2 defeat at the hands of Duke's Blue Devils was hardly expected.

Southern California, Colgate, Nebraska and all of the east's score of major eleven registered victories but the margin in many instances was much closer than had been anticipated.

Northwestern, beaten by Iowa two weeks ago, came back with a bang to hold Stanford's highly regarded Cardinals to a scoreless draw while Ohio State, contributing to a smashing day for the Midwest, turned back Vanderbilt, 20-0.

Notre Dame, rallying after its scoreless draw with Kansas a week ago, outpointed Indiana, 12-2, but the Ramblers' performance still fell far short of expectations. Purdue came from behind to tie Minnesota's Gophers, 7-7 while Illinois, in the only other Big Ten conference game of the day, whipped Wisconsin in surprising fashion, 21-0.

In the Big Six, Nebraska defeated Iowa State, 20-0 while Kansas State swamped Missouri, 33-0.

White Runs 30 Yards For Touchdown Early In First Period

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The University of Mississippi football team unleashed two brilliant runs in the first period to score a touchdown and defeat Marquette university 7 to 0 in an intersectional contest, 7 to 0.

To start the game, Mississippi maneuvered into Marquette territory when Montgomery recovered a fumble on the Marquette 33-yard line, but failed to make downs. Caster, substitute at quarterback, punted to the Marquette five-yard line. Caster made a brilliant, twisting 40-yard return of Becker's punt, taking the ball to the Marquette 30-yard line. White circled his left and for 30 yards and a touchdown. Richardson place kicked for the extra point.

Marquette threatened three times in the second period, but was turned back each time. Neubauer passed over the line of scrimmage to Plew, who raced 46 yards to the Mississippi 10-yard line. Mississippi held. Britt broke up the second drive by intercepting a pass on his 29-yard line. A little later, Neubauer began heaving passes which took the ball to the six-yard line. Mississippi held.

Play in the first minutes of the third period was marked by intercepted passes, each team snaring two. Hutson grabbed a Marquette aerial on the next play. Halfback seized a Mississippi pass and went to the Mississippi 45. After a punting exchange, Mississippi marched to the Marquette 13, but Marquette regained the ball on its own 20 when Liska recovered a forward, lateral pass as the period ended.

Mississippi threatened when Britt recovered Scanlon's fumble on the Marquette 20-yard line early in the fourth period but passes failed. Becker punted 80 yards to the Mississippi goal. Another of Becker's punts went only 10 yards, but Mississippi was held on the Marquette 30. Young, with sub half, gave Marquette fans a thrill with a 38-yard run, but nothing came of it. Mississippi had the ball when the game ended. Score: Mississippi 7, Marquette 0.

San Antone Looks Forward To Centenary-Aggie Game

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 14.—(AP)—San Antonio, who turned out 6,000 football fans to see the Texas Aggies play Texas A. and I. here last night, now looks forward to the Texas-Centenary game, to be played on the same field here next Saturday afternoon.

Both Texas and Centenary will have excursion rates to San Antonio and both teams will bring bands. Advance ticket sales today were estimated at about 3,000. With the Aggie game out of the way, further ticket business is expected to pick up materially Monday and Tuesday. A full house of 10,000 is expected.

Texas and Centenary have each won one and lost one, and played a draw, in the past three years.

The presidents of the two colleges will be in attendance.

ALABAMA TRIMS MAROONS, 18 TO 9

Converted Fullback Leads Crimson Tide to Victory Over State

DENNY FIELD, UNIVERSITY OF ALA., Oct. 14.—(AP)—A converted fullback, Frank Moseley, furnished the spark today that touched off Alabama's drive to an 18 to 9 victory over a stubborn Mississippi eleven.

Moseley entering the game as a fullback for the first time in his college career, furnished the power set off a touchdown drive in the second period, after the Mississippi had outplayed the Tide through the opening quarter.

The Maroons threw a sudden squall into Alabama with two quick touchdowns after the Crimson had fouled the Mississippi's defense hold solidly.

That, however, was the last Alabama bid until late in the fourth period, when Captain Herrington, won a series of cleverly executed passes drove his team to the Alabama 40-yard line only to meet a stone wall there.

Moseley touched off the first Alabama offensive with a 17-yard scamper off tackle.

It was the first time Alabama scored a first down. Moseley, a Chappell made another, with Chappell racing off left tackle for 12 and the Millard Howell sprinted 21 around right end. Chappell and Moseley made first downs on the 2-yard line. Moseley took it over to complete, 71 yard march. His kick from placement was blocked.

In the third period after the Mississippi had kicked to Alabama's Howell skittered right end for 17 on fake kick to start a 68 yard drive, went over for the touchdown on a yard dash. Gandy's kick from placement was blocked.

A short kick placed Alabama in scoring position in the fourth period when they took the ball on the 10-yard line, and drove to touchdown on off-tackle smash for short end runs. Moseley went final foot for the touchdown but kick for the extra point was again blocked.

Alabama registered 13 first downs and Mississippi State seven with 6. Crimsons gaining 220 yards from scrimmage to the Maroons' 69.

Winning Team Expected At Wisner High School

WISNER, Oct. 14.—(Special)—Wisner closes the second week of hard work Coaches Peel and Faulk are proud of the prospects for a winning eleven this season. The Bulldogs won no doubt make it hot for most teams in class "B" football this year.

For the first time in several years the Bulldogs have plenty of football material, some already developed and some to be developed shortly. With a letterman back in the harness and recruits the chances for winning are good.

The team that goes on the field Friday against Grayson will resemble the team of the Bulldogs that stood in Rayville's way for the class "B" championship several years ago as will deal Talullah plenty of misery this year should they meet in the playoffs.

With O. Wells, C. Chapman, Wells and Peters, veterans in the line and Robertson a new man working up well in the line and W. Chapman, Brown and Walker doing splendid work in the backfield

Ferocious Turks Slew 65 of His Own Kindred

M. George Daniel Will Describe Atrocities in Near East

ASSYRIAN TO SPEAK

M. GEORGE DANIEL

M. George Daniel, first Assyrian student ever to be awarded a degree from the Southern Methodist university in Dallas, will talk of the native land of his parents, at the 11 o'clock service this morning at the First Methodist church. At the evening service, he is to talk at the First Presbyterian church.

He will tell of the destruction that has been visited upon his people, of whom there were 500,000 in 1915, at the time of the World war. Today there are barely 40,000 left. Sixty-five of his relatives have been murdered by the Turks, he says.

Daniel is but 25 years of age and received his degree only last August. He hopes to return as a missionary to Palestine.

He was born in America, of Assyrian parentage, but lived in the near east only a few years—from the time he was two years old until eight years of age. His people are members of the Nestorian church, one of the oldest Christian institutions in the world. His father is a minister in Philadelphia, Pa.

Differences in the religion of the Mohammedans and the Assyrians have been responsible for the relentless warfare, he said, and horrors untold have been perpetrated in the 20th century.

"The Turks are terrible, but not nearly as bad as the Kurds," said Daniel. "The Kurds are very illiterate and ferocious. They have no written language. Half of them are nomads. They are largely professional robbers, murderers and thieves but they excel as fighters."

"We lived in Chabash, in northern Mesopotamia. My father was pastor of a Nestorian church there. Once I was away for two weeks in an American mission hospital, ill from measles. 'I returned to find our home destroyed, my grandparents and three brothers killed, their bodies stretched out on the ground. The Turks and Kurds had killed them."

"The same murderers once forced 450 people into my father's church and set it on fire. They burned the people alive. Those who attempted to run from the blazing building were shot. The Moslems have killed 3,500,000 Christians in my country since the World war."

"My own uncle was captured by the Mohammedans and was given three chances to renounce Christianity. When he refused the first time, he was forced to see his six children shot down by soldiers. The second time, his wife was killed by a firing squad as he looked on. Upon his third refusal to renounce his faith, he was nailed to a tree and his body riddled with bullets."

Girls who were captured, Daniel said, were sold among the enemy as cheaply as $1 each.

"During the World war, we often went several days without food. At one time bread sold as high as $10 a pound."

"The Turks of Constantinople and vicinity are more intelligent and less ferocious than the Turks and Kurds of the provinces," he said. He believes the Turks will in time be civilized.

Doubt that Kemal Pasha's order forbidding young Turks to have harems will work out, was expressed by the young Assyrian.

Daniel speaks several languages—Assyrian, Turkish, Arabic, Russian, Spanish and English. He is a member of Delta Sigma Phi fraternity at S. M. U.

STATE NORMAL TO OBSERVE FOUNDING

NATCHITOCHES, La., Oct. 14.—(Special).—Tentative plans for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the act of the legislature establishing the Louisiana State Normal school here were formulated this week at an informal meeting of 33 faculty members, heads of student organizations, and Natchitoches city officials composing a group called together to discuss the affair by a committee appointed by President W. W. Tison.

Plans for the golden jubilee of the college include a two-day celebration during the week prior to commencement. The gala affair will probably get under way one afternoon during the latter part of May, with the center of activities around the historic portion of the campus where the "Auld Lang Syne" theme will predominate.

"The morning of the second day, according to the tentative program, will be taken up with general group gatherings. These gatherings may embrace educational and inspirational speeches with reunions of clubs, societies, and classes. In the afternoon a pageant depicting the past and the future of the college is planned. It was suggested that the climax of the semi-centennial celebration be a Seiree on the evening of the second day of the affair.

It is planned to have housing, programs, alumni, hospitality, publicity, arrangements, and history committees to work out definite plans for the celebration. Members of these committees will be chosen from the faculty, alumni, normal student body, and citizens of Natchitoches at an early date by a committee appointed by President Tison, who is general chairman of the celebration.

Barber Receives Reply From Roosevelt's Aide

J. L. Evans, local barber, who sent to the president a highly polished hunter's horn from a Texas long-horned steer, on which was fashioned by Mr. Evans an NRA emblem, has received a letter of thanks from the secretary of the nation's chief executive.

The letter ran as follows: "My dear Mr. Evans: 'The president is in receipt of your letter of September 29, and has noted with interest all that you say. He is delighted to accept the hunter's horn which you were good enough to send him and deeply appreciates the spirit which prompted your act."

"While the president's official duties will not permit him to accept your kind invitation to hunt bear and deer this winter, he is indeed grateful for your thought of him in this connection."

Shreveport Paper Scores Long's Political "Tax Relief" Program

SHREVEPORT, Oct. 14.—(Special).—The Shreveport Times in its issue this morning publishes the following editorial, entitled "Real Versus Political Tax Relief":

A special session of the Louisiana legislature limited to consideration of administration measures would be the most hazardous investment ever made by a distressed and oppressed people. To permit the state administration, which has been faithless to every fiduciary trust, to control in this way the issue of tax reform, would be to deliberately abandon hope of relief and to surrender principle. More: it would be financial suicide.

Let the members of the Louisiana legislature ponder well their plain duty to the people in the present crisis. Swollen delinquent tax lists in every parish and the individual suffering resulting from inability to pay taxes, plead eloquently for honest, sincere, effective and permanent tax relief in Louisiana. The senator or representative who fails to assist in providing this relief is false to his oath of office and betrays the highest interests of his people.

The time has come in Louisiana for a little plain speaking. For over five years the overburdened taxpayers have watched helplessly and, it must be confessed, more or less indifferently, their interests made an instrument of political barter at Baton Rouge. In the political dickers and trades which have marked the Long-Allen regime from the beginning, the real welfare of the people has constituted so small a consideration as to be practically negligible.

Money has been poured into the lap of the state administration for every conceivable purpose. There seemed to be no limit either to the demand or to public responsiveness. Much of this money was dissipated in excessive cost of public works; a large share of it was invested in building up a state machine; the use of some of it may be put down to family solicitude in high places, dresses and parasites got their portion. But many hundreds of thousands appear to have been dropped into a bottomless pit created by woeful lack of business management. How else are we to interpret the undisputed fact that millions have been collected for the schools which they have not received?

But public tolerance or acquiescence in maladministration at Baton Rouge has come to an abrupt end, in our opinion. Intelligent publicity has disclosed the danger signal and accumulated suffering aroused the public mind to a realization of its position. The tax load has been added to so steadily and with such utter disregard of ability of the people to pay, that the limit of endurance has been reached.

The clamor for tax relief in Louisiana is very real. If it is not given, not politically afforded, but honestly and sincerely given, those who stand in the way of this consummation will suffer. Plunged into a perfect morass of tax misery, the people demand to be led out by men with an earnest purpose to ease their burdens. And whom should they follow: sincere patriots who by their records have established a strong claim to public confidence, or suspiciously converted politicians striving to retain or add to their political strength?

Members of the Louisiana legislature should know that there are two ways to adjust this vital and pressing tax problem: one patriotically, one politically. Under the former plan, no man's political position is a matter of moment, under the latter the political standing of a few men is made the first consideration. The patriotic way spells release, extrication, deliverance; the political way spells recourse to a leadership which has failed, larger waste and more expensive government, without providing the relief which is so vital to public peace and happiness.

The 12-point program of the Alexandria legislative conference carries a promise of tax relief plus; the political dish of tax relief offered by the senior United States senator contains suspicious ingredients and is badly sponsored. There is no limit to the tax reform which may be had under the Alexandria plan; there is a very distinct limit to the amount we may get under the Long plan. The 12-point proposition suggests a real budgetary plan for the state and specific reduction of government cost; the Long scheme says nothing whatever about these important phases of tax reform. The Alexandria plan promises relief to harassed oil severance taxpayers; the Long proposal ignores them. Relief for motor license payers is a hope of those who are urging the 12-point plan; Mr. Long promises nothing along this line.

In brief, the members of the legislature have a choice between real and counterfeit tax relief. They may join the honest and incorruptible leaders of public thought, or they may elect to follow the politicians. They may stand out as champions of the public interest, or exhibit themselves as political lackeys and servitors. They may place the public first, or themselves first. The choice is exclusively with them.

But there is this to consider: those who elect to follow an open enemy of tax relief, suddenly won to championship of a cause which he sought diligently to destroy, must accept the consequences of that alignment. If it spell disaster, they will be inevitably involved in it. More tax money for distribution at Baton Rouge means more money for political waste and mismanagement. We should hate to be the legislator, or legislators, responsible for that.

Girl Is Injured by Automobile Saturday

Dorothy Williams, aged 5, daughter of W. R. Williams, was struck and knocked down by an automobile near the Claiborne school shortly before 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

An ambulance was summoned and she was rushed to St. Francis sanitarium, where it was found that she had sustained a bad laceration of the head and face, injuries to the left arm and to the back.

An X-ray picture failed to show any fractured bones but the child is being kept at the hospital for several days for observation.

Mr. Williams said the car which struck the child was driven by a man named Richardson, living in Crowley.

Compensation Given To Amanda Williams

Compensation of $1,000 was awarded to Amanda Williams and her two minor children, Velma Garner, 13, and Alex Garner, 11, from F. Strauss and Son, Inc., in a joint petition and judgment filed Saturday in district court. The settlement was made in connection with the death of the woman's husband.

In the petition the plaintiff said her husband was killed September 24, 1933, when he fell from a truck owned and operated by F. Strauss and Son, Inc. The accident occurred one mile west of Crew Lake, on the Dixie-Overland highway, in Richland parish. It was stated that Williams was earning $13 a week and that under the state compensation law his beneficiaries were entitled to receive $3.45 a week for a period of 500 weeks. The defendant firm admitted that Williams was killed when he fell from a truck owned by it, but denied his death grew out of his occupational duties.

STATE NORMAL TO OBSERVE FOUNDRING

NATCHITOCHEs, La., Oct. 14.—(Special).—Tentative plans for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the act of the legislature establishing the Louisiana State Normal school here were formulated this week at an informal meeting of 33 faculty members, heads of student organizations, and Natchitoches city officials composing a group called together to discuss the affair by a committee appointed by President W. W. Tison.

Plans for the golden jubilee of the college include a two-day celebration during the week prior to commencement. The gala affair will probably get under way one afternoon during the latter part of May, with the center of activities around the historic portion of the campus where the "Auld Lang Syne" theme will predominate.

The morning of the second day, according to the tentative program, will be taken up with general group gatherings. These gatherings may embrace educational and inspirational speeches with reunions of clubs, societies, and classes. In the afternoon a pageant depicting the past and the future of the college is planned. It was suggested that the climax of the semi-centennial celebration be at Seneo on the evening of the second day of the affair.

It is planned to have housing, program, alumni, hospitality, publicity, arrangements, and history committees to work out definite plans for the celebration. Members of these committees will be chosen from the faculty, alumni, normal student body, and citizens of Natchitoches at an early date by a committee appointed by President Tison, who is general chairman of the celebration.

Barber Receives Reply From Roosevelt's Aide

J. L. Evans, local barber, who sent to the president a highly polished hunter's horn from a Texas long-horned steer, on which was fashioned by Mr. Evans an NRA emblem, has received a letter of thanks from the secretary of the nation's chief executive.

The letter ran as follows: "My dear Mr. Evans: The president is in receipt of your letter of September 23, and has noted with interest all that you say. He is delighted to accept the hunter's horn which you were good enough to send him and deeply appreciates the spirit which prompted your act."

"While the president's official duties will not permit him to accept your kind invitation to hunt bear and deer this winter, he is indeed grateful for your thought of him in this connection."

Shreveport Paper Scores Long's Political "Tax Relief" Program

SHREVEPORT, Oct. 14.—(Special).—The Shreveport Times in its issue this morning publishes the following editorial, entitled "Real Versus Political Tax Relief":

A special session of the Louisiana legislature limited to consideration of administration measures would be the most hazardous investment ever made by a distressed and oppressed people. To permit the state administration, which has been faithless to every fiduciary trust, to control in this way the issue of tax reform, would be to deliberately abandon hope of relief and to surrender principle. More; it would be financial suicide.

Let the members of the Louisiana legislature ponder well their plain duty to the people in the present crisis. Swollen delinquent tax lists in every parish and the individual suffering resulting from inability to pay taxes, plead eloquently for honest, sincere, effective and permanent tax relief in Louisiana. The senator or representative who fails to assist in providing this relief is false to his oath of office and betrays the highest interests of his people.

The time has come in Louisiana for a little plain speaking. For over five years the overburdened taxpayers have watched helplessly and, it must be confessed, more or less indifferently, their interests made an instrument of political barter at Baton Rouge. In the political dickers and trades which have marked the Long-Allen regime from the beginning, the real welfare of the people has constituted so small a consideration as to be practically negligible.

Money has been poured into the lap of the state administration for every conceivable purpose. There seemed to be no limit either to the demand or to public responsiveness. Much of this money was dissipated in excessive cost of public works; a large share of it was invested in building up a state machine; the use of some of it may be put down to family solicitude in high places; drones and parasites got their portion. But many hundreds of thousands appear to have been dropped into a bottomless pit created by woeful lack of business management. How else are we to interpret the undisputed fact that millions have been collected for the schools which they have not received?

But public tolerance or acquiescence in maladministration at Baton Rouge has come to an abrupt end, in our opinion. Intelligent publicity has disclosed the danger signal and accented, suffering aroused the public mind to a realization of its position. The tax load has been added to so steadily and with such utter disregard of ability of the people to pay, that the limit of endurance has been reached.

The clamor for tax relief in Louisiana is very real. If it is not given, (not politically afforded, but honestly and sincerely given), those who stand in the way of this consummation will suffer. Plunged into a perfect morass of tax misery, the people demand to be led out by men with an earnest purpose to ease their burdens. And whom should they follow: sincere patriots who by their records have established a strong claim to public confidence, or suspiciously-converted politicians striving to retain or add to their political strength?

Members of the Louisiana legislature should know that there are two ways to adjust this vital and pressing tax problem—one patriotically, one politically. Under the former plan, no man's political position is a matter of moment, under the latter the political standing of a few men is made the first consideration. The patriotic way spells release, extrication, deliverance; the political way spells recourse to a leadership which has failed, larger waste and more expensive government, without providing the relief which is so vital to public peace and happiness.

The 12-point program of the Alexandria legislative conference carries a promise of tax relief plus; the political dish of tax relief offered by the senior United States senator contains suspicious ingredients and is badly sponsored. There is no limit to the tax reform which may be had under the Alexandria plan; there is a very distinct limit to the amount we may get under the Long plan. The 12-point proposition suggests a real budgetary plan for the state and specific reduction of government cost; the Long scheme says nothing whatever about these important phases of tax reform. The Alexandria plan promises relief to harassed oil severance taxpayers; the Long proposal ignores them. Relief for motor license payers is a hope of those who are urging the 12-point plan; Mr. Long promises nothing along this line.

In brief, the members of the legislature have a choice between real and counterfeit tax relief. They may join the honest and incorruptible leaders of public thought, or they may elect to follow the politicians. They may stand out as champions of the public interest, or exhibit themselves as political lackeys and servitors. They may place the public first, or themselves first. The choice is exclusively with them.

But there is this to consider: those who elect to follow an open enemy of tax relief, suddenly won to championship of a cause which he sought diligently to destroy, must accept the consequences of that alignment. If it spell disaster, they will be inevitably involved in it. More tax money for distribution at Baton Rouge means more money for political waste and mismanagement. We should hate to be the legislator, or legislators, responsible for that.

Girl Is Injured by Automobile Saturday

Dorothy Williams, aged 5, daughter of W. R. Williams, was struck and knocked down by an automobile near the Claiborne school shortly before 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

An ambulance was summoned and she was rushed to St. Francis sanitarium, where it was found that she had sustained a bad laceration of the head and face, injuries to the left arm and to the back.

An X-ray picture failed to show any fractured bones but the child is being kept at the hospital for several days for observation.

Mr. Williams said the car which struck the child was driven by a man named Richardson, living in Crowley.

Compensation Given To Amanda Williams

Compensation of $1,000 was awarded to Amanda Williams and her two minor children, Velma Garner, 13, and Alex Garner, 11, from F. Strauss and Son, Inc., in a joint petition and judgment filed Saturday in district court. The settlement was made in connection with the death of the woman's husband.

In the petition the plaintiff said her husband was killed September 24, 1933, when he fell from a truck owned and operated by F. Strauss and Son, Inc. The accident occurred one mile west of Crew Lake, on the Dixie-Overland highway, in Richland parish. It was stated that Williams was earning $13 a week and that under the state compensation law his beneficiaries were entitled to receive $8.45 a week for a period of 300 weeks. The defendant firm admitted that Williams was killed when he fell from a truck owned by it, but denied his death grew out of his occupational duties.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

The Story Of New France—Part I

By J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

WHILE THE ENGLISH WERE TRYING TO GET A FOOTHOLD ON THE ATLANTIC SEABOARD, THE FRENCH WERE LAYING THE FOUNDATIONS OF A GREAT COLONIAL EMPIRE IN THE ST. LAWRENCE VALLEY.

AFTER THE VOYAGE OF VERRAZANO IN 1524 FRENCH INTEREST IN AMERICA HAD BEEN DISTRACTED BY WARS IN EUROPE.

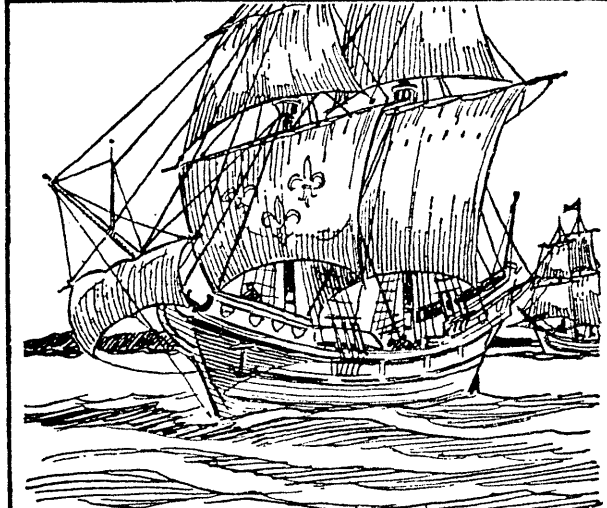

TEN YEARS PASSED. THEN, IN 1534, CHABOT, ADMIRAL OF FRANCE AND FAVORITE OF THE KING, PERSUADED FRANCIS I TO SEND OTHER EXPLORERS ALONG THE TRAIL VERRAZANO HAD BLAZED.

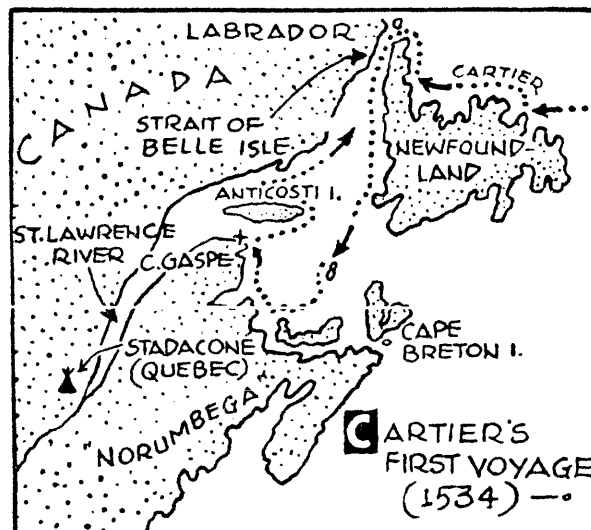

CHABOT FOUND THE MAN FOR THE JOB IN JACQUES CARTIER FOREMOST OF THE DARING SKIPPERS OF THE OLD SEAPORT TOWN OF ST. MALO, IN BRITTANY.

CARTIER WAS WELL FITTED TO COMMAND SUCH A VENTURE. HE WAS A SKILFUL NAVIGATOR AND MADE CHARTS FAMOUS FOR THEIR ACCURACY. HE HAD ALREADY CROSSED THE ATLANTIC ON A VOYAGE TO BRAZIL.

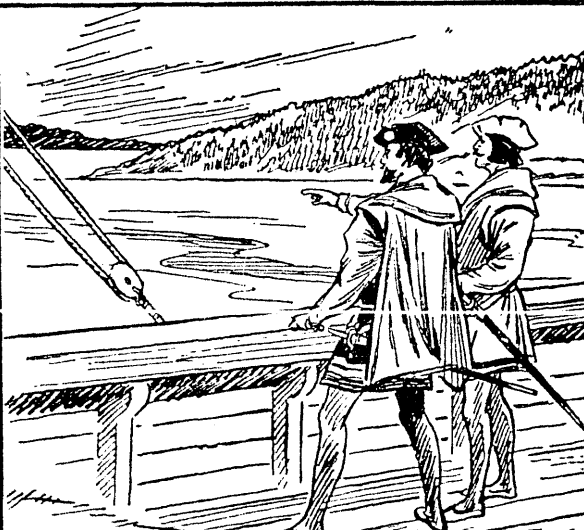

CARTIER WAS COMMISSIONED TO SEARCH FOR A NORTHWEST PASSAGE TO THE ORIENT. ON APRIL 20, 1534, HE SAILED WEST FROM ST. MALO WITH TWO SMALL SHIPS AND SIXTY MEN

AFTER SAILING FOR MANY DAYS CARTIER STRUCK THE COAST OF NEWFOUNDLAND, THREADING THE NARROW STRAIT OF BELLE ISLE, HE ENTERED THE GULF OF ST. LAWRENCE.

ON JULY 24, 1534, CARTIER LANDED ON CAPE GASPÉ. HERE HE ERECTED A HUGE CROSS AND CLAIMED THE LAND FOR FRANCE, WHILE THE NEIGHBORING INDIANS LOOKED ON IN AWE AND WONDERMENT.

SAILING AROUND ANTICOSTI ISLAND, CARTIER BEHELD THE MOUTH OF A MIGHTY RIVER (THE ST. LAWRENCE), WHICH HE HOPED WOULD PROVE TO BE A STRAIT LEADING TO THE PACIFIC. —

CARTIER WOULD HAVE EXPLORED THE RIVER, BUT THE SEASON OF STORMS WAS CLOSE AT HAND. AFTER A COUNCIL WITH HIS OFFICERS HE DECIDED TO TURN BACK TO FRANCE.

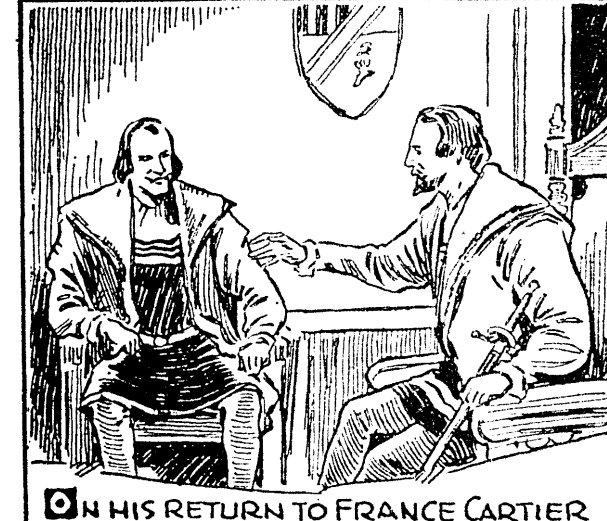

AS CARTIER WAS ABOUT TO SAIL FOR FRANCE THE LOCAL INDIAN "KING" VISITED HIM WITH HIS TWO YOUNG SONS. CARTIER TOLD THE CHIEF HE WOULD RETURN SOON BRINGING MANY GIFTS.

WHEN THE FRENCHMAN INSISTED ON TAKING THE CHIEF'S SONS TO FRANCE WITH HIM TO BE EDUCATED. THE CHIEF PROTESTED, BUT WAS FORCED TO LET THEM GO. CARTIER'S OBJECT WAS TO TRAIN THE BOYS TO SERVE AS INTERPRETERS.

TO SOOTHE AND CHEER THE FRIGHTENED INDIAN BOYS CARTIER CLOTHED THEM IN GAY CAPS AND BRIGHT COATS WITH MANY GAUDY ORNAMENTS.

ON HIS RETURN TO FRANCE CARTIER REPORTED THAT HE BELIEVED A PASSAGE TO CATHAY COULD BE FOUND. CHABOT WAS PLEASED, AND AUTHORIZED CARTIER TO RAISE A SECOND AND LARGER EXPEDITION.

NEW FUR COATS FOR DRESS AND SPORTS WEAR

FASHIONS are said to reflect the times—and this certainly seems true of the clothes offered for this Fall and Winter. Never in the history of the mode have so many interesting ideas been expressed. Elegance is the keynote that reigns supreme in clothes for the leisure hours.

Fabrics are luxurious and unusual and fur has never been used so lavishly. It seems to me that almost everyone is planning to include a fur coat in the Winter wardrobe. It may be a sports coat or a dressy model, but it will reflect the Edwardian influence of the season. Some of the season's smartest fur wraps are sketched on this page and you will find them described fully in the captions.

If you're one of those who prefer a cloth coat to one of fur, you will find a wide variety of lovely garments to choose from. The new cloth coats fit smoothly around the hips. In many cases buttons are entirely eliminated and the coats are fastened with huge hidden snaps. Some models feature a new dropped shoulder line in contrast to the over-work emphasized shoulder. These are often finished with a medium-sized collar furred on the under side and worn buttoned up around the chin.

Some of the newest accessories are also sketched today. Little things count for a lot when it comes to looking really well-dressed. If you're sallying forth in a fur sports coat this Winter, you'll be really chic if you pull on one of the new brimmed sports hats that swoop slightly over the right eye.

Gloves are elegant, too, with intricate rows of stitching. Many of the new suede pull-ons have wool cuffs.

You may go as far as you like in femininity this season. Dress yourself up, if your ensemble needs a touch of color, with an artificial rose, or an iris tinted to harmonize with your costume. Be sure, however, that these flowers are realistic enough to fool even the fanatic gardener. Jewels are coming out of their hiding places again and will glitter on necks and hands.

Your shoes to be very up-to-date should follow the basic note of your ensemble.

THE DRESSY COAT

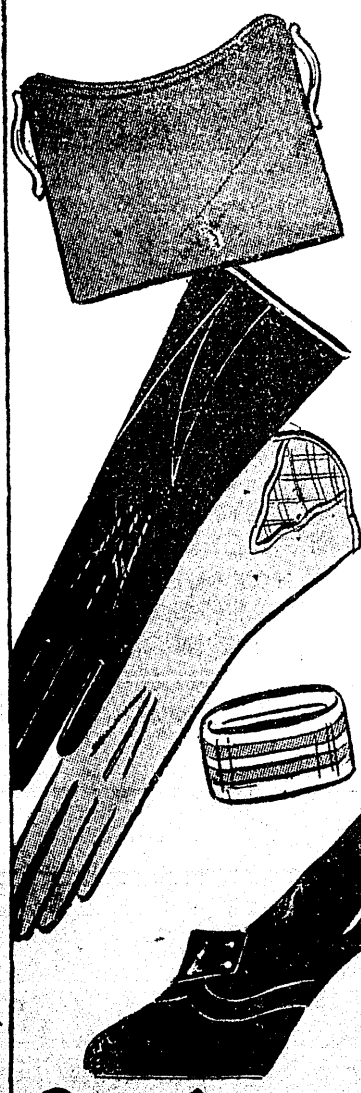

ABOVE, at the left, a luxurious Russian broadtail coat boasts a detachable sable capelet. The wrap is full length and shows the slim, semi-fitted silhouette. Interesting and unusual is the seven-eighths-length caracul wrap at the upper right. Cut on swagger lines, it has a high draped collar and huge silver fox cuffs that serve as a muff. The collar is held in place by bands of grosgrain ribbon. Mink, that lovely old favorite, is used to make the luxurious coat in the center. Note the flared Ascot scarf, the sleeves, and the full-length box silhouette.

FOR SPORTING MOOD

YOUTHFUL and flattering in line is the short swagger leopard coat sketched at the right. It features a small stand-up collar, deep slashed pockets and a dropped shoulder line. The sleeves are full and square. The Persian lamb coat, in the center, may also be used for semi-formal wear. It, too, is the seven-eighths length. The waistline is semi-fitted and there is a narrow rolled collar. Puffs embellish the sleeves above the elbow, and a white satin Ascot tie adds a dressy note. Very sporty, indeed, is the grey kidskin coat in the last sketch. Its Ascot collar is gaily lined with red plaid. The sleeves flare below the elbow and a new tucked shoulder treatment is used. The grey is new and is called by two names—either eel or metal.

ACCESSORIES

WHAT I am doing in New Haven, on the day of a very large football game between the Harvards and the Yales is something which calls for quite a little explanation, because I am not such a guy as you will expect to find in New Haven at any time, and especially on the day of a large football game.

But there I am, and the reason I am there goes back to a Friday night when I am sitting in Mindy's restaurant on Broadway thinking of very little except how I can get hold of a few potatoes to take care of the old overhead. And while I am sitting there, who comes in but Sam the Gonoph, who is a ticket speculator by trade, and who seems to be looking all around and about.

Well, Sam the Gonoph gets to talking to me, and it turns out that he is looking for a guy by the name of Gigolo Georgie, who is called Gigolo Georgie because he is always hanging around night clubs wearing a little mustache and white spats, and dancing with old dolls. In fact, Gigolo Georgie is nothing but a gentleman bum, and I am surprised that Sam the Gonoph is looking for him.

But it seems that the reason Sam the Gonoph wishes to find Gigolo Georgie is to give him a good punch in the snout, because it seems that Gigolo Georgie promotes Sam for several duckets to the large football game between the Harvards and the Yales to sell on commission, and never kicks back anything whatever to Sam. Naturally Sam considers Gigolo Georgie nothing but a rascal for doing such a thing to him, and Sam says he will find Gigolo Georgie and give him a going-over if it is the last act of his life.

Well, then Sam explains to me that he has quite a few nice duckets for the large football game between the Harvards and the Yales and that he is taking a crew of guys with him to New Haven the next day to hustle these duckets, and what about me going along and helping to hustle these duckets and making a few bobs for myself, which is an invitation that sounds very pleasant to me, indeed.

Now of course it is very difficult for anybody to get nice duckets to a large football game between the Harvards and the Yales unless they are personally college guys, and Sam the Gonoph is by no means a college guy. In fact, the nearest Sam ever comes to a college is once when he is passing through the yard belonging to the Princetons, but Sam is on the fly at the time as a gendarme is after him, so he does not really see much of the college.

But every college guy is entitled to duckets to a large football game with which his college is connected, and it is really surprising how many college guys do not care to see large football games even after they get their duckets, especially if a ticket spec such as Sam the Gonoph comes along offering them a few bobs more than the duckets are worth. I suppose this is because a college guy figures he can see a large football game when he is old, while many things are taking place around and about that it is necessary for him to see while he is young enough to really enjoy them, such as the Polies.

ANYWAY, many college guys are always willing to listen to reason when Sam the Gonoph comes around offering to buy their duckets, and then Sam takes these duckets and sells them to customers for maybe ten times the price the duckets call for, and in this way Sam does very good for himself.

I know Sam the Gonoph for maybe twenty years, and always he is speculating in duckets of one kind and another. Sometimes it is duckets for the world's series, and sometimes it is duckets for nothing but lawn-tennis games, although why anybody wishes to see such a thing as lawn-tennis is always a very great mystery to Sam the Gonoph and everybody else.

But in all those years I see Sam dodging around under the feet of the crowds at these large events, or running through the special trains offering to buy or sell duckets, I never hear of Sam actually attending any of these events, or a fight, for Sam has no interest in any of them, but a little profit on his speculations.

He is a short, chunky, black-skinned guy with a big beeper, and he is always sweating even on a cold day, and he comes from down around Essex Street, on the lower East Side. Moreover, Sam the Gonoph's crew generally comes from the lower East Side, too, for as Sam goes along he makes plenty of potatoes for himself and branches out quite some, and has a lot of assistants hustling duckets around these different events.

When Sam is younger, the cops consider him hard to get along with, and in fact his monicker, the Gonoph, comes from his young days down on the lower East Side, and I hear it is Yiddish for thief, but of course as Sam gets older and starts gathering plenty of potatoes, he will not think of stealing anything. At least not much, and especially if it is anything that is nailed down.

WELL, anyway, I meet Sam the Gonoph and his crew at the information desk in the Grand Central the next morning, and this is how I came to be in New Haven on the day of the large football game between the Harvards and the Yales.

For such a game as this, Sam has all his best hustlers, including such as Jew Louie, Nubby Taylor, Benny South Street and old Liverlips, and to look at these parties you will never suspect that they are top-notch ducket hustlers.

Now while we are hustling these duckets out around the main-gates of the Yale Bowl I notice a very beautiful little doll of maybe sixteen or seventeen standing around watching the crowd, and I can see she is waiting for somebody, as many dolls often do at football games. But I can also see that this little doll is very much worried as the crowd keeps going in, and it is getting on toward game time. In fact, by and by I can see this little doll has tears in her eyes and if there is anything I hate to see it is tears in a doll's eyes.

So finally I go over to her, and I say as follows:

"What is eating you, little Miss?"

"Oh," she says, "I am waiting for Elliot. He is to come up from New York and meet me here to take me to the game, but he is not here yet, and I am afraid something happens to him. Furthermore," she says, the tears in her eyes getting very large, indeed, "I am afraid I will miss the game because he has my ticket."

"Why," I say, "this is a very simple proposition. I will sell you a choice ducket for only a sawbuck, which is ten dollars in your language."

"But," she says, "I do not have ten dollars. In fact, I have only fifty cents left in my purse, and this is worrying me very much, for what will I do if Elliot does not meet me? You see," she says, "I come from Miss Peevy's school at Worcester, and I only have enough money to pay my railroad fare here, and of course I cannot ask Miss Peevy for any money as I do not wish her to know I am going away."

Well, naturally all this is commencing to sound to me like a hard-luck story such as any doll is apt to tell, so I go on about my business because I figure she will next be trying to put the lug on me for a ducket, or maybe for her railroad fare back to Worcester.

Well, by this time the crowd is nearly all in the Bowl, and only a few parties such as coppers and hustlers of one kind and another are left standing outside, and there is much cheering going on inside, when Sam the Gonoph comes up looking very much disgusted, and speaks as follows:

"What do you think?" Sam says. "I am left with seven duckets on my hands, and these guys around here will not pay as much as face value for them, and they stand me better than three bucks over that. Well," Sam says, "I am certainly not going to let them go for less than they call for if I have to eat them. What do you guys say we use these duckets ourselves and go in and see the game? Personally," Sam says, "I often wish to see one of these large football games just to find out what makes suckers willing to pay so much for duckets."

Well, this seems to strike one and all, including myself, so we start for the gate, and as we pass the little doll who is still crying, I say to Sam the Gonoph, like this:

"Listen, Sam," I say, "you have seven duckets, and we are only six, and here is a little doll who is stood up by her guy, and has no ducket, and no potatoes to buy one with, so what about taking her with us?"

Well, this is all right with Sam the Gonoph, and none of the others object, so I step up to the little doll and invite her to go with us, and right away she stops crying and begins smiling, and saying we are very kind indeed. She gives Sam the Gonoph an extra big smile, and right away Sam is saying she is very cute, indeed, and then she gives old Liverlips an even bigger smile, and what is more she takes old Liverlips by the arm and walks with him, and old Liverlips is not only very much astonished, but very much pleased. In fact, old Liverlips begins stepping out very spry, and Liverlips is not such a guy as cares to have any part of dolls, young or old.

But while walking with old Liverlips, the little doll talks very friendly to Jew Louie and to Nubby Taylor and Benny South Street, and even to me, and by and by you will think to see us that we are all her uncles, although of course if this little doll really knows who she is with, the chances are she will start chucking faints one after the other.

ANYBODY can see that she has very little experience in this wicked old world, and in fact is somewhat rattle-headed, because she gabs away very freely about her personal business. In fact, before we are in the Bowl she lets it out that she runs away from Miss Peevy's school to elope with this Elliot, and she says the idea is they are to be married in Hartford after the game. In fact, she says Elliot wishes to go to Hartford and be married before the game.

"But," she says, "my brother John is playing substitute with the Yales today, and I cannot think of getting married to anybody before I see him play, although I am much in love with Elliot. He is a wonderful dancer," she says, "and very romantic. I met him in Atlantic City last summer. Now we are

Naturally, I do not blame the Harvards for going away in great haste, for Liverlips is such a looking guy as you will figure to take great delight in carving off ears. Furthermore, Nubby Taylor and Benny South Street and Jew Louie and even Sam the Gonoph commence exchanging such glances with other Harvards around us who are making cracks at our little doll that presently there is almost a dead silence in our neighborhood, except for our little doll yelling, "Hold 'em, Yale!" You see by this time we are all very fond of our little doll because she is so cute looking and has so much zing in her, and we do not wish anybody making cracks at her or at us either, and especially at us.

In fact, we are so fond of her that when she happens to mention that she is a little chilly, Jew Louie and Nubby Taylor slip around among the Harvards and come back with four steamer rugs, six mufflers, two pairs of gloves, and a thermos bottle full of hot coffee for her, and Jew Louie says to just say the word. But she already has a mink coat. Furthermore, Jew Louie brings eloping," she says, "because my father does not care for Elliot whatever."

Well, pretty soon we are inside the Bowl and sitting in seats as good as any in the joint. It seems we are right in the middle of all the Harvards and they are making an awful racket, what with yelling, and singing, and one thing and another, because it seems the game is going on when we get in, and that the Harvards are shoving the Yales around more than somewhat. So our little doll lets everybody know she is in favor of the Yales by yelling, "Hold 'em, Yale!"

Personally, I cannot tell which are the Harvards and which are the Yales at first, and Sam the Gonoph and the others are as dumb as I am, but she explains the Harvards are wearing the red shirts and the Yales the blue shirts, and by and by we are yelling for the Yales to hold 'em, too, although of course it is only on account of our little doll wishing the Yales to hold 'em, and not because any of us care one way or the other.

Well, it seems that the idea of a lot of guys and a little doll getting right among them and yelling for the Yales to hold 'em is very repulsive to the Harvards around us, although any of them must admit it is very good advice to the Yales, at that, and some of them start making cracks of one kind and another, especially at our little doll.

A couple of Harvards sitting in front of old Liverlips are imitating our little doll's voice, and making guys around them laugh very heartily, but all of a sudden these parties leave their seats and go away in great haste, their faces very pale, indeed, and I figure maybe they are both taken sick at the same moment, but afterwards I learn that her a big bunch of red flowers that he finds on a doll with one of the Harvards, and he is much disappointed when she says it is the wrong color for her.

Well, finally the game is over, and I do not remember much about it, although afterwards I hear that our little doll's brother John plays substitute for the Yales very good. But it seems that the Harvards win, and our little doll is very sad indeed about this, and is sitting there looking out over the field, which is now covered with guys dancing around as if they all suddenly go daffy, and it seems they are all Harvards, because there is really no reason for the Yales to do any dancing.

ALL of a sudden our little doll looks toward one end of the field, and says as follows:

"Oh, they are going to take our goal posts!"

Sure enough, a lot of the Harvards are gathering around the posts at this end of the field, and are pulling and hauling at the posts, which seem to be very stout posts, indeed. Personally, I will not give you eight cents for these posts, but afterwards one of the Yales tells me that when a football team wins a game it is considered the proper caper for this team's boosters to grab the other guy's goal posts. But he is not able to tell me what good the posts are after they get them, and this is one thing that will always be a mystery to me.

Anyway, while we are watching the goings-on around the goal posts, our little doll says come on and jumps up and runs down an aisle and out onto the field, and into the crowd around the goal posts, so naturally we follow her. Somehow she manages to wiggle through the crowd of Harvards around the posts, and the next thing anybody knows she shins up one of the posts faster than you can say seat, and pretty soon is roosting out on the cross-bar between the posts like a chipmunk.

Afterwards she explains that her idea is the Harvards will not be ungentlemanly enough to pull down the goal posts with a lady roosting on them, but it seems these Harvards are no gentlemen, and keep on pulling, and the posts commence to teeter, and our little doll is teetering with them, although of course she is in no danger if she falls because she is sure to fall on the Harvards' noggins, and the way I look at it, the noggin of anybody who will be found giving any time to pulling down goal posts is apt to be soft enough to break a very long fall.

Now Sam the Gonoph and old Liverlips and Nubby Taylor and Benny South Street and Jew Louie and I reach the crowd around the goal posts at about smacks old Liverlips on the left ear, while Jew Louie and Nubby Taylor and Benny South Street are shoved around quite some.

"All right," Sam the Gonoph says, as soon as he can pull his hat off his eyes, "All right, gentlemen, if you wish to play this way. Now, boys, let them have it!"

So Sam the Gonoph and Nubby Taylor and Jew Louie and Benny South Street and old Liverlips begin letting them have it, and what they let them have it with is not only their dukes, but with the good old difference in their dukes, because these guys are by no means suckers when it comes to a battle, and they all carry something in their pockets to put in their dukes in case of a fight, such as a dollar's worth of nickels rolled up tight.

Furthermore, they are using the old leather, kicking guys in the stomach when they are not able to hit them on the chin, and Liverlips is also using his noodle to good advantage, grabbing guys by their coat lapels and yanking them into him so he can butt them between the eyes with his noggin, and I wish to say that old Liverlips' noggin is a very dangerous weapon at all times.

Well, the ground around them is soon covered with Harvards, and it seems that some Yales are also mixed up with them, being Yales who think Sam the Gonoph and his guys are other Yales defending the goal posts, and wishing to help out. But of course Sam the Gonoph and his guys cannot tell the Yales from the Harvards, and do not have time to ask which is which, so they are just letting everybody have it who comes along. And while all this is going on our little doll is sitting up on the cross-bar and yelling plenty of encouragement to Sam and his guys.

Now it turns out that these Harvards are by no means soft touches in a scrabble such as this, and as fast as they are flattened they get up and keep belting away, and while the old experience is running for Sam the Gonoph and Jew Louie and Nubby Taylor and Benny South Street and old Liverlips early in the fight, the Harvards have youth in their favor.

PRETTY soon the Harvards are knocking down Sam the Gonoph, then they start knocking down Nubby Taylor, and by and by they are knocking down Benny South Street and Jew Louie and Liverlips, and it is so much fun that the Harvards forget all about the goal posts. Of course as fast as Sam the Gonoph and his guys are knocked down they also get up, but the Harvards are too many for them, and they are getting an awful shelling when the nine-foot guy who flattens me, and who is knocking down Sam the Gonoph, so often he is becoming a great nuisance to Sam the Gonoph.

"Listen," he says, "these are game guys, even if they do go to Yale. Let us cease knocking them down," he says, "and give them a cheer."

So the Harvards knock down Sam the Gonoph and Nubby Taylor and Jew Louie and Benny South Street and old Liverlips just once more and then all the Harvards put their heads together and say rah-rah-rah, very loud, and go away, leaving the goal posts still standing, with our little doll still roosting on the cross-bar, although afterwards I hear some Harvards who are not in the fight get the posts at the other end of the field and sneak away with them. But I always claim these posts do not count.

WELL, sitting there on the ground because he is too tired to get up from the last knockdown, and holding one hand to his right eye, which is closed tight, Sam the Gonoph is by no means a well guy, and all around and about him is much suffering among his crew. But our little doll is hopping up and down chattering like a jaybird and running between old Liverlips, who is stretched out against one goal post, and Nubby Taylor, who is leaning up against the other, and she is trying to mop the blood off their kissers with a handkerchief the size of a postage stamp.

Benny South Street is laying across Jew Louie and both are still snoring from the last knockdown, and the Bowl is now pretty much deserted except for the newspaper scribes away up in the press box, who do not seem to realize that the Battle of the Century just comes off in front of them. It is coming on dark, when all of a sudden a guy pops up out of the dusk wearing white spats and an overcoat with a fur collar, and he rushes up to our little doll.

"Clarice," he says, "I am looking for you high and low. My train is stalled for hours because of a wreck the other side of Bridgeport, and I get here just after the game is over. But," he says, "I figure you will be waiting somewhere for me. Let us hurry on to Hartford, darling," he says.

Well, when he hears this voice, Sam the Gonoph opens his good eye wide and takes a peek at the guy. Then all of a sudden Sam jumps up and wobbles over to the guy and hits him a smack between the eyes. Sam is wobbling because his legs are not so good from the shelling he takes off the Harvards, and furthermore he is away off in his punching as the guy only goes to his knees and comes right up standing again as our little doll lets out a screech and speaks as follows:

"Oo-oo!" she says. "Do not hit Elliot! He is not after our goal posts!"

"Elliot?" Sam the Gonoph says. "This is no Elliot. This is nobody but Gigolo Georgie. I can tell him by his white spats," Sam says, "and I am now going to get even for the pasting I take from the Harvards."

Then he nails the guy again and this time he seems to have a little more on his punch, for the guy goes down and Sam the Gonoph gives him the leather very good, although our little doll is still screeching, and begging Sam not to hurt Elliot. But of course the rest of us know it is not Elliot, no matter what he may tell her, but only Gigolo Georgie.

WELL, the rest of us figure we may as well take a little something out of Georgie's hide, too, but as we start for him he gives a quick wiggle and hops to his feet and tears across the field, and the last we see of him is his white spats flying through one of the portals.

Now a couple of other guys come up out of the dusk, and one of them is a tall, fine-looking guy with a white mustache and anybody can see that he is somebody, and what happens but our little doll runs right into his arms and kisses him on the white mustache and calls him daddy and starts to cry more than somewhat, so I can see we lose our little doll then and there. And now the guy with the white mustache walks up to Sam the Gonoph and sticks out his duke and says as follows:

"Sir," he says, "permit me the honor of shaking the hand which does me the very signal service of chastising the scoundrel who just escapes from the field. And," he says, "permit me to introduce myself to you. I am J. Hildreth Van Cleave, president of the Van Cleave Trust. I am notified early today by Miss Peevy of my daughter's sudden departure from school, and we learn she purchases a ticket for New Haven. I at once suspect this fellow has something to do with it. Fortunately," he says, "I have these private detectives here keeping tab on him for some time, knowing my child's schoolgirl infatuation for him, so we easily trail him here. We are on the train with him, and arrive in time for your last little scene with him. Sir," he says, "again I thank you."

"I know who you are, Mr. Van Cleave," Sam the Gonoph says. "You are the Van Cleave who is down to his last forty million. But," he says, "do not thank me for putting the slug on Gigolo Georgie. He is a bum in spades, and I am only sorry he fools your nice little kid even for a minute, although," Sam says, "I figure she must be dumber than she looks to be fooled by such a guy as Gigolo Georgie."

"I hate him," the little doll says. "I hate him because he is a coward. He does not stand up and fight when he is hit like you and Liverlips and the others. I never wish to see him again."

"Do not worry," Sam the Gonoph says. "I will be too close to Gigolo Georgie as soon as I recover from my wounds for him to stay in this part of the country."

Well, I do not see Sam the Gonoph or Nubby Taylor or Benny South Street or Jew Louie or Liverlips for nearly a year after this, and then it comes on fall again and one day I get to thinking that here it is Friday and the next day the Harvards are playing the Yales a large football game in Boston.

I figure it is a great chance for me to join up with Sam the Gonoph again and hustle duckets for him for this game, and I know Sam will be leaving along about midnight with his crew. So I go over to the Grand Central station at such a time, and sure enough he comes along by and by, hustling through the crowd in the station with Nubby Taylor and Benny South Street and Jew Louie and old Liverlips at his heels, and they seem very much excited.

"WELL, Sam," I say, as I hurry along with them, "here I am ready to hustle duckets for you again, and I hope and trust we do a nice business."

"Duckets!" Sam the Gonoph says. "We are not hustling duckets for this game, although you can go with us, and welcome. We are going to Boston," he says, "to meet for the Yales to kick 'em out of the Harvards and we are going as the personal guests of Miss Clarice Van Cleave and her old man."

"Hold 'em, Yale!" old Liverlips says, as he pushes me to one side and the whole bunch goes trotting through the gate to catch their train, and I then notice they are all wearing blue feathers in their hats with a little white Y on these feathers such as college guys always wear at football games, and that moreover Sam the Gonoph is carrying a Yale pennant.

WHAT I am doing in New Haven, on the day of a very large football game between the Harvards and the Yales is something which calls for quite a little explanation, because I am not such a guy as you will expect to find in New Haven at any time, and especially on the day of a large football game.

But there I am, and the reason I am there goes back to a Friday night when I am sitting in Mindy's restaurant on Broadway thinking of very little except how I can get hold of a few potatoes to take care of the old overhead. And while I am sitting there, who comes in but Sam the Gonoph, who is a ticket speculator by trade, and who seems to be looking all around and about.

Well, Sam the Gonoph gets to talking to me, and it turns out that he is looking for a guy by the name of Gigolo Georgie, who is called Gigolo Georgie because he is always hanging around night clubs wearing a little mustache and white spats, and dancing with old dolls. In fact, Gigolo Georgie is nothing but a gentleman bum, and I am surprised that Sam the Gonoph is looking for him.

But it seems that the reason Sam the Gonoph wishes to find Gigolo Georgie is to give him a good punch in the snoot, because it seems that Gigolo Georgie promotes Sam for several duckets to the large football game between the Harvards and the Yales to sell on commission, and never kicks back anything whatever to Sam. Naturally Sam considers Gigolo Georgie nothing but a rascal for doing such a thing to him, and Sam says he will find Gigolo Georgie and give him a going-over if it is the last act of his life.

Well, then Sam explains to me that he has quite a few nice duckets for the large football game between the Harvards and the Yales and that he is taking a crew of guys with him to New Haven the next day to hustle these duckets, and what about me going along and helping to hustle these duckets and making a few bobs for myself, which is an invitation that sounds very pleasant to me, indeed.

Now of course it is very difficult for anybody to get nice duckets to a large football game between the Harvards and the Yales unless they are personally college guys, and Sam the Gonoph is by no means a college guy. In fact, the nearest Sam ever comes to a college is once when he is passing through the yard belonging to the Princetons, but Sam is on the fly at the time as a gendarme is after him, so he does not really see much of the college.

But every college guy is entitled to duckets to a large football game with which his college is connected, and it is really surprising how many college guys do not care to see large football games even after they get their duckets, especially if a ticket spec such as Sam the Gonoph comes along offering them a few bobs more than the duckets are worth. I suppose this is because a college guy figures he can see a large football game when he is old, while many things are taking place around and about that it is necessary for him to see while he is young enough to really enjoy them, such as the Follies.

ANYWAY, many college guys are always willing to listen to reason when Sam the Gonoph comes around offering to buy their duckets, and then Sam takes these duckets and sells them to customers for maybe ten times the price the duckets call for, and in this way Sam does very good for himself.

I know Sam the Gonoph for maybe twenty years, and always he is speculating in duckets of one kind and another. Sometimes it is duckets for the world's series, and sometimes for big fights, and sometimes it is duckets for nothing but lawn-tennis games, although why anybody wishes to see such a thing as lawn-tennis is always a very great mystery to Sam the Gonoph and everybody else.

But in all those years I see Sam dodging around under the feet of the crowds at these large events, or running through the special trains offering to buy or sell duckets, I never hear of Sam personally attending any of these events, or a fight, for Sam has practically no interest in anything but a little profit on his duckets.

He is a short, chunky, black-looking guy with a big beeper, and he is always sweating even on a cold day, and he comes from down around Essex Street, on the lower East Side. Moreover, Sam the Gonoph's crew generally comes from the lower East Side, too, for as Sam goes along he makes plenty of potatoes for himself and branches out quite some, and has a lot of assistants hustling duckets around these different events.

When Sam is younger, the cops consider him hard to get along with, and in fact his monicker, the Gonoph, comes from his young days down on the lower East Side, and I hear it is Yiddish for thief, but of course as Sam gets older and starts gathering plenty of potatoes, he will not think of stealing anything. At least not much, and especially if it is anything that is nailed down.

WELL, anyway, I meet Sam the Gonoph and his crew at the information desk in the Grand Central the next morning, and this is how I came to be in New Haven on the day of the large football game between the Harvards and the Yales.

For such a game as this, Sam has all his best hustlers, including such as Jew Louie, Nubbys Taylor, Benny South Street and old Liverlips, and to look at these parties you will never suspect that they are top-notch ducket hustlers.

Now while we are hustling these duckets out around the main-gates of the Yale Bowl I notice a very beautiful little doll of maybe sixteen or seventeen standing around watching the crowd, and I can see she is waiting for somebody, as many dolls often do at football games. But I can also see that this little doll is very much worried as the crowd keeps going in, and it is getting on toward game time. In fact, by and by I can see this little doll has tears in her eyes and if there is anything I hate to see it is tears in a doll's eyes.

So finally I go over to her, and I say as follows:

"What is eating you, little Miss?"

"Oh," she says, "I am waiting for Elliot. He is to come up from New York and meet me here to take me to the game, but he is not here yet, and I am afraid something happens to him. Furthermore," she says, the tears in her eyes getting very large, indeed, "I am afraid I will miss the game because he has my ticket."

"Why," I say, "this is a very simple proposition. I will sell you a choice ducket for only a sawbuck, which is ten dollars in your language."

"But," she says, "I do not have ten dollars. In fact, I have only fifty cents left in my purse, and this is worrying me very much, for what will I do if Elliot does not meet me? You see," she says, "I come from Miss Peevy's school at Worcester, and I only have enough money to pay my railroad fare here, and of course I cannot ask Miss Peevy for any money as I do not wish her to know I am going away."

Well, naturally all this is commencing to sound to me like a hard-luck story such as any doll is apt to tell, so I go on about my business because I figure she will next be trying to put the lug on me for a ducket, or maybe for her railroad fare back to Worcester.

Well, by this time the crowd is nearly all in the Bowl, and only a few parties such as coppers and hustlers of one kind and another are left standing outside, and there is much cheering going on inside, when Sam the Gonoph comes up looking very much disgusted, and speaks as follows:

"What do you think?" Sam says. "I am left with seven duckets on my hands, and these guys around here will not pay as much as face value for them, and they stand me better than three bucks over that. Well," Sam says, "I am certainly not going to let them go for less than they call for if I have to eat them. What do you guys say we use these duckets ourselves and go in and see the game? Personally," Sam says, "I often wish to see one of these large football games just to find out what makes suckers willing to pay so much for duckets."

Well, this seems to strike one and all, including myself, so we start for the gate, and as we pass the little doll who is still crying, I say to Sam the Gonoph, like this:

"Listen, Sam," I say, "you have seven duckets, and we are only six, and here is a little doll who is stood up by her guy, and has no ducket, and no potatoes to buy one with, so what about taking her with us?"

Well, this is all right with Sam the Gonoph, and none of the others object, so I step up to the little doll and invite her to go with us, and right away she stops crying and begins smiling, and saying we are very kind indeed. She gives Sam the Gonoph an extra big smile, and right away Sam is saying she is very cute, indeed, and then she gives old Liverlips an even bigger smile, and what is more she takes old Liverlips by the arm and walks with him, and old Liverlips is not only very much astonished, but very much pleased. In fact, old Liverlips begins stepping out very aprry, and Liverlips is not such a guy as cares to have any part of dolls, young or old. But while walking with old Liverlips, the little doll talks very friendly to Jew Louie and to Nubbys Taylor and Benny South Street, and even to me, and by and by you will think to see us that we are all her uncles, although of course if this little doll really knows who she is with, the chances are she will start chucking faints one after the other.

ANYBODY can see that she has very little experience in this wicked old world, and in fact is somewhat rattle-headed, because she gabs away very freely about her personal business. In fact, before we are in the Bowl she lets it out that she runs away from Miss Peevy's school to elope with this Elliot, and she says the idea is they are to be married in Hartford after the game. In fact, she says Elliot wishes to go to Hartford and be married before the game.

"But," she says, "my brother John is playing substitute with the Yales today, and I cannot think of getting married to anybody before I see him play, although I am much in love with Elliot. He is a wonderful dancer," she says, "and very romantic. I met him in Atlantic City last summer. Now we are eloping," she says, "because my father does not care for Elliot whatever."

Well, pretty soon we are inside the Bowl and sitting in seats as good as any in the joint. It seems we are right in the middle of all the Harvards and they are making an awful racket, what with yelling, and singing, and one thing and another, because it seems the game is going on when we get in, and that the Harvards are shoving the Yales around more than somewhat. So our little doll lets everybody know she is in favor of the Yales by yelling, "Hold 'em, Yale!"

Personally, I cannot tell which are the Harvards and which are the Yales at first, and Sam the Gonoph and the others are as dumb as I am, but she explains the Harvards are wearing the red shirts and the Yales the blue shirts, and by and by we are yelling for the Yales to hold 'em, too, although of course it is only on account of our little doll wishing the Yales to hold 'em, and not because any of us care one way or the other.

Well, it seems that the idea of a lot of guys and a little doll getting right among them and yelling for the Yales to hold 'em is very repulsive to the Harvards around us, although any of them must admit it is very good advice to the Yales, at that, and some of them start making cracks of one kind and another, especially at our little doll.

A couple of Harvards sitting in front of old Liverlips are imitating our little doll's voice, and making guys around them laugh very heartily, but all of a sudden these parties leave their seats and go away in great haste, their faces very pale, indeed, and I figure maybe they are both taken sick at the same moment, but afterwards I learn that

Liverlips takes a big shiv out of his pocket and opens it and tells them very confidentially that he is going to carve their ears off.

Naturally, I do not blame the Harvards for going away in great haste, for Liverlips is such a looking guy as you will figure to take great delight in carving off ears. Furthermore, Nubbys Taylor and Benny South Street and Jew Louie and even Sam the Gonoph commence exchanging such glances with other Harvards around us who are making cracks at our little doll that presently there is almost a dead silence in our neighborhood, except for our little doll yelling, "Hold 'em, Yale!" You see by this time we are all very fond of our little doll because she is so cute looking and has so much zing in her, and we do not wish anybody making cracks at her or at us either, and especially at us.

In fact, we are so fond of her that when she happens to mention that she is a little chilly, Jew Louie and Nubbys Taylor slip around among the Harvards and come back with four steamer rugs, six mufflers, two pairs of gloves, and a thermos bottle full of hot coffee for her, and Jew Louie says if she wishes a mink coat to just say the word. But she already has a mink coat. Furthermore, Jew Louie brings of Harvards around the posts, and the next thing anybody knows she shines up one of the posts faster than you can say seat, and pretty soon is roosting out on the cross-bar between the posts like a chipmunk.

Afterwards she explains that her idea is the Harvards will not be ungentlemanly enough to pull down the goal posts with a lady roosting on them, but it seems these Harvards are no gentlemen, and keep on pulling, and the posts commence to teeter, and our little doll is teetering with them, although of course she is in no danger if she falls because she is sure to fall on the Harvards' noggin, and the way I look at it, the noggin of anybody who will be found giving any time to pulling down goal posts is apt to be soft enough to break a very long fall.

Now Sam the Gonoph and old Liverlips and Nubbys Taylor and Benny South Street and Jew Louie and I reach the crowd around the goal posts at about

"Do not let them take our posts!"

Well, about this time one of the Harvards who seems to be about nine feet high reaches over six other guys and hits me on the chin and knocks me so far that when I pick myself up I am pretty well out of the way of everybody and have a chance to see what is going on.

Afterwards somebody tells me that the guy probably thinks I am one of the Yales coming to the rescue of the goal posts but I wish to say I will always have a very low opinion of college guys, because I remember two other guys punch me as I am going through the air, unable to defend myself.

ALL of a sudden our little doll looks toward one end of the field, and says as follows:

"Oh, they are going to take our goal posts!"

Sure enough, a lot of the Harvards are gathering around the posts at this end of the field, and are pulling and hauling at the posts, which seem to be very stout posts, indeed. Personally, I will not give you eight cents for these posts, but afterwards one of the Yales tells me that when a football team wins a game it is considered the proper caper for this team's boosters to grab the other guy's goal posts. But he is not able to tell me what good the posts are after they get them, and this is one thing that will always be a mystery to me.

Anyway, while we are watching the goings-on around the goal posts, our little doll says come on and jumps up and runs down an aisle and out onto the field, and into the crowd around the goal posts, so naturally we follow her. Somehow she manages to wiggle through the crowd the same time, and our little doll sees us from her roost and yells to us as follows:

Now Sam the Gonoph and Nubbys Taylor and Jew Louie and Benny South Street and old Liverlips somehow manage to ease their way through the crowd until they are under the goal posts, and our little doll is much pleased to see them, because the Harvards are now making the posts teeter more than somewhat with their pulling, and it looks as if the posts will go any minute.

Of course Sam the Gonoph does not wish any trouble with these parties, and he tries to speak nicely to the guys who are pulling at the posts, saying as follows:

"Listen," Sam says, "the little doll up there does not wish you to take these posts."

Well, maybe they do not hear Sam's words in the confusion, or if they do hear them they do not wish to pay any attention to them for one of the Harvards mashes Sam's derby hat down over his eyes, and another smacks old Liverlips on the left ear, while Jew Louie and Nubbys Taylor and Benny South Street are shoved around quite some.

"All right," Sam the Gonoph says, as soon as he can pull his hat off his eyes, "All right, gentlemen, if you wish to play this way. Now, boys, let them have it!"

So Sam the Gonoph and Nubbys Taylor and Jew Louie and Benny South Street and old Liverlips begin letting them have it, and what they let them have it with is not only their dukes, but with the good old difference in their dukes, because these guys are by no means suckers when it comes to a battle, and they all carry something in their pockets to put in their dukes in case of a fight, such as a dollar's worth of nickels rolled up tight.

Furthermore, they are using the old leather, kicking guys in the stomach when they are not able to hit them on the chin, and Liverlips is also using his noodle to good advantage, grabbing guys by their coat lapels and yanking them into him so he can butt them between the eyes with his noggin, and I wish to say that old Liverlips' noggin is a very dangerous weapon at all times.

Well, the ground around them is soon covered with Harvards, and it seems that some Yales are also mixed up with them, being Yales who think Sam the Gonoph and his guys are other Yales defending the goal posts, and wishing to help out. But of course Sam the Gonoph and his guys cannot tell the Yales from the Harvards, and do not have time to ask which is which, so they are just letting everybody have it who comes along. And while all this is going on our little doll is sitting up on the cross-bar and yelling plenty of encouragement to Sam and his guys.

Now it turns out that these Harvards are by no means soft touches in a scrabble such as this, and as fast as they are flattened they get up and keep belting away, and while the old experience is running for Sam the Gonoph and Jew Louie and Nubbys Taylor and Benny South Street and old Liverlips early in the fight, the Harvards have youth in their favor.

PRETTY soon the Harvards are knocking down Sam the Gonoph, then they start knocking down Nubbys Taylor, and by and by they are knocking down Benny South Street and Jew Louie and Liverlips, and it is so much fun that the Harvards forget all about the goal posts. Of course as fast as Sam the Gonoph and his guys are knocked down they also get up, but the Harvards are too many for them, and they are getting an awful shellacking when the nine-foot guy who flattens me, and who is knocking down Sam the Gonoph so often he is becoming a great nuisance to Sam, sings out:

"Listen," he says, "these are game guys, even if they do go to Yale. Let us cease knocking them down," he says, "and give them a cheer."

So the Harvards knock down Sam the Gonoph and Nubbys Taylor and Jew Louie and Benny South Street and old Liverlips just once more and then all the Harvards put their heads together and say rah-rah-rah, very loud, and go away, leaving the goal posts still standing, with our little doll still roosting on the cross-bar, although afterwards I hear some Harvards who are not in the fight get the posts at the other end of the field and sneak away with them. But I always claim these posts do not count.

WELL, sitting there on the ground because he is too tired to get up from the last knockdown, and holding one hand to his right eye, which is closed tight, Sam the Gonoph is by no means a well guy, and all around and about him is much suffering among his crew. But our little doll is hopping up and down chattering like a jaybird and running between old Liverlips, who is stretched out against one goal post, and Nubbys Taylor, who is leaning up against the other, and she is trying to mop the blood off their kissers with a handkerchief the size of a postage stamp.

Benny South Street is laying across Jew Louie and both are still snoring from the last knockdown, and the Bowl is now pretty much deserted except for the newspaper scribes away up in the press box, who do not seem to realize that the Battle of the Century just comes off in front of them. It is coming on dark, when all of a sudden a guy pops up out of the dusk wearing white spats and an overcoat with a fur collar, and he rushes up to our little doll.

"Clarice," he says, "I am looking for you high and low. My train is stalled for hours behind a wreck the other side of Bridgeport, and I get here just after the game is over. But," he says, "I figure you will be waiting somewhere for me. Let us hurry on to Hartford, darling," he says.

Well, when he hears his voice, Sam the Gonoph opens his good eye wide and takes a peek at the guy. Then all of a sudden Sam jumps up and wobbles over to the guy and hits him a smack between the eyes. Sam is wobbling because his legs are not so good from the shellacking he takes off the Harvards, and furthermore he is away off in his punching as the guy only goes to his knees and comes right up standing again as our little doll lets out a screech and speaks as follows:

"Oo-oo!" she says. "Do not hit Elliot! He is not after our goal posts!"

"Elliot?" Sam the Gonoph says. "This is no Elliot. This is nobody but Gigolo Georgie. I can tell him by his white spats," Sam says, "and I am now going to get even for the pasting I take from the Harvards."

Then he nails the guy again and this time he seems to have a little more on his punch, for the guy goes down and Sam the Gonoph gives him the leather very good, although our little doll is still screeching, and begging Sam not to hurt Elliot. But of course the rest of us know it is not Elliot, no matter what he may tell her, but only Gigolo Georgie.

WELL, the rest of us figure we may as well take a little something out of Georgie's hide, too, but as we start for him he gives a quick wiggle and hops to his feet and tears across the field, and the last we see of him is his white spats flying through one of the portals.

Now a couple of other guys come up out of the dusk, and one of them is a tall, fine-looking guy with a white mustache and anybody can see that he is somebody, and what happens but our little doll runs right into his arms and kisses him on the white mustache and calls him daddy and starts to cry more than somewhat, so I can see we lose our little doll then and there. And now the guy with the white mustache walks up to Sam the Gonoph and sticks out his duke and says as follows:

"Sir," he says, "permit me the honor of shaking the hand which does me the very signal service of chastising the scoundrel who just escapes from the field. And," he says, "permit me to introduce myself to you. I am J. Hildreth Van Cleve, president of the Van Cleve Trust. I am notified early today by Miss Peevy of my daughter's sudden departure from school, and we learn she purchases a ticket for New Haven. I at once suspect this fellow has something to do with it. Fortunately," he says, "I have these private detectives here keeping tab on him for some time, knowing my child's schoolgirl infatuation for him, so we easily trail him here. We are on the train with him, and arrive in time for your last little scene with him. Sir," he says, "again I thank you."

"I know who you are, Mr. Van Cleve," Sam the Gonoph says. "You are the Van Cleve who is down to his last forty million. But," he says, "do not thank me for putting the slug on Gigolo Georgie. He is a bum in spades, and I am only sorry he fools your nice little kid even for a minute, although," Sam says, "I figure she must be dumber than she looks to be fooled by such a guy as Gigolo Georgie."

"I hate him," the little doll says. "I hate him because he is a coward. He does not stand up and fight when he is hit like you and Liverlips and the others. I never wish to see him again."

"Do not worry," Sam the Gonoph says. "I will be too close to Gigolo Georgie as soon as I recover from my wounds for him to stay in this part of the country."

Well, I do not see Sam the Gonoph or Nubbys Taylor or Benny South Street or Jew Louie or Liverlips for nearly a year after this, and then it comes on fall again and one day I get to thinking that here it is Friday and the next day the Harvards are playing the Yales a large football game in Boston.

I figure it is a great chance for me to join up with Sam the Gonoph again and hustle duckets for him for this game, and I know Sam will be leaving along about midnight with his crew. So I go over to the Grand Central station at such a time, and sure enough he comes along by and by, bustling through the crowd in the station with Nubbys Taylor and Benny South Street and Jew Louie and old Liverlips at his heels, and they seem very much excited.

"WELL, Sam," I say, as I hurry along with them, "here I am ready to hustle duckets for you again, and I hope and trust we do a nice business."

"Duckets!" Sam the Gonoph says. "We are not hustling duckets for this game, although you can go with us, and welcome. We are going to Boston," he says, "to root for the Yales to kick hell out of the Harvards and we are going as the personal guests of Miss Clarice Van Cleve and her old man."

"Hold 'em, Yale!" old Liverlips says, as he pushes me to one side and the whole bunch goes trotting through the gate to catch their train, and I then notice they are all wearing blue feathers in their hats with a little white Y on these feathers such as college guys always wear at football games, and that moreover Sam the Gonoph is carrying a Yale pennant.

COME ON, YOU FOOTBALL FANS! LET'S SEE IF YOU CAN REARRANGE ALL THE LETTERS IN EACH ROW TO SPELL THE NAMES OF SEVEN LARGE COLLEGE FOOTBALL TEAMS IN THE UNITED STATES.

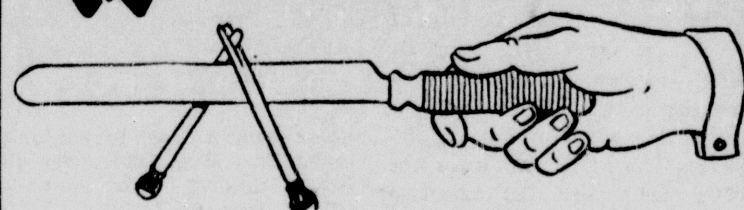

THE TOP GROUP WILL SPELL "ARMY" FOR EXAMPLE.
A.W. NUGENT

THIS HEAD WAS MADE OF THE FIGURES FROM 0 TO 9. LET'S SEE WHAT YOU CAN MAKE.

Eleanor:
I --- glad to --- back
at --- again. Did --- know
I was --- to the --- grade? Our --- gives us --- home work --- we --- last term. --- over to --- me --- you can.
Your --- Marion.

THE NUMBER OF LETTERS IN EACH MISSING WORD, IN THE ABOVE LETTER, ARE INDICATED BY THE DASHES. CAN YOU FILL IN THE SPACES CORRECTLY?

WALKING MATCHES

ALL YOU NEED ARE TWO WOODEN MATCHES AND A KNIFE TO PERFORM THIS CLEVER TRICK. SPLIT THE END OF ONE MATCH AND SHARPEN THE END OF THE OTHER AS SHOWN ABOVE. HOLD THE KNIFE HORIZONTALLY, AS STEADY AS POSSIBLE SO THAT THE EDGE DOES NOT SLOPE AND SO THE HEADS OF THE MATCHES TOUCH THE TOP OF A TABLE VERY LIGHTLY. TO YOUR SURPRISE THE MATCHES WILL BEGIN TO WALK UP OR DOWN THE KNIFE BLADE.

HERE'S THE SECRET... THE PULSE BEAT CAUSES THE KNIFE TO MOVE, THUS SHAKING THE MATCHES ALONG.

START

TYOU CAN PLAY THIS GAME ALONE WITH AN IMAGINARY OPPONENT OR WITH ANOTHER PERSON. EACH PLAYER MUST HAVE A COUNTER, DIFFERENT COLORED BUTTONS WILL DO, TO MOVE ALONG THE LINE FROM DOT TO DOT TO REPRESENT THE ANIMALS. ALL MOVES ARE DECIDED BY FLIPPING A COIN. THE WINNER OF EACH TOSS ADVANCES HIS COUNTER ALONG THE LINE TO THE NEXT DOT. THE PLAYER WHO REACHES THE FINISH FIRST WINS.

HERE'S AN OLD ILLUSION THAT IS WORTH REPUBLISHING... COUNT THE CUBES AND WATCH THEM CHANGE FROM 6 TO 7 OR FROM 7 TO 6. STUDY THEM CAREFULLY.

A.W. NUGENT

CHALLENGE YOUR FRIENDS TO DRAW THIS → DIAGRAM WITHOUT LIFTING THEIR PENCILS... THEY WILL UNDOUBTEDLY SAY IT'S IMPOSSIBLE.

THEN YOU FOLD A PIECE OF PAPER AS SHOWN BELOW AND DRAW THREE CIRCLES, ALSO A HALF OVAL; THEN UNFOLD THE PAPER WITHOUT LIFTING YOUR PENCIL AND CONTINUE TO DRAW THE OTHER HALF OF THE OVAL.

A.W. NUGENT

KEEP YOUR
OMMH PKIA CBEM BRXBPT DKXBAF
DZM TIGTZJGM BGF DZM TZBFKXT
XJRR CBRR LMZJGF PKI.

CAN YOU READ THE ABOVE CRYPTOGRAM? THE MESSAGE IS CONCEALED BY REPLACING EACH LETTER WITH ANOTHER LETTER OF THE ALPHABET. THUS, THE FIRST WORD WHICH IS "KEEP" APPEARS IN THE CRYPTOGRAM AS "OMMH". EACH LETTER IS ALWAYS REPRESENTED THROUGHOUT THE CRYPTOGRAM BY THE SAME CODE LETTER, JUST AS BOTH E'S IN "KEEP" ARE CODED BY THE LETTER "M". SPACES AND PUNCTUATION ARE RETAINED.

A CERTAIN LITTLE PIG WAS SUPPOSED TO GO TO MARKET BUT HE DIDN'T. HE'S HIDING RIGHT HERE.

TRY TO FIND HIM.

A.W. NUGENT

FIRST COLOR THIS PICTURE AND THEN CUT OUT THE ENTIRE SKETCH AROUND THE OUTLINE.

A DRAWING LESSON FOR CHILDREN. FIRST DRAW AN OBLONG.

THEN ADD THESE FEW LINES —

AND THEN THE FINISHING TOUCHES.
